On Wednesday afternoon and evening, league golf play will play its "World Series," with the S. & L. Company team meeting the KTRF squad for the city championship. Other matches scheduled for Wednesday will find the teams playing in inter-league competition, with the Hardware Mutual meeting the First Federal team, Kelly Hardware vs. Lincoln Life, Bredeson Cleaners vs. Falls Theater, Union State Bank vs. Tunberg Motor, The Larson Company vs. Poppler's Furniture, Jung's Bakery vs. Bridgeman's, and the Ace Hardware vs. Lieberman's.

In the individual point competition, Phil LeGault, the S. & L. team's number two player, totaled 41½ points for top honors in the National league. Roy Oen, playing as the number three man on the Falls Theatre squad, scored 38½ points to win first place in the American league.

Other top-ranking point-winners in the National league were Russ Embury with 39 points, Gust Craft and Dr. Phil Parker, each of whom had 38½ points. Trailing Roy Oen in the American league were "Red" Korteum and Dr. Bill Feigal, each with 38 points, and Stan Larson with 37½ points.

Fricker New Head of N. W. Bankers

Holt Banker Elected at Meeting Near Baudette

The Northwest division of the Minnesota Bankers association held its annual summer meeting and election of officers July 11 and 12 at Ogren's Resort on Lake of the Woods.

George Fricker, cashier of the Marshall County State bank at Holt, was elected president of the group, succeeding Carl Stone of Baudette.

Other officers named include S. J. Bredeson of Middle River, vice president; Richard Schirber of Warren, secretary-treasurer; and B. Folland of Karlstad, director.

A banquet was served Saturday evening, with F. L. Parsons, assistant director of research with the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis, as principal speaker.

A dozen Thief River Falls people attended the meeting.

Pirates vs. Thieves at Red Lake Falls

The Crookston Pirates and the Thief River Falls Thieves will play their important Red River Valley league game at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night. This change was made in order to avoid conflict with the American Legion sub-district tournament being played at Argyle on Sunday afternoon. Sid Vraa, Joey Poole, and Jack Hoppe, all of whom are important members of the Thieves club, are also key players on Ralph Skjod's local junior team. If the local juniors are successful in their first round game at Argyle on Saturday afternoon, they will enter the finals on Sunday afternoon. The change in the Crookston vs. Thieves game was made so that those boys can play in both games on Sunday.

Business manager Harold Johnson announced that all season tickets will be honored at Sunday night's game at Red Lake Falls. Given favorable weather, it is expected that season's largest crowd will be on hand to witness the tussle between the Pirates and the Thieves. In the first game between the two clubs, the Thieves, with Phil LeGault and Gene Leslie limiting Crookston to four hits, defeated the Pirates, 10 to 5. And of those four hits, Crookston's first baseman, Glen Gumlia, collected three of the safeties.

We'll see you at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night.

Blue Bombers Open Practice

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers, a member of the Western Canada football league, opened practice in preparation for the 1953 season this week and sixty prospective candidates, including such former Minnesota luminaries as Ralph McAlister and Billy Bye, were in attendance. According to present plans, the Bombers will begin their 1953 schedule by playing the Edmonton Eskimos in an exhibition tilt on Saturday night, August 15th, at Winnipeg.

An interested spectator at the Bombers opening practice was their former coach Reg Threlfall. Threlfall, a former Purdue lineman, coached the Bombers to a pair of Grey Cup victories. That's the trophy that is emblematic of Canada's senior football championship. As Threlfall watched the squad run through their limbering up exercises, he made the following comment: "There's one kid I've got a lot of admiration for — Billy Bye. He's the greatest. Against Ohio State one afternoon I saw him score four touchdowns like it was nothing. And that was against a great Ohio State team —the one which went to the Rose Bowl and beat a strong California club. The thing I liked about it was that Billy was going through the middle to get his yardage. And that's the place where you find whether a player's got it or not."

It Was Fun

This afternoon and evening's "World's Series" matches, and the award dinner, will mark the end of the 1953 city golf league season. All of the golfers that participated in the competition are in agreement that the program was well-planned and operated, and for that they owe a vote of thanks to Bob Harmon. Bob, in spite of all the time and toil that he allotted to the city's two golf leagues, was able to bring his golf game down to a four-handicap basis. And Bob's as proud of that four-handicap as he is of the efficient operation of the golf program.

This week the city's "pro" golfers have been cashing the checks that were presented to the league champions, runners-up, and third place winners, and to the individual point winners. Those dollars appear to be much bigger than the ordinary dollars.

We'll forward a warning to Plummer's Emil Larson that his claim to the Red Lake golf championship, which he contends he won by defeating Red Lake Falls' Ed Kiland, is in jeopardy. Playing in a threesome with Elwood Karwand and Hap Casmey on Monday evening, Wally DuChamp shot a 38, and that included a six on the 2nd hole. Shooting such golf, Wally intends to challenge Emil for the Red Lake county title.

Fish Catches Fish

Jim Fish, outfielder and pitcher of the Warroad Lakers, proved that he is an adept fisherman when, on a trip to Pete Profander's camp on Monument Bay on Lake of the Woods, he caught a 37-pound musky. The musky, which was fifty inches long and had a girth of twenty-two inches, was caught on a Pflueger Yellow Globe lure.

Incidentally, Leo Pahlen had a tragic experience on Sunday. Leo, fishing at Morris Point on Lake of the Woods, with Clarence Dicken and Harry Phillips, caught a walleye that was estimated at about twelve pounds. Leo strung the fish on a cord stringer, and during the afternoon he pulled the fish out of the water numerous times in showing off the walleye. When it came time for the party to pull in their tackle and quit the lake, Leo lifted the stringer, minus the fish, into the boat. The theory is that a weak spot had developed in the stringer, and Leo, by lifting the fish out of the water so many times, had finally snapped the cord.

St. Hilaire in Tie for League Lead

Loses Game Last Sunday While Fosston Wins

Northern Minnesota League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
St. Hilaire	7	2	.778
Fosston	7	2	.778
Erskine	5	4	.556
Plummer	3	6	.333
Clearbrook	3	6	.333
Gonvick	2	7	.222

Results of Sunday's games:
Fosston, 11, at Plummer, 1.
St. Hilaire, 3, at Erskine, 5.
Gonvick, 4, at Clearbrook, 6.

Schedule, July 26th:
Clearbrook at St. Hilaire.
Erskine at Fosston.
Plummer at Gonvick.

For the second time this season the Erskine Merchants proved to be the stumbling block for the St. Hilaire Saints, handing manager Nicky Drees' title-aspiring Saints a 5 to 3 loss in a game played at Erskine. As a result of St. Hilaire's loss and Fosston's win over Plummer, the Northern Minnesota league race will go into the final week of the schedule with the two teams—St. Hilaire and Fosston—deadlocked for the league lead.

According to the record, St. Hilaire should defeat Clearbrook in a game scheduled for the St. Hilaire park on Sunday. Much of the league interest will be centered on the Erskine vs. Fosston tilt at Fosston on Sunday. That game could very well determine the outcome of the league championship, and it will pit Erskine's strong batting attack against the speed-ball pitching of Fosston's Sonny Johnson.

St. Hilaire's Bob Erickson earned nomination as the state's batter-of-the-week, and mention in the Minneapolis Tribune, by his performance against Plummer a week ago. Third baseman Erickson drove in seven runs on two doubles, a single, a home run, plus a walk, having a perfect day against Plummer's Jesse DuChamp.

Peter Graves Called Red Lake Patriarch

Following is a portion of a sketch by Jay Edgerton of the Minneapolis Star dealing with the career of Peter Graves, longtime leader of the Indians on the Red Lake reservation, and known to many residents of this community.

In the north country, the visitor often hears the speculation: What will happen to Red Lake Indian reservation when old Peter Graves is gone.

Peter Graves, now 81, is called by some "the greatest Indian of our times." To others he is the dictator of Red Lake. One shrewd student of the reservation says "Pete Graves is ward politics applied to an Indian reservation."

Graves himself says, "I guess some people call me a Hitler."

Whether they are for Graves or against him, almost everybody close to Red Lake admits that he is the man who has held the reservation together and made it work.

As secretary-treasurer of the Red Lake Tribal council and secretary-treasurer of the Co-operative Fisheries, Graves, even as an aged patriarch, is the big political and economic figure of Red Lake.

Although technically not a "chief," Peter Graves is considered a chief above all chiefs.

"Sometimes I feel that I have lived long enough," Graves says, philosophically looking out over his beloved Red Lake. "But then I see my children and my grandchildren and I know I want to keep this paradise for them. I don't want to see the day when this is just a land of pleasure."

Talk of summer resorts on Red Lake is enough to raise Grave's hackles. There are those who would like to see Red Lake cut up and turned into private enterprises such as fishing camps and resorts. To this, Graves turns a face of flint. He has been successful in blocking all such attempts to date.

"We are not ready for that," he says. "The only salvation for the Indian is education. It will take us at least 25 years."

Graves was born not far from where the Red Lake Indian agency now stands. His mother was the daughter of Munzaun (Wild Rice Chaff), a famous man among the Chippewas, and his father was Joe Omen, a part Scotch refugee from the Riel rebellion in Canada. Omen disappeared years ago and Graves does not remember him. He received the name Graves when he was baptized in the Episcopal church.

When he was 13 Graves was sent to school in Peoria, Ill. Later he went on to more education in Philadelphia. When he returned home he became an Indian policeman and later, before World War I, a clerk at the Leech Lake agency.

The Indians asked him to come back to Red Lake when the Red Lake Tribal council was organized in 1918.

"I had a lot of fighting spirit as a young man," he says (many think he hasn't lost any). "Senator Knute Nelson was one of my best friends. I used to wonder why he liked me. — because I was just as stubborn as he was."

Becoming full of years, and honors, Graves has turned his mind to contemplating the Indian's plight.

"All our evil comes from liquor," he remarks. "Every other family has a bootlegger. I call them anarchists & outlaws. Prohibition just ruined us because it taught Indians how easy it is to make liquor."

Pheasant Survey Being Conducted in 29 Counties

Game wardens in the 29 counties comprising Minnesota's best pheasant range will contact farmers in the area during the next two weeks for information relative to the 1953 pheasant season, should there be one.

Farmers will be asked to complete questionnaires and state whether or not they favor an open season; whether or not they will leave their land open for hunting without posting in the event of a 9 a. m. opening, 10 a. m., 11 a. m., or 12 noon opening. Also whether or not they would allow hunting on request of individual hunters on posted land; and whether or not they would favor morning hunting on Sundays only.

The survey is to be completed and the results sent to the bureau of game, division of game and fish, not later than August 1.

Crookston Woman Pleads Innocent

Minister's Wife Denies Killing New-born Infant

Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, 30, wife of a Crookston minister, pleaded innocent Friday to a first degree murder indictment voted against her by a grand jury in the death of her newborn baby.

Bail of $7,500, set at the arraignment by District Judge J. H. Sylvester, was furnished and she was released from the Polk County jail where she has been held since the indictment was returned June 30.

The child, a girl, was born June 13, apparently while Mrs. Johnson was in the basement doing the family laundry. Her husband found Mrs. Johnson unconscious and she was hospitalized. The body of the infant was found later under a pile of clothes.

Defense attorneys asked for a quick trial saying they would be ready for courtroom sessions in ten days. Judge Sylvester referred, a request for recall of the May term of court to the county attorney.

Patrol Chief Asks Public to Report Traffic Offenses

Motorists Asked to Report License Numbers of Offending Autos

Reckless drivers on Minnesota's highways are due for some unpleasant surprises if a plan proposed by Patrol Chief Earl M. Larimer produces the results he anticipates.

"Many driving violations by motorists go unpunished," he said, "because they were not observed by a highway patrolman or other law officer. We have received inquiries from motorists interested in reducing traffic accidents as to what they can do to help by reporting violations which, although they may not cause accidents, often result in great distress and inconvenience to other motorists."

Driver violations, such as improper and illegal passing, failure to stop for arterial signs, reckless driving and other such actions, should be reported, according to Chief Larimer. He suggested that motorists who witness such violations record the license number, making sure that one or more other persons in the car verify the number as to correctness.

This information, along with time and place, should then be included in a note to the state highway patrol, 1246 University Avenue, St. Paul, which will then write a warning letter to the violator. If the case is serious enough, it will be necessary for the complaining witness to appear in court, inasmuch as it is not possible for patrol officers to sign a complaint against a person for a misdemeanor which they themselves did not witness.

"With the sincere cooperation of the many good drivers in our state," concluded Larimer, "we can make a very substantial and continuing reduction in traffic accidents on our highways."

Carl O. Lindeman was elected vice president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company and general manager of its operations in Minnesota, Sanford B. Cousins, president, announced today. Mr. Lindeman succeeds Ben S. Gilmer, who has been elected a vice president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in charge of its operations in California. The changes are effective August 1.

Mr. Lindeman, who has held several Northwestern Bell positions in Minnesota, returns from New York where he has been associated with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Lindeman, a native of Pocahontas, Iowa, attended Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. He started with Northwestern Bell in 1930. He became assistant vice president in Minnesota in 1952. Earlier this year he accepted a staff assignment with American Telephone and Telegraph in New York, the position he leaves to return to Minnesota.

HOSPITAL BIDS FAVORABLE

Favorable bids for the expansion of Northwestern Hospital at the letting Thursday give assurance that it is now possible to proceed with this much needed community program. The total of the several bids came within 3% of the estimates. This is considered a very satisfactory result and makes quite certain the approval by federal authorities and the granting of federal assistance.

Hospital officials are now hopeful that federal funds may be made available in an amount even greater than was anticipated and that it will be possible to provide some facilities thought out of reach in the original planning. These additions would be in the form mainly of equipment that would be highly desirable now and eventually necessary. To what extent it will be possible to include these items will depend of course on the ability of the association to pay its share of the increased cost.

And in an expansion program that is going to cost in the neighborhood of a million dollars, a few thousands one way or the other is not terrifically important. While we are doing the job let's do it well. It would be penny wise and pound foolish not to buy today what we know we will need tomorrow if we know that the federal grant is sufficiently large to have them included. Let's keep in mind that we are providing mainly for a future generation. There is justification for a financing program that will permit that future generation to share to some extent in the cost as well as in the benefits.

PRODUCTION CONTROL COMING

In 1939 farm prices were 78% of parity. The war boom brought prices up to 1[illegible]3% of parity in 1946. By June, 1950, they were down to 97%. Korea sent them up to 107% in 1951. Now they are down to 9[illegible]%, with prospects that they will go lower if support props are not strengthened.

This is the story of the ups and downs of agriculture as reported by Business Week.

And this, according to Business Week, is the reason for the administration's present position on the question of price supports. So far, apparently, no substitute has been found for the system of price props protected by acreage control, used by the Democrats.

On August 14 wheat growers will be asked to express themselves on the question of acreage control for 1954. We have a letter from Senator Edward Thye urging that all eligible farmers participate in this referendum and support the reduction in acreage. He says, "We have too much wheat and there is only one way to correct this and that is to reduce the overall wheat acreage that will be planted for the 1954 crop."

It is reasonable to assume that similar action will be taken on other crops on which unmanageable surpluses are piling up.

WORKING AND PLAYING

Being in St. Paul Saturday afternoon with nothing more useful to do we spectatored at the Keller Open, a golf tournament offering enough prize money to attract many of the nation's top level golfers. Thousands of cash customers gladly contribute to the $15,000 purse and the other expenses incidental to staging a show of such magnitude.

The annual event, sponsored by the St. Paul Junior Chamber of Commerce, is now more than twenty years old. Undoubtedly it is a paying venture. For the thousands of spectators, all interested in the game, this tournament provided an opportunity to see the game played at its best by players whose names make headlines regularly in the sport sections of the nation's newspapers.

Sunday afternoon found us closer to home with another group of people who have a lot of fun moving around out-of-doors. These were people who like to spend their leisure time traveling over our lakes and streams and through our fields and forests. They are the good people who like to hunt and fish.

This gathering was the annual outing sponsored by the Northwestern Association of Sportsmen's Clubs, and thousands of people from this corner of the state assembled at Maple Lake to participate in or to observe the many activities provided for their entertainment.

Back home Sunday night, getting ready for the return to the salt mine, we were well satisfied with things as they are. We are a nation of workers. We will all agree that it is by work that we have made our nation great and when we no longer are great workers we will no longer be a great nation.

But we know how to play too and large numbers of our people, young and old, participate actively in such out door sports as golfing, hunting and fishing. In these activities large numbers of our workers find relaxation and recreation. This is good medicine for thousands of workers who by their participation in these sports get out of their offices and factories and stores occasionally into a healthy exposure to sunshine and wind and rain.

We had us a pleasant week-end.

THE SEASON OF THE BIG WORRY

For farmers this is the season of the big worry. The weeks that are immediately ahead of them will determine their financial status for another year—maybe for several years.

The crops that now are starting to ripen represent a heavy investment in land, seed, labor and equipment. From the proceeds of that crop must be paid a lot of bills. It takes more than good prospects to pay debts, and many things can happen before good prospects are converted into cash.

This is the season of the farmer's big worry. And for those of us whose interests are tied up at least indirectly with the farming operation these are anxious weeks too.

Looking Backward

1923 — THIRTY YEARS AGO

This week's issue of The Times is published in its own plant, the first time since the fire on May 22.—Thief River Falls and Pennington County went strong for Magnus Johnson for U. S. senator in the primary election. —The Princess theatre is being redecorated this week.—Dr. L. R. Twete left on a trip to the West Coast.

1933—TWENTY YEARS AGO

Alfred Skarstad and B. O. Norby were elected to the local school board, 479 votes being cast for eight candidates.—H. A. Pratt was reelected president of the library board, and Mrs. Gaston Ward succeeded Mrs. P. W. Mabey as secretary.—Paul Meilby became the fourth member of the city's exclusive hole-in-one club when he scored an eagle on the fourth hole of the local golf course.—Mrs. Orra Richardson, pioneer resident here and recently of Montana, is visiting local friends.

1943—TEN YEARS AGO

Dr. E. S. Amesbury was appointed deputy district governor of Lions Club in Northern Minnesota. — Mike Holm, secretary of state, was an overnight visitor here. — Howard Gibson was named manager of the local store of the National Tea Co.—More than 2,000 "A" gas ration books have been issued to county motorists, Waldie Christensen, chairman of the ration board, announced.—The drive for clothing for the Russian people was reported a big success here.

FAMILY MATTERS

Since 1941 ten sons and one daughter of Mrs. Anna Sammons, Tracy, have worn Uncle Sam's military uniform; one son was killed in action, one drowned while on leave—Six sons of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schneider of Victoria, served in the Navy at the same time . . . A 13-pound 9-ounce son born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Birr at LeCenter is credited with some sort of heavyweight championship in that area . . . Two sisters-in-law who went to the same business school, swam in Aqua Follies, and worked for Northwest Airlines became mothers the same day in neighboring Minneapolis hospitals.

Coal burned in the generation of electricity for the city of Chicago is at the rate of an entire train load every six hours—more than 325 cars of bituminous coal every 24 hours.

World War II cost the United States $360 billion, or two years' average national income, against $33 billion or six months' income for World War I.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

ADOLESCENTS CAN HELP PARENTS GROW

Conflicts between parents and adolescents are partly explained by two general tendencies: parents expect teen-agers to act like adults, but still treat them like children; teen-agers want to be treated like adults, but still act like children. Underlying the parents' behavior are often found their past habits of using authority, and sometimes their own insecurities.

The "arguing" behavior of the adolescent disturbs many parents—but often, it shouldn't be disturbing. Adolescents are active, thinking youngsters; their school experience provides much information, and their own stages of growth provide new concern with many social problems. They show a suddenly expanded grasp of ideas, facts, and issues.

It is surely natural that the sudden appearance at the dinner table of a fourteen year old who will argue heatedly at the drop of a hat on any subject under the sun, with anyone in sight, might be upsetting to the parent who has learned to anticipate, from this same child, acceptance of "what your father says", and sometimes even silence.

Often, though, adolescents are really quite well informed and do have something to say. Often it is not their argument which upsets us as much as it is the emotional involvement they show. But this becomes more understandable when one reflects that this form of participation in adult conversation is new and exciting to the adolescent. Part of his fervor is for the topic, and part of it is sheer enthusiasm for this new mode of self-expression.

It is exciting to express ideas, present points, organize a point of view. The parent who can listen to the statements, give clear credit for the knowledge and thought presented, and treat both the topic and the adolescent with respect may himself be stimulated to new thinking. But the contest of ideas should be kept on a level of justice.

The parent who demands that the adolescent finally come around to the parental point of view is losing the more important issue, that of helping the adolescent find himself in the new social world which awaits him. Being able to acknowledge that the young son does know what he is talking about, when it is true, helps both child and parent be more mature.

Report to the People

By Governor C. Elmer Anderson

Alcoholism

A new attack on one of our very big problems got under way this past week. Members of the Minnesota advisory board on problems of alcoholism, created by the 1953 Legislature, gathered in my office for their initial session, organized and made plans for a systematic program to assist persons afflicted with alcoholism.

I was very much impressed with the plans being made. The job being tackled is a tremendous one, and the opportunities for service, I think, very much worthwhile.

A study made by the interim commission on alcoholism here in Minnesota during the past two years reported there are between 85,000 and 90,000 excessive drinkers in Minnesota, and 18,000 of them are alcoholics in the sense that they are unable by themselves to manage their lives. The same report cites one authority who says that costs chargeable to alcoholism in this country exceed $750,000,000 a year.

The 1953 Legislature provided for a nine-member advisory board and for a technical consultant on problems of alcoholism in the state board of health. The advisory board is directed, working with the consultant, to (1) study facilities for and methods of treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics, (2) develop and carry out programs of education on alcoholism, (3) consult with agencies engaged in treatment of alcoholics and (4) stimulate cities, counties, and other groups to work with agencies in treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

Senator Elmer L. Andersen, sponsor of the 1951 bill providing for the interim commission study and the 1953 bill creating the new program, is hopeful of good results. Says he:

"Enlightened doctors now recognize that alcoholics are sick persons; that many, if not most, can be rehabilitated."

Auto Inspection

Quite a number of the states have been or are considering legislation requiring compulsory inspection of motor vehicles periodically. Sponsors of the plan contend that proper inspection of automobiles would disclose mechanical defects in some of the cars and prevent many of the accidents arising from such defects. Kansas is one of the latest states to consider the plan. A bulletin from the Legislative Research Bureau in that state says:

"Information from states having periodic motor vehicle inspection indicates that compulsory inspection may result in as much as 35% reduction in auto accident fatalities."

Latest reports available show there are 11 states with various forms of compulsory inspection of cars and five other states that give cities authority to require inspections.

The plan has been considered here, but there always has been some division of sentiment on the measure. Cost of a general inspection usually has been the stumbling block in the way of enactment. Proponents argue that if only a few lives are saved the plan will be well worthwhile.

Records show that there were 485 accidents in Minnesota last year in which deaths occurred. Of this number, 33 were deaths attributable to mechanical defects.

Earth's speed around the sun is estimated at 66,600 miles per hour.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

A variety of political matters is keeping the pot boiling during these mid-summer weeks when politicians, like other folks, ordinarily take it easy until the rumpusing starts up again in the fall.

One of the most guarded subjects of conversation is the threatened revolt among a group of the younger conservative members of the legislature against the leadership of Majority Leader Roy E. Dunn. Talk has it that the after-effects of the bitter Taft-Eisenhower clash preceding the 1952 national convention are still being felt, and some liberal Republicans are designing ways and means of reducing Mr. Dunn's influence in the 1955 session.

There has been talk like this before, but Mr. Dunn has always shown himself a skillful organizer, and by the time the elections roll around the talk subsides and when the legislature convenes Mr. Dunn has the situation well in hand.

The Search Goes On

Latest "confidential" report has it that Congressman Walter H. Judd will definitely not run against Senator Hubert H. Humphrey next year. Judd is reported to feel that, while he believes he could defeat Humphrey, he regards control of Congress as too crucial for the Republicans to justify his House seat being put in jeopardy.

The search for an opponent to Humphrey goes on. There is increasing talk that State Chairman P. Kenneth Peterson will get the Republican nod for this assignment. Last week Peterson announced that the Republicans were organizing a "truth squad" to follow Humphrey around for the purpose of answering statements Humphrey makes in his addresses. The news release gave no details concerning what misstatements, if any, Humphrey has presumably made.

DFL On Prowl, Too

The Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party continues its prowl, too, only the DFL is looking for a candidate for Governor to pair up with Humphrey. Mostly this activity takes the form of behind-the-scenes gossip. So far there has been no open move in behalf of any particular candidate, although some dozen or more have been suggested at one time or another.

The DFL has the feeling that it should act pretty soon on this matter. It will take many months to build up a candidate with sufficient statewide acquaintance to make a formidable challenge. Soon the county fair circuit will be under way, and this is a natural opportunity for a prospective candidate which the DFL is eager not to miss.

Truman to Visit Here

There should be some Democratic excitement in Minnesota August 1 when former President Truman visits Camp Ripley to review Missouri national guardsmen in training. Truman will be officially greeted by Governor C. Elmer Anderson, but state DFL'ers will no doubt be on hand to talk a little politics with the former chief executive.

Governor Anderson will leave from Camp Ripley for Seattle, Wash., where he will attend the annual governors' conference, which will be addressed by President Eisenhower.

New State Chief Justice

The state supreme court had a new chief justice last week. He is Roger L. Dell, who was elevated to the top post by Governor Anderson to succeed Charles Loring, who resigned after 23 years service on the top court. The new associate justice named by Anderson is former district Judge Martin A. Nelson of Austin. Nelson was named to the district bench by Governor Thye in 1944. He was a top contender for the governorship back in the '30s, winning the GOP nomination in 1934 and 1936.

Fund Tops 54 Million

Renewed attention was turned on the state income tax school fund this week with announcement that the fund's balance on June 30 stood at $54,204,961. In recent years many efforts have been made to divert this money, now held exclusively for use of public schools, to other state uses. But education department spokesmen insist that the larger state aid payments voted by the 1953 legislative session will reduce the balance to about $16,000,000 when final payments are made in August.

State 21st, Not 10th

State Tax Commissioner G. Howard Spaeth last week took issue with a report of the legislative research committee that listed Minnesota as ranking tenth highest in the nation in total per capita state taxation. Spaeth insists that this ranking includes iron ore taxes and that these taxes should not be included in such evaluating of comparative standing. With iron ore taxes Minnesota's per capita is $77.70, without iron ore taxes, its standing is twenty-first with a per capita of $68.01.

Vote on Profits Tax

Minnesota Republicans supported President Eisenhower's urgent request that Congress extend the excess profits tax. All members in Congress voted to support the President, except Congressman Joseph P. O'Hara and Senator Edward J. Thye, both of whom voted against the extension.

GREAT LAKES ARE WELL LIGHTED

More than one-fifth of all United States lighthouses are on the Great Lakes, according to the Coast Guard. The first recorded lighthouse was a 676-foot stone tower at the mouth of the Nile river in the Mediterranean, where a bonfire burned steadily 2,000 years ago. First Great Lakes light was established by Canada at Gibraltar Point in Toronto harbor, 1818; ten years later the first U. S. light appeared at Buffalo. Most powerful Lakes light is 3,000,000 candlepower from White Shoal, most distant from shore is Stannard Rock light, built on a huge iron cylinder 24 miles from mainland. Regular crew for each light is four men, who are assigned other lake duties during the winter tie-up.

Not All Vacations 'Happy'
The time is rolling around when 75 million Americans pack up the wife, kids and sunburn lotion and head for "distant scenes," according to a national trade magazine. But, the happy, carefree vacation most people envision may be marred suddenly by illness or accident.
Recent figures show that approximately 1 out of 7 Minnesotans are hospitalized each year, many of them while traveling. Drive safely, play safely, make your vacation a "happy" trip, not a "hospital" trip.
Last year, 7,280 Minnesotans who needed medical and hospital care when traveling out-of-state, received over one-half million dollars in benefits through Blue Cross-Blue Shield.
Minnesota Blue Cross has a national agreement with over 5,800 Blue Cross hospitals in the United States. If you require doctor's care while away from home, you are entitled to full Blue Shield contract benefits. Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection is extended to you and your family the year 'round, at home or away.
Complete, free information on the Blue Cross $25 Deductible plan and the Blue Shield medical care plan may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-4, 2610 University Ave., St. Paul 14, Minnesota. A postcard will do.

Shower Bath for iron ore
LOW-GRADE IRON ORE BOUNCES across a vibrating screen at this wash plant near Crosby, Minnesota, while operator Olander Lilyenquist stands by to pull out stray pieces of foreign material. From here the ore goes to a crusher, and is then separated from the waste sand. Minnesota's iron mining industry is making increasing use of once-waste ore like this. Today, over 60 concentrating plants are in operation on Minnesota's iron ranges. There can be an ore supply for generations to come, with more jobs for more mining employees, more prosperity for everybody—provided these ores can meet the competition of ore from other areas.

HOSPITAL BIDS FAVORABLE

Favorable bids for the expansion of Northwestern Hospital at the letting Thursday give assurance that it is now possible to proceed with this much needed community program. The total of the several bids came within 8% of the estimates. This is considered a very satisfactory result and makes quite certain the approval by federal authorities and the granting of federal assistance.

Hospital officials are now hopeful that federal funds may be made available in an amount even greater than was anticipated and that it will be possible to provide some facilities thought out of reach in the original planning. These additions would be in the form mainly of equipment that would be highly desirable now and eventually necessary. To what extent it will be possible to include these items will depend of course on the ability of the association to pay its share of the increased cost.

And in an expansion program that is going to cost in the neighborhood of a million dollars, a few thousands one way or the other is not terrifically important. While we are doing the job let's do it well. It would be penny wise and pound foolish not to buy today what we know we will need tomorrow if we know that the federal grant is sufficiently large to have them included. Let's keep in mind that we are providing mainly for a future generation. There is justification for a financing program that will permit that future generation to share to some extent in the cost as well as in the benefits.

PRODUCTION CONTROL COMING

In 1939 farm prices were 78% of parity. The war boom brought prices up to 1[illegible]3% of parity in 1946. By June, 1950, they were down to 97%. Korea sent them up to 107% in 1951. Now they are down to 9[illegible]%, with prospects that they will go lower if support props are not strengthened.

This is the story of the ups and downs of agriculture as reported by Business Week.

And this, according to Business Week, is the reason for the administration's present position on the question of price supports. So far, apparently, no substitute has been found for the system of price props, protected by acreage control, used by the Democrats.

On August 14 wheat growers will be asked to express themselves on the question of acreage control for 1954. We have a letter from Senator Edward Thye urging that all eligible farmers participate in this referendum and support the reduction in acreage. He says, "We have too much wheat and there is only one way to correct this and that is to reduce the overall wheat acreage that will be planted for the 1954 crop."

It is reasonable to assume that similar action will be taken on other crops on which unmanageable surplusses are piling up.

WORKING AND PLAYING

Being in St. Paul Saturday afternoon with nothing more useful to do we spectatored at the Keller Open, a golf tournament offering enough prize money to attract many of the nation's top level golfers. Thousands of cash customers gladly contribute to the $15,000 purse and the other expenses incidental to staging a show of such magnitude.

The annual event, sponsored by the St. Paul Junior Chamber of Commerce, is now more than twenty years old. Undoubtedly it is a paying venture. For the thousands of spectators, all interested in the game, this tournament provided an opportunity to see the game played at its best by players whose names make headlines regularly in the sport sections of the nation's newspapers.

Sunday afternoon found us closer to home with another group of people who have a lot of fun moving around out-of-doors. These were people who like to spend their leisure time traveling over our lakes and streams and through our fields and forests. They are the good people who like to hunt and fish.

This gathering was the annual outing sponsored by the Northwestern Association of Sportsmen's Clubs, and thousands of people from this corner of the state assembled at Maple Lake to participate in or to observe the many activities provided for their entertainment.

Back home Sunday night, getting ready for the return to the salt mine, we were well satisfied with things as they are. We are a nation of workers. We will all agree that it is by work that we have made our nation great and when we no longer are great workers we will no longer be a great nation.

But we know how to play too and large numbers of our people, young and old, participate actively in such out door sports as golfing, hunting and fishing. In these activities large numbers of our workers find relaxation and recreation. This is good medicine for thousands of workers who by their participation in these sports get out of their offices and factories and stores occasionally into a healthy exposure to sunshine and wind and rain.

We had us a pleasant week-end.

THE SEASON OF THE BIG WORRY

For farmers this is the season of the big worry. The weeks that are immediately ahead of them will determine their financial status for another year—maybe for several years.

The crops that now are starting to ripen represent a heavy investment in land, seed, labor and equipment. From the proceeds of that crop must be paid a lot of bills. It takes more than good prospects to pay debts, and many things can happen before good prospects are converted into cash.

This is the season of the farmer's big worry. And for those of us whose interests are tied up at least indirectly with the farming operation these are anxious weeks too.

Looking Backward

1923 — THIRTY YEARS AGO

This week's issue of The Times is published in its own plant, the first time since the fire on May 22.—Thief River Falls and Pennington County went strong for Magnus Johnson for U. S. senator in the primary election. —The Princess theatre is being redecorated this week.—Dr. L. R. Twete left on a trip to the West Coast.

1933—TWENTY YEARS AGO

Alfred Skarstad and B. O. Norby were elected to the local school board, 479 votes being cast for eight candidates.—H. A. Pratt was reelected president of the library board, and Mrs. Gaston Ward succeeded Mrs. P. W. Mabey as secretary.—Paul Mellby became the fourth member of the city's exclusive hole-in-one club when he scored an eagle on the fourth hole of the local golf course.—Mrs. Orra Richardson, pioneer resident here and recently of Montana, is visiting local friends.

1943—TEN YEARS AGO

Dr. E. S. Amesbury was appointed deputy district governor of Lions Club in Northern Minnesota. — Mike Holm, secretary of state, was an overnight visitor here. — Howard Gibson was named manager of the local store of the National Tea Co.—More than 2,000 "A" gas ration books have been issued to county motorists, Waldie Christensen, chairman of the ration board, announced.—The drive for clothing for the Russian people was reported a big success here.

FAMILY MATTERS

Since 1941 ten sons and one daughter of Mrs. Anna Sammons, Tracy, have worn Uncle Sam's military uniform; one son was killed in action, one drowned while on leave—Six sons of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schneider of Victoria, served in the Navy at the same time . . . A 13-pound 9-ounce son born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Birr at LeCenter is credited with some sort of heavyweight championship in that area . Two sisters-in-law who went to the same business school, swam in Aqua Follies, and worked for Northwest Airlines became mothers the same day in neighboring Minneapolis hospitals.

Coal burned in the generation of electricity for the city of Chicago is at the rate of an entire train load every six hours—more than 325 cars of bituminous coal every 24 hours.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

ADOLESCENTS CAN HELP PARENTS GROW

Conflicts between parents and adolescents are partly explained by two general tendencies: parents expect teen-agers to act like adults, but still treat them like children; teen-agers want to be treated like adults, but still act like children. Underlying the parents' behavior are often found their past habits of using authority, and sometimes their own insecurities.

The "arguing" behavior of the adolescent disturbs many parents—but often, it shouldn't be disturbing. Adolescents are active, thinking youngsters; their school experience provides much information, and their own stages of growth provide new concern with many social problems. They show a suddenly expanded grasp of ideas, facts, and issues.

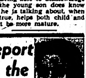
It is surely natural that the sudden appearance at the dinner table of a fourteen year old who will argue heatedly at the drop of a hat on any subject under the sun, with anyone in sight, might be upsetting to the parent who has learned to anticipate, from this same child, acceptance of "what your father says", and sometimes even silence.

Often, though, adolescents are really quite well informed and do have something to say. Often it is not their argument which upsets us as much as it is the emotional involvement they show. But this becomes more understandable when one reflects that this form of participation—in adult conversation is new and exciting to the adolescent. Part of his fervor is for the topic, and part of it is sheer enthusiasm for this new mode of self-expression.

It is exciting to express ideas, present points, organize a point of view. The parent who can listen to the statements, give clear credit for the knowledge and thought presented, and treat both the topic and the adolescent with respect may himself be stimulated to new thinking. But the contest of ideas should be kept on a level of justice.

The parent who demands that the adolescent finally come around to the parental point of view is losing the more important issue, that of helping the adolescent find himself in the new social world which awaits him. Being able to acknowledge that the young son does know what he is talking about, when it is true, helps both child and parent be more mature.

Report to the People



By Governor C. Elmer Anderson

Alcoholism

A new attack on one of our very big problems got under way this past week. Members of the Minnesota advisory board on problems of alcoholism, created by the 1953 Legislature, gathered in my office for their initial session, organized and made plans for a systematic program to assist persons afflicted with alcoholism.

I was very much impressed with the plans being made. The job being tackled is a tremendous one, and the opportunities for service, I think, very much worthwhile.

A study made by the interim commission on alcoholism here in Minnesota during the past two years reported there are between 85,000 and 90,000 excessive drinkers in Minnesota, and 18,000 of them are alcoholics in the sense that they are unable by themselves to manage their lives. The same report cites one authority who says that costs chargeable to alcoholism in this country exceed $750,000,000 a year.

The 1953 Legislature provided for a nine-member advisory board and for a technical consultant on problems of alcoholism in the state board of health. The advisory board is directed, working with the consultant, to (1) study facilities for and methods of treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics, (2) develop and carry out programs of education on alcoholism, (3) consult with agencies engaged in treatment of alcoholics and (4) stimulate cities, counties, and other groups to work with agencies in treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

Senator Elmer L. Andersen, sponsor of the 1951 bill providing for the interim commission study and the 1953 bill creating the new program, is hopeful of good results. Says he:

"Enlightened doctors now recognize that alcoholics are sick persons; that many, if not most, can be rehabilitated."

Auto Inspection

Quite a number of the states have been or are considering legislation requiring compulsory inspection of motor vehicles periodically. Sponsors of the plan contend that proper inspection of automobiles would disclose mechanical defects in some of the cars and prevent many of the accidents arising from such defects. Kansas is one of the latest states to consider the plan. A bulletin from the Legislative Research Bureau in that state says:

"Information from states having periodic motor vehicle inspection indicates that compulsory inspection may result in as much as 35% reduction in auto accident fatalities."

Latest reports available show there are 11 states with various forms of compulsory inspection of cars and five other states that give cities authority to require inspections.

The plan has been considered here, but there always has been some division of sentiment on the measure. Cost of a general inspection usually has been the stumbling block in the way of enactment. Proponents argue that if only a few lives are saved the plan will be well worthwhile.

Records show that there were 485 accidents in Minnesota last year in which deaths occurred. Of this number, 33 were deaths attributable to mechanical defects.

Earth's speed around the sun is estimated at 66,600 miles per hour.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

A variety of political matters is keeping the pot boiling during these mid-summer weeks when politicians, like other folks, ordinarily take it easy until the rumpusing starts up again in the fall.

One of the most guarded subjects of conversation is the threatened revolt among a group of the younger conservative members of the legislature against the leadership of Majority Leader Roy E. Dunn. Talk has it that the after-effects of the bitter Taft-Eisenhower clash preceding the 1952 national convention are still being felt, and some liberal Republicans are designing ways and means of reducing Mr. Dunn's influence in the 1955 session.

There has been talk like this before, but Mr. Dunn has always shown himself a skillful organizer, and by the time the elections roll around the talk subsides and when the legislature convenes Mr. Dunn has the situation well in hand.

The Search Goes On

Latest "confidential" report has it that Congressman Walter H. Judd will definitely not run against Senator Hubert H. Humphrey next year. Judd is reported to feel that, while he believes he could defeat Humphrey, he regards control of Congress as too crucial for the Republicans to justify his House seat being put in jeopardy.

The search for an opponent to Humphrey goes on. There is increasing talk that State Chairman P. Kenneth Peterson will get the Republican nod for this assignment. Last week Peterson announced that the Republicans were organizing a "truth squad" to follow Humphrey around for the purpose of answering statements Humphrey makes in his addresses. The news release gave no details concerning what misstatements, if any, Humphrey has presumably made.

DFL On Prowl, Too

The Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party continues its prowl, too, only the DFL is looking for a candidate for Governor to pair up with Humphrey. Mostly this activity takes the form of behind-the-scenes gossip. So far there has been no open move in behalf of any particular candidate, although some dozen or more have been suggested at one time or another.

The DFL has the feeling that it should act pretty soon on this matter. It will take many months to build up a candidate with sufficient statewide acquaintance to make a formidable challenge. Soon the county fair circuit will be under way, and this is a natural opportunity for a prospective candidate which the DFL is eager not to miss.

Truman to Visit Here

There should be some Democratic excitement in Minnesota August 1 when former President Truman visits Camp Ripley to review Missouri national guardsmen in training. Truman will be officially greeted by Governor C. Elmer Anderson, but state DFL'ers will no doubt be on hand to talk a little politics with the former chief executive.

Governor Anderson will leave from Camp Ripley for Seattle, Wash., where he will attend the annual governors' conference, which will be addressed by President Eisenhower.

New State Chief Justice

The state supreme court had a new chief justice last week. He is Roger L. Dell, who was elevated to the top post by Governor Anderson to succeed Charles Loring, who resigned after 23 years service on the top court. The new associate justice named by Anderson is former district Judge Martin A. Nelson of Austin. Nelson was named to the district bench by Governor Thye in 1944. He was a top contender for the governorship back in the '30s, winning the GOP nomination in 1934 and 1936.

Fund Tops 54 Million

Renewed attention was turned on the state income tax school fund this week with announcement that the fund's balance on June 30 stood at $54,204,961. In recent years many efforts have been made to divert this money, now held exclusively for use of public schools, to other state uses. But education department spokesmen insist that the larger state aid payments voted by the 1953 legislative session will reduce the balance to about $16,000,000 when final payments are made in August.

State 21st, Not 10th

State Tax Commissioner G. Howard Spaeth last week took issue with a report of the legislative research committee that listed Minnesota as ranking tenth highest in the nation in total per capita state taxation. Spaeth insists that this ranking includes iron ore taxes and that these taxes should not be included in such evaluating of comparative standing. With iron ore taxes Minnesota's per capita is $77.70, without iron ore taxes, its standing is twenty-first with a per capita of $68.01.

Vote on Profits Tax

Minnesota Republicans supported President Eisenhower's urgent request that Congress extend the excess profits tax. All members in Congress voted to support the President, except Congressman Joseph P. O'Hara and Senator Edward J. Thye, both of whom voted against the extension.

GREAT LAKES ARE WELL LIGHTED

More than one-fifth of all United States lighthouses are on the Great Lakes, according to the Coast Guard. The first recorded lighthouse was a 676-foot stone tower at the mouth of the Nile river in the Mediterranean, where a bonfire burned steadily 2,000 years ago. First Great Lakes light was established by Canada at Gibraltar Point in Toronto harbor, 1818; ten years later the first U. S. light appeared at Buffalo. Most powerful Lakes light is 3,000,000 candlepower from White Shoal, most distant from shore is Stannard Rock light, built on a huge iron cylinder 24 miles from mainland. Regular crew for each light is four men, who are assigned other lake duties during the winter tie-up.

Not All Vacations 'Happy'

The time is rolling around when 75 million Americans pack up the wife, kids and sunburn lotion and head for "distant scenes," according to a national trade magazine. But, the happy, carefree vacation most people envision may be marred suddenly by illness or accident.

Recent figures show that approximately 1 out of 7 Minnesotans are hospitalized each year, many of them while traveling. Drive safely, play safely, make your vacation a "happy" trip, not a "hospital" trip.

Last year, 7,280 Minnesotans who needed medical and hospital care when traveling out-of-state, received over one-half million dollars in benefits through Blue Cross-Blue Shield.—

Minnesota Blue Cross has a national agreement with over 5,800 Blue Cross hospitals in the United States. If you require doctor's care while away from home, you are entitled to full Blue Shield contract benefits. Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection is extended to you and your family the year 'round, at home or away.

Complete, free information on the Blue Cross $25 Deductible plan and the Blue Shield medical care plan may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-4, 2610 University Ave., St. Paul 14, Minnesota. A postcard will do.

Shower Bath for iron ore

LOW-GRADE IRON ORE BOUNCES across a vibrating screen at this wash plant near Crosby, Minnesota, while operator Olander Lilyenquist stands by to pull out stray pieces of foreign material. From here the ore goes to a crusher, and is then separated from the waste sand. Minnesota's iron mining industry is making increasing use of once-waste ore like this. Today, over 60 concentrating plants are in operation on Minnesota's iron ranges. There can be an ore supply for generations to come, with more jobs for more mining employees, more prosperity for everybody—provided these ores can meet the competition of ore from other areas.

Automobile Stunts at Pennington Fair Set for July 29 &30

Sparking a new high in automobile thrills, the Pennington County fair will introduce the "TOURNAMENT OF THRILLS" in front of the grandstand on Wednesday night, July 29, and Thursday afternoon, July 30 in which a score or more of the top stuntmen of the country will compete.

The International Stuntmen's Association of Hollywood, to which all the top movie stuntmen and daredevils from the leading circuses belong, has sanctioned a series of contests at many of the top fairs of the nation.

Teams representing thrill circuses will compete for gold, glory and points toward a national championship and among teams to compete here are the Hollywood Stuntmen; Canadian Aces, Texas Lonestars, Royal Scots and the famed Chitwood Daredevils.

Individual competition will also prevail toward an individual season award and points will be given competitors for their daredevil stunts.

Men will compete to see who can slide from a speeding automobile the farthest, men will hurtle motorcycles over rampways attempting to beat the broadjump records, speeding daredevils will deliberately crash roll automobiles and a score or more of death-defying stunts will all carry awards and scores.

U. S. Public Debt Hits $272 Billion

Debt Higest in History with Exception of 1946

The U. S. treasury disclosed Friday that the public debt has reached the highest level in history except for World War II.

Secretary Humphrey put most of the blame on the Truman administration.

Treasury figures showed that the debt reached $272,361,359,803.91 July 15, less than $3,000,000,000 under the legal limit of $275,000,000,000 established by congress in 1946.

Administration officials said they expect to reach a decision by the end of this week on whether the administration will ask congress to raise the limit.

Meantime, treasury figures showed the government collected a record $69,595,916,968.36 in taxes last year. This was about 7 per cent more than in fiscal 1952. Personal tax payments accounted for most of the increase.

The highest public debt ever reached was in February 1946.

Humphrey blamed the size of the debt in general, on the "spending programs of the past few years." He said the Eisenhower administration is determined to get government spending under control but needs the help of congress and the people.

State Mayors to Be L.O'L. Guests at Aquatennial

Mayors of Minnesota will be guests of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., at the annual Mayor's Day Thursday, July 23 during the climax of the Minneapolis Aquatennial.

Nearly 500 mayors are expected to attend the luncheon, at which Land O'Lakes is the host. Mayor Harry E. Simons of Thief River Falls, however, stated that he would be unable to attend this year.

Mayors' wives will attend a separate luncheon during the Land O'Lakes function, and they will join their husbands in the afternoon for a relaxing get-together on the shores of Lake Minnetonka. From there the group will go to the Parade Stadium to witness the spectacular evening parade which highlights the entire Aquatennial week.

Stunt Drivers at Pennington Fair

Lutheran Pastor Is Appointed to Ambassador Post

President Eisenhower has nominated a Lutheran clergyman as U. S. Ambassador to Ethiopia. He is the Rev. Dr. Joseph Simonson, executive secretary of the division of public relations to the National Lutheran Council.

Announcement of Dr. Simonsons' nomination which is subject to confirmation by the Senate, was made by the White House Tuesday, July 14. It is believed to mark the first time that a minister of the Lutheran Church has ever been named to a diplomatic post of the highest rank.

Senator Edward J. Thye, of Minnesota recommended the appointment of Dr. Simonson, who is a native of Minnesota and has spent most of the 49 years of his life in that state as a student, pastor and civic leader.

Born on a farm near Lanesboro, Minn., in 1904, Dr. Simonson was graduated from St. Olaf College at Northfield, Minn., in 1925, and from Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, in 1928. In that year he was ordained to the ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, one of the church bodies participating in the National Lutheran Council.

For three years following his graduation from college and before entering seminary, Dr. Simonson served in Washington, D. C., as secretary to Congressman August H. Andresen of Minnesota. At the same time he studied law at George Washington University.

CHAMPS IN THEIR CUPS

The 13th hole is the lucky one for Cleo G. Smith, now mayor of White Bear Lake. Twenty five years ago he scored a hole-in-one with his No. 5 iron on the 13th hole of Highland golf course. Recently Mr. Mayor with a No. 5 iron planted a hole-in-one on the 165-yard 13th at Gail's Country Club . . . It wasn't a golf ball, it was coffee in the cup, and it wasn't one cup, it was a steaming bubbling 52 cups that Norman Finstrom stowed away to win the Willmar coffee-drinking championship.

JUNE BUSTED OUT WITH 10,000 NEW CARS

From 8 new car registrations in Cook county to 3,059 in Hennepin, 10,317 new automobiles took to the Minnesota highways in June—not to mention 1,120 new trucks. Plymouth, Ford, and Chevrolet each chalked up sales in four figures, with Buick and Pontiac close runners-up. Lincoln, Willys, Kaiser, and Henry J. each fell below 100 in the month's registrations, besides "miscellaneous" at 11. International, Ford, and Chevrolet were the only three trucks to score above 150.

Marshall Co. Budget for '53 Hits $429,000

A $429,000 tax budget for 1954 taxpayers in Marshall county was adopted by the county board of commissioners at their semi-annual meeting which was conducted in Warren July 13 and 14.

The new budget represents an increase of $26,225 over this year's budget which totaled $402,775. More funds were needed for the general revenue fund, road and bridge fund and high school tuition funds, resulting in the increase in the over-all budget, Levi G. Johnson, county auditor, reported.

Commissioners were able to reduce two funds in the county tax budget, these being for the welfare department and for operation of the Oakland Park sanatorium.

The general revenue fund was increased by $15,000 or from $75,000 to $90,000 for the coming year. This increase was necessary to care for public employment retirement, extension work, appropriations, county employee salaries and all supplies which continue to advance in price.

The high school tuition fund tax is spread only on property in areas which do no maintain high schools. This fund required an increase from $46,000 to $65,000, as the new education law provides that children must complete their ninth grade next year instead of the eighth grade as in former years. This will naturally result in a considerable enrollment increase in high schools throughout the county.

Continued need for more and better highways makes it practically mandatory for the board to levy the limit for the road and bridge fund. The new levy is $10,000 more than the old, the increase being from $120,000 to $130,000.

The welfare fund was decreased from $119,775 to $104,000 while the sanatorium fund was decreased $2,000 from $24,000 to $22,000. H. S. Transportation remains at $8,000 as does the county building fund at $10,000.

Roger Dell Takes Position of Chief Justice in State

Prominent Fergus Falls Attorney Assumes New Duties Last Thursday

If Roger L. Dell needs any more qualification for being chief justice of Minnesota's highest court than having been a cracker-jack trial lawyer 33 years, he can always say he kept peace between St. Paul and Minneapolis for two years as chairman of the Metropolitan Airports Commission.

Last Thursday, July 16, just three days before his 56th birthday, the cigar-smoking, substantially-built Fergus Falls attorney was sworn in as the state's 13th supreme court chief justice. There were four chief justices in territorial days.

For Judge Dell the elevation to the state's highest judicial post comes as the culmination of a distinguished law career, during which he gained renown as a courtroom lawyer in hundreds of cases involving a variety of subjects.

"When I appointed Roger Dell associate justice of the supreme court," said Governor C. Elmer Anderson last week, "I said it was fortunate for the state of Minnesota that we could have his ability and experience made available. That same sentiment prevails as Judge Dell steps up to the position of chief justice after having proven his exceptional capability on the bench."

Roger L. Dell was born at Bird Island, Minn., July 19, 1897, the son of a Pennsylvania-born banker and a mother born in Henderson, Minn. The family moved to Shakopee, where Roger graduated from grade and high school. A years' interruption for service in World War I found him in an artillery officers training school at the time of the 1918 Armistice.

Mr. Dell moved to Fergus Falls immediately upon entering the bar in 1920, and went into partnership with the late James A. Brown. When Mr. Brown retired Mr. Dell successively took into partnership Chester Rosengren then Gerald S. Rufer. This law firm today is known as Dell, Rosengren and Rufer. Judge Dell and his older brother, Harold, also own radio station KGDE at Fergus Falls, of which Harold Dell is in active management.

ROGER L. DELL

State Taxpayers Pay $246 Million Property Taxes

Minnesota taxpayers are being ordered to pay 246 million dollars into the state's coffers in real and personal property taxes this year for an all-time record, State Auditor Stafford King reported Tuesday.

The taxes, levied in 1952 and payable this year, are $15,600,000 above the 1951 total.

State tax levies dropped, but the rates assessed by counties, cities, villages, townships and school districts were higher. The average rate of taxation for the state and all subdivisions was 133.73 mills.

Countywide mill averages ranged from 88.69 in Rock county to 269.77 in Aitkin county.

The Salvation Army to Open Drive Aug. 10

Seeks Funds to Pay for Evangelical Free Church Edifice Bought by Army

Rev. E. C. Mead, supervisor for the forthcoming building fund canvass on behalf of The Salvation Army, announced today that plans are now fairly well in hand for the drive which will begin in Thief River Falls on August 10, following the dedication service for the building Sunday, August 2. Civic and fraternal organizations, service clubs and women's groups have been requested to have a part in the effort by supplying as many teams of workers to do the actual canvass as possible.

Rev. Mead said that the co-chairmen of the drive, Orvis Olen and Gordon Nobre, are presently working on the mapping out of the city and assigning workers to their districts. It is hoped that the drive in the city of Thief River Falls can be completed in one week.

"In our growing city we need the service rendered by the consecrated workers of The Salvation Army," Mr. Mead said; and added that because the Army works among the unchurched and those untouched by others, it belongs to all of us. It works as an auxiliary to all the churches and each benefits from the ministry rendered, he said.

The recent quarters occupied by The Salvation Army have become unsuitable, and plans were made to purchase the building formerly occupied by the Evangelical Free Church. This forthcoming drive is for the purpose of clearing outstanding indebtedness on this new venture, and has the approval of the Civic and Commerce assn. and the local Community Chest. The state office of the organization has offered to match funds raised locally, dollar for dollar.

The reputation of The Salvation Army for work among the less privileged of society is well known, and of course most any veteran has a warm spot in his heart for 'Sally' because he remembers them right up in the front lines with the familiar hot coffee and doughnuts.

It was announced today that the special gifts canvass has been swelled by a donation of $250 from the Evangelical Free Church, and also by $250 from the City Dairy. Lieut. Corey and Envoy Don Homuth have been asked to contact prospects in the advance special gifts catagory.

Clifford Becker Informally Opens 10-unit Motel Here

Seven Units Now in Use in Structure Located on T. H. 59 East of City

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Becker, formerly of Wylie, announced today the informal opening of their new modern ten-unit motel on Highway 59, just south of First st. at the east edge of the city.

Construction, which has been under way since last spring, is nearly finished, and seven units are now in use, Becker said. Each of the one-room units has a bath and closet, with central hot water heating.

The motel includes, in addition to the ten rental units, a spacious lobby, a five-room apartment for the Beckers and a three-room apartment for his mother, Mrs. Hannah Becker.

The Berger Lumber Co. of Erskine has the general contract for the building, while Earle Ripley installed the plumbing and heating and L. W. Best did the electrical work.

The formal opening of the motel, said Becker, will be deferred until all details of construction are completed.

Letter Carriers Reelect F. Protz

Fred F. Protz, retired Thief River Falls postoffice employe, was reelected treasurer of the Minnesota State Letter Carriers association at its annual convention in St. Cloud last week. He has held the office for the past 15 years.

S[illegible]gers to Fly Here [illegible] Fair Friday from C[illegible]cago Engagement

The Dickens Sisters, nationally known singers, currently appearing each Tuesday and Thursday evening with the Eddy Arnold show over the NBC television network, will fly from Chicago to Thief River Falls Friday to contribute their talents to "Fair Vogues of 1953," on Friday and Saturday evenings at the Pennington county fair.

Arriving at the municipal airport on a North Central Airlines plane Friday at 1 p. m. the Dickens Sisters will be greeted at the airport by Mayor Harry E. Simons and Frank Hardisty, president of the fair board. The young ladies then will be taken to the fair grounds to be introduced to the crowd in the grandstand preceding their evening performance.

The Dickens Sisters, Nancy, Margie and Patti, come from a family of ten children. They started their singing career with a USO tour of servicemen's centers thruout the country, later touring with Victor Borge and with Wayne King, famed orchestra leader.

Shortly after, they were invited to appear on the radio show of Eddy Arnold, popular ballad singer, which is broadcast from coast to coast.

Dairy Improvement Association Plans Bigger '54 Dairy Day

The board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, at a meeting last Wednesday evening in the Rex Cafe, reviewed the highly successful Northwest Dairy Day held in Thief River Falls June 9, and discussed plans for a bigger and better fifth annual Dairy Day in June, 1954.

Stuart McLeod, president, had charge of the meeting, which was attended also by Lew Conlon, state manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee.

Conlon suggested that, with the 1954 event marking the fifth anniversary, it would be appropriate to arrange for the presence of the past four Dairy Princesses as well as the winners of top livestock awards. He added that tentative plans have been made to arrange for a statewide dairy princess contest in 1954, with the contestants including girls who win at various Dairy Day contests thruout the state.

Pointing out that the local Dairy Day is outstanding in Minnesota, Conlon said every effort will be made to arrange for the presence of a photographer from Life magazine at next year's event.

President McLeod presented a report prepared by Elmer Bratsch, treasurer, showing that the association is in sound financial condition. Nearly $4,500 in contributions was received this year, two-thirds of it coming from Thief River Falls business places and the remainder from creameries in the ten-county area.

Expenses to date amount to $3,323, in addition to which other outlays will include the purchase of a prize calf to be presented in 1954, as well as the cost of a trip for Richard Burtness to the Waterloo, Iowa Dairy Congress in October, and a trip to the state fair for Miss Betty Ranstrom of Warren, reigning Northwest Dairy Princess.

It was indicated that a small balance would remain after all bills have been paid, in addition to which a balance of $2,924 was carried forward from previous years.

An excellent colored motion picture depicting all aspects of the 1953 event was shown by Rudy Larson, official Dairy Day movie photographer. The film depicted the arrival and judging of the livestock, followed by the huge parade, and also the luncheon for the princess candidates and the coronation, winding up with scenes of the annual banquet, closing event of the day.

Hospital Bond Issue Sold at 3.09 Pct. Rate

Council Sells $200,000 Issue Last Thursday to Minneapolis Syndicate

The city council at an adjourned session last Thursday evening sold a $200,000 issue of bonds to aid in financing the addition to Northwestern Hospital to the lowest of three bidders, calling for a net interest rate of 3.09 per cent.

The low bid, on the basis of a coupon rate of 3.10 per cent and a premium of $180, was submitted by a syndicate including J. M. Dain and Co., Allison Williams & Co. and Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, all of Minneapolis.

Other bids, on a slightly higher basis, were submitted by the First National bank of St. Paul and associates and Mannheimer Egan and Co. of St. Paul.

The last previous issue of city bonds, $125,000 refunding bonds, was sold two months ago at interest rates varying from 2.75 to 2.80 and three per cent according to maturity dates.

The hospital bonds will be paid over a period of twenty years at the rate of $10,000 a year, with the outstanding balance subject to call in 1963.

The resolution authorizing the bonds provides that they are to be a general obligation of the city, but that a portion of the earnings of the municipal liquor dispensary is to be dedicated to the payment of the bonds.

Present at the opening of the bids was T. G. Evenson, Minneapolis bond consultant engaged by the council.

2 Women Injured in 3-car Collision

Manitoba Residents Are Not Hospitalized

Bumped from the rear by a car driven by Royal Ost of this city, a pickup driven by Jelmer Valsvik, Rt. 3, was pushed into the wrong lane on Highway 32 Saturday night at 8:30 and collided with a car coming from the opposite direction, driven by Mrs. Dorothy LeBrun of West Kildonen, Manitoba.

Mrs. LeBrun, whose car was badly damaged as was the pickup sustained a bruised leg, while Mrs. Elizabeth Fraser of West Kildonen, riding with her, suffered several fractured ribs. She received treatment at the hospital here, and the women then returned to their home.

Sheriff Arthur Rambeck, who investigated the accident, which occurred three-quarters of a mile south of Thief River Falls, reported that Ost and Valsvik were traveling south at the time of the collision, while Mrs. LeBrun was proceeding north.

Nearly 750,000 persons were injured in weekend traffic accidents last year.

Boy Scouts to Put Reflecting Tape on Autos Friday

Ast a means of protecting automobiles from collisions at night, Boy Scouts of Troop 59 will affix Scotchlite reflecting tape to car bumpers Friday evening, July 31, from 6:30 to 9:30 in the street north of the Auditorium. A charge of $1 per bumper will be made for the service, it was announced. Motorists wishing to have the scouts call at their homes to affix the tape may call Ralph Fischer, scoutmaster.

Band Concert Set for Sunday Night in Tindolph Park

Music lovers of this community will have an opportunity to enjoy another concert by the Legion municipal band Sunday evening, August 2, at 8 o'clock, Robert S. Harmon, director, announced today. The concert will be given in the attractive setting afforded by the newly prepared natural amphitheatre in Tindolph park on the east side of the river, instead of in the west side park, which has been the scene of the recent series of Friday evening concerts. Given favorable weather, a large audience is assured for the program.

County Board, Council Confer on Court House

Board Renews Request for Transfer of Part of the West Side Park

Members of the Pennington county board conferred Tuesday evening with the city council relative to the board's request that the city exchange a portion of the eastern part of the west side park for the present court house site for the purpose of providing a location for the projected new court house.

Board members stated they plan to call for bids on the structure early in 1954, and that it is necessary to reach an early decision as to the site before working plans for the building can be completed.

Council President Carl Gjernes said that Col. J. E. Nelson, member of the state armory commission, is expected to visit the city within the next two weeks, and that it is hoped to learn at that time whether or not the present court house site would be large enough to accommodate the proposed armory building. The matter was left in abeyance pending Nelson's visit.

The council held a hearing on the petition filed May 15 by residents along Kinney av. objecting to the accumulation of junk on the Great Northern right-of-way between Fourth and Fifth sts.

Stan Mortenson, attorney for the Great Northern, contended that the property is being put to a legitimate use, and that it should be classed as industrial rather than residential. He suggested that the lessee might be willing to fence off the property

13 Nursing Schools to Supply Nurses to T. R. Falls Hospital

Northwestern Hospital has received word of its approval as a participating hospital in the program for country hospital nursing experience sponsored by the University of Minnesota nursing school. Thirteen nursing schools associated with hospitals in the Twin Cities, Rochester, and Duluth send out students to outside hospitals for training under this program.

Student nurses in groups of six are sent out to the participating training hospitals for six-week training periods. The first group of six student nurses will arrive September 21 from Fairview Hospital in Minneapolis and Hamline University school of nurses in St. Paul.

These nurses must have completed at least 18 months of their nursing training, and many of them are on the verge of graduation from their schools. Upon the completion of their six-week training period they will return to their home schools and are immediately replaced by six other students. In this way the local hospital will be furnished a continuous supply of newly trained nurses.

Selection of Northwestern Hospital as a training center has been made only after inspection of supervisors in charge of the country hospital nursing program. It is necessary for such a hospital to have been approved by the American College of Surgeons and that it has a sufficient census of patients in all departments to furnish the practical training necessary.

In addition, the hospital must set up a definite training and education program for the students and arrange certain field trips to health facilities in the community. Northwestern Hospital womens' auxiliary is already organized to meet the problem of housing the students and the problem of integrating the students into local activities in the hope that eventually some of the students may become a part of the permanent staff of the hospital.

H. W. Peterson administrator of Northwestern Hospital, states that the selection of Northwestern Hospital as a unit in the country hospital nursing program may be regarded as indicating that the hospital meets very high standards. The work of the students will bring new ideas of improved nursing care into the hospital and will decidedly help in the problem of obtaining adequate, high grade nursing personnel in the hospital. It is pointed out that this development is in harmony with the improvement of the physical plant of the hospital which will soon begin.

Personal Property Tax Valuations Are Down Slightly in '53

Members of the county board, sitting July 20, as a board of equalization, approved without change the 1953 personal property tax assessments for Pennington county as turned in by county assessor G. Gunstenson.

The full and true value of all personal property in the county was reported at $5,491,696, while the assessed valuation was $1,400,143, compared to $1,475,339 in 1952. The drop in this year's figures is attributed almost entirely to the substantial decline of 25 per cent in cattle values during the past year, despite the fact that there are about 500 more cattle in the county this year than a year ago.

Assessed values of personal property in the rural areas declined from $583,538 in 1952 to $556,234 this year, while in Thief River Falls they increased from $861,536 in 1952 to $877,055 for 1953. The figure for St. Hilaire this year is $20,343 and for Goodridge is $6,411.

In regard to personal property, Rockbsbury leads the townships in respect to assessed valuations with $70,520, followed by the Town of North with $62,630. Lowest valuations, $11,754, are reported for Cloverleaf township.

Gunstenson stated that when new real estate valuations added since the last assessment in 1952 are computed, the total assessed values of real estate and personal property in Pennington county will be in excess of last year's figures.

State Board of Health Has Given Its Approval

F. A. Rinkel, chairman of the building committee of the board of trustees of Northwestern Hospital, states that bids for the hospital expansion program had been approved by the state board of health and that the First National Bank of St. Paul had approved a loan that will permit the early start of construction, at meetings held in the Twin Cities last week. He and Judge Paul A. Lundgren represented the trustees of the hospital at these meetings.

The papers have gone forward to the Chicago office of the federal Public Health Service for final action, Rinkel said, and state officials expect approval of the federal authorities within two weeks. The low bidder for the general contract has indicated that his company is anxious to get started on the building in the hope that it may be enclosed sufficiently to permit winter work.

Answer to Puzzle No. 246

CONGRESSIONAL

Q—How many Members of Congress are veterans of the armed forces?

A—Three hundred and nine—64 in the Senate and 245 in the House.

Q—How much has the U. S. spent for foreign aid since 1940?

A—U. S. foreign aid from 1940 through 1952 totaled $90.3 billion, $41 billion of it since the end of World War II. Net expenditures, however, total $78.6 billion because $11.7 billion has been paid back to the U. S.

Q—Has the greater part of U. S. postwar foreign aid been economic or military?

A—Economic, by a ratio of $35 billion to $6 billion through 1952. The emphasis recently has shifted, however. In 1952, military aid exceeded economic assistance for the first time since the end of World War II.

Q—How deep in the hole has the Post Office Department been going?

A—The latest firm figures available, for fiscal 1952, show the deficit was about $727 million. The Senate Appropriations Committee estimates that the fiscal 1953 deficit will prove to be about $642 million. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield June 25 predicted the deficit for fiscal 1954 would be about $584 million. He has asked for rate increases to bring in $241 million annually, and has put into effect other measures for reducing the deficit.

Referendum Aug. 14 to Determine Wheat Price Level

If Growers Disapprove Marketing Quotas, Price Will Be Greatly Reduced

If growers disapprove wheat marketing quotas in the August 14th referendum, price support loans for the 1954 wheat crop will be greatly reduced.

According to Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington county Production and Marketing Administration committee, if quotas are turned down, the price support loan will be cut almost in two, and loans will be available only for those who do not exceed their wheat acreage allotments. Those who exceed their allotments have no assurance of any price support.

This, according to Chairman Houske, is the decision which Pennington county wheat growers will be up against when they vote in the referendum. If quotas are approved, and it takes a two-thirds majority to approve, wheat loans to cooperators will be at 90 percent of parity. If the vote is unfavorable, the loan to cooperators will be 50 percent of parity. Parity as of June 15 was $2.42 a bushel.

The chairman explains that the program applies to all farms where the seeded acreage of wheat is more than 15 acres and where the normal production on the acreage seeded is 200 bushels or more. Farmers having an interest in the wheat grown on such farms are eligible to vote in the referendum. Voting places in Pennington county will be announced later.

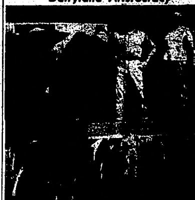
Dairyland Aristocracy



A year ago Dr. Edward Bratrud brought ten Holstein cows up from Northfield and entered into a dairy herd partnership with Clyde Christensen who had taken over the operation of his father's (Waldie Christensen) farm east of Thief River Falls. Now, at the end of half a year of D. H. I. A. testing some interesting production records are being revealed.

In the top picture with Clyde and Dr. Bratrud is Orchard Crest Jeanetta Chieftian with a six months production record of 557 lbs. of butterfat. She freshened January 27 and the period covered extends through the month of July.

At the left in the bottom picture is Boyd Mucho Bess Imperial Sally, who has a 649 lb. production record in 310 days of testing. Her sire was of Carnation herd breeding.

While these probably are the top animals in this corner of the state County Agent Ray Mitteness says excellent records are being made by individuals in three other testing herds in the Thief River Falls area owned by Mordy Morrison, Melvin Evenson and N. E. Muzzy & Son. He says there is a marked improvement in the production of many herds in this area that are not being tested officially.

Mitteness says that according to actual records a cow that produces 600 lbs. of fat a year is worth two 300 lb. cows in the return over feed costs. She is worth four 200 lb. cows and eight cows that produce only 160 lbs. a year.

A Peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

HILLBILLY music has come down from the hills . . . It's rambling around town in Sunday clothes and kicking up its heels on all the musical best seller lists with numbers like "Your Cheatin' Heart," "Kawliga" and "Keep It a Secret" . . . Juke boxes, home record players and radio are full of it . . . It's getting to be such a big thing that this year a National Hillbilly Music Day was declared by a special Act of Congress . . . For many years these shoeless symphonies played mostly for local listeners . . . Now CBS Radio has got itself a one-hour show called "Saturday Night — Country Style," on Saturday nights, which presents the best fiddle-scraping, banjo-plucking and accordion squeezing from not one but six southern cities — Dallas, Shreveport, Knoxville, Wheeling, Louisville and Richmond.

In Richmond, the "Saturday Night-Country Style" show is headed up by a bright-eyed lady called Sunshine Sue . . . Only female in the business, she can sing, pick a guitar, play the organ and she sure can read a commercial . . . But what makes her really popular is her personality . . . She's easy-going, modest, friendly, the sort who might turn out to be a female Arthur Godfrey one of these days . . . Her real name, is Mrs. Mary Higdon Workman.

All in a Day's Work

Sunshine Sue's schedule is enough to make any woman fold up and cry uncle . . . Her day begins at 6:00 AM and between then and 8:00 AM she gets breakfast, sends the kids off to school, issues operational orders to the help and drives 21 miles to Richmond for an 8:30 AM rehearsal date with her cast . . . At 9:00 she's on the air, five mornings a week, for a 45-minute local "Old Dominion Barn Dance" broadcast . . . From then until 11:00 AM she and her crew rehearse the next day's show . . .

There will be three services on Sunday. The public Holiness meeting will be held in the morning at eleven and the public salvation meeting in the evening at 7:30. Main service of dedication will be held in the afternoon at 2:30. Civic leaders have been asked to be present, as well as members of the ministerial association, and local service clubs. The subject of the address to be delivered by Colonel Sandgren will be 'Plans for this House.'

This Sunday marks the beginning of a dream come true by many former officers of the Corps as well as the local advisory board who have shared the anxiety of getting more suitable quarters for the local unit.

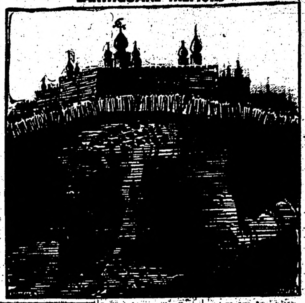
EARTHQUAKE TREMORS



QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

THE VETERAN ASKS:
(This service is based on questions asked at Veterans Administration offices in the State. Answers are supplied by VA.)

Q: I'm a World War II veteran back on active duty, and my National Service Life Insurance policy is under waiver. Will I get my insurance dividends all the same?

A: No. National Service Life Insurance policies do not participate in dividends during the period when such premium waiver is in effect.

Q: Will my service at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point count toward my entitlement for Korean GI Bill training?

A: No. The time you spent as a cadet at West Point does not count toward your entitlement for training under the Korean GI Bill. The same rule applies to those who attend the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis and the U. C. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Connecticut.

Q: I am a disabled World War II Veteran, and I've just finished Public Law 16 training. Will VA now find me a job?

A: The law does not give VA responsibility for finding employment for disabled veterans. However, if you wish VA will refer you to an appropriate state or federal employment agency for this purpose.

Q: What happens if a Korean veteran doesn't apply for GI term insurance within 120 days after his separation from service? Is there any chance of his getting it after that time?

A: No. Under the law you must apply and pay your first premium within 120 days after you leave the service. If you wait longer than that, your chances of getting the insurance are gone for good.

Pasture Renovation

Do you have some permanent pasture on your farm that is not producing as it should? Experiments at the University have shown that renovation boosts yields three to five times.

Work by the University of Minnesota shows that pasture renovation work started in August is best. By starting the cultivation work in August, the old sod is killed and has a chance to rot all fall, making nitrogen and other nutrients available for the new seeding to be made in the spring.

Enough work should be done in August to loosen most of the sod pieces. Cultivate again in about 10 days. By letting the sod lie between cultivations you will find it easier to work up with each succeeding cultivation.

Fertilizer of some kind is a "must" for poor, rundown pastures. A heavy application of manure or about 400 pounds of 4-16-16, or 5-20-10 fertilizer will be enough in most cases.

For specific recommendations, get soil samples tested at the Soils Testing Laboratory, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul. The fertilizer may be worked in during the fall or early spring, just before reseeding.

Check on Grain Bins

Now is the time to make sure your grain bins are clean for storing this year's crop. New regulations by the Food and Drug Administration make it necessary that every precaution be taken to keep grain clean. Since grain from the field is usually clean the important thing is to make sure now that any infestations which might be left over from last year are cleaned up. A few kernels left from last year's crop can harbor enough insects to start a new infestation. After cleaning use a DDT or methoxychlor wettable powder mixed to 2½% concentration, apply this at the rate of two gallons per 1000 square feet. It is also important to eliminate any openings by which birds or rodents may enter the granery.

Hay Silage

Preservatives can be used in making hay crop silage but are not necessary. They will make better silage only when the material to be ensiled is higher in moisture than it should be. Poor silage is due to two causes; to much or not enough moisture. If conditions are right as palatable a silage may be made without a preservative as with one.

Some of the different preservatives being used are ground grains, molasses, and sulfur dioxide.

A new preservative this year is sodium metabisulfate. It comes in powder form and may easily be mixed with green material in the blower. It has no feeding value of its own and acts in the same way as sulfur dioxide.

Ideas from other editors

From the Cedar Springs Clipper, Cedar Springs, Michigan: A printer's devil is a term common to newspaper offices, but what about snakes?

Last week a blow snake wiggled its way the 100-foot length of The Clipper print shop, from back door to front, unconcerned and unafraid. But not so The Clipper staff. Agnes Behrendt, linotype operator, and Susie Andersen, office assistant, climbed screaming atop nearest chairs, while Bob Spiser and Oscar Goller, printers, cheered.

The Clipper editor was in Butterworth hospital, the advertising executive in Detroit, or they probably would have been suspended from the ceiling as Mr. Blow Snake took over.

From The Herington Advertiser-Times, Herington, Kansas: The Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution which became effective in 1913 and gave the federal government the power to lay a direct tax on the incomes of the people, was the seed from which the socialistic welfare state idea grew in this country. Actually, not one of us has a constitutional right remaining to one penny of our income.

The unlimited power to tax the incomes of the people reversed the basic concept of government on which our republic is founded. It made government master of the people, rather than their servant.

Most of us, still startled by the tremendous chunks of our income that went to pay federal taxes last year, begin to agree with the idea that the only way to prevent confiscatory taxation is to new limits, by Constitutional amendment, the income taxing power of government. This is the only way we can hope to preserve representative government and a free economy.

Relief will never come from tax collectors but only through changes forced by taxpayers.

From the Somerset American, Somerset, Pa.: John L. Lewis has called upon congress to develop new uses for coal. The head of the United Mine Workers points out that gasoline may be made out of coal and that for the national defense, it should be.

The question arises, should congress be the agency through which coal is converted into gasoline?

That which is done by the government is done uneconomically, often wastefully. That which is done by private corporations is done more efficiently and at less cost.

The Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal company has done a great deal toward the development of new uses for coal and has probably done a better job than the government would have done.

Rev. Robert H. Harper
The Christian Home
Lesson for August 2: Colossians 3:12-4:1
Golden Text Colossians 3:23

Paul professes his admonitions concerning the Christian Home with general observations of the Christian life. He writes of things that should adorn those who comprise the Christian home.

Every relationship is given attention. There is a one-sided appraisal of the situation. First, parents are considered. Father is to be honored as the head of the home. But husbands are admonished to love their wives. Whereby we conclude that the "subjection" urged upon the wife is not servile. Love is never a hard taskmaster. Children are to obey their parents. This would be universally approved. But parental authority is not to be made hard and galling.

Thus far the pattern of the home is quite like that of one today. But in the present the servant problem is conspicuous by its absence. There are few servants. But where there are servants, the relationship between them and their employers should be one of mutual respect. Many of the jests and much of the bitterness would be done away if there could be a better attitude in labor relations, not only in the home but also in the factory, if service should be rendered as "unto the Lord," and all should be given their just due as in the sight of the "Master in Heaven."

Crookston Defeats Thieves at RLF 12-5; Locals File Protest

Playing an erratic 1st inning, in which the Thieves gave up nine runs to the Crookston Pirates after two men were out, cost the local club the game and the Red River Valley league lead as the Thieves dropped a 12 to 5 decision to Crookston in a game played at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night. The game was completed under a protest, with the Thieves' management contending that the Larry Anderson, who was on the mound for the Pirates, was playing under an assumed name.

Andy Carey opened the game by rapping a line single to left field; Sunny Holz sacrifice Carey to second; John Merril scratched a single to left, with Carey stopping at third base; Glen Gumila flied to Phil LeGault in left field for the second out. Loren Hegland was safe on Sid Vraa's error, Carey scoring. Bud Schraeder was safe on another error, with Merril scoring on the boot. Toddy Johnson, Bakke, Anderson, and Carey followed with singles, adding four Pirate runs. Holz gained a "life" on an error, loading the bases. Merril tripled to the fence in right-center, driving in the Pirates' 7th, 8th, and 9th runs. Phil LeGault, taking over the Thieves' hurling duties, retired the side by getting Gumila to ground out to first baseman Perkins.

A walk, a pair of Crookston errors, and Swede Lund's infield hit gave the locals a score in the bottom half of the 1st inning. Crookston, on a walk to Gumila and Hegland, and on Gumila's steal to third and home, marked up a tally in the 6th inning, to gain a 10 to 1 lead. A single by Anderson, an error, and Holz single to left, produced a Pirate run in the 7th inning; and the Pirates notched their final marker in the 8th when Bud Schraeder opened with a single, his third safety of the game, advanced to second on Johnson's ground ball, stole third and scored on Anderson's single.

The Thieves came up with four runs in the 9th inning when Gene Leslie singled, Perkins was safe on an error, Jack Hoppe doubled down the left field foul line, Gerry Stevens drew a walk, Sid Vraa was also given a walk, and pitcher Anderson committed a balk. Joey Poole's single, off Gumila's glove scored Hoppe, and Lund's ground out to first base, permitted Stevens to tally the fourth run of the inning.

The Thieves will conclude their regular schedule Sunday afternoon by playing the Red Lake Falls at Red Lake Falls. The game was originally slated for the Fair Grounds diamond, but with the County Fair in operation this week it was deemed advisable to transfer the game to the Red Lake Falls diamond.

On Thursday night of this week, under the lights at Red Lake Falls Riverside Park, the Red River Valley league All Stars will play the Northern Minnesota league All Stars in an exhibition game. Phil LeGault of the Thieves and Ken Dupuis of the Crookston Pirates will direct the Red River Valley loop team, while St. Hilaire's Klem Gigstad and Fosston's Glenn Whaley will manage the Northern Minny squad.

Lions Club Views Film at Luncheon Last Wednesday

Members of the Lions club, at their luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon in the Rex Cafe, witnessed the presentation by Ted Kusmak, program chairman, of a film, depicting wars that have afflicted the world during the past 20 years, and teaching the lesson that this nation's only salvation is to keep itself strong.

In the club's business session, President John Anderson read a letter from officers of the Salvation Army asking that the Lions supply a team of solicitors to help canvass the city for the Army during its building fund campaign to be staged in August.

H. O. Chommie and Neil McElwee volunteered their services.

Local Firemen at Bemidji Meeting

Regional Firemen Hold Summer Session Sunday

More than 80 firemen representing 19 fire departments in this area attended the summer meeting of the Northern Region Firemen's association in Bemidji Sunday. Representing Thief River Falls were Chief Roy Langevin, Tom Fuller, Einar Barstad, Albert Lafrenz and Kenneth Borsheim.

Clarence Cherry, deputy state fire marshall, gave a talk, discussing arson prevention and other subjects of interest to firemen. Roy Aune of Bemidji, area civil defense coordinator, explained the purpose of the auxiliary firefighting equipment recently distributed to departments in Thief River Falls and other communities.

Don Billardeau of Crookston made a plea for a campaign to prevent drownings, which have taken many lives in the state this year. The group voted to ask the cooperation of Cedric Adams, Minneapolis Star columnist, who led the successful campaign to outlaw fireworks in Minnesota.

An invitation extended by the Crookston department to be host to the fall fire school was accepted, and the date was set at September 15.

Alvarado Juniors Upset Locals 8-5, Win Subdistrict

Winners Gain Berth in District Tournament to Be Played at Ada

Coach Morris Hill's Alvarado juniors, behind the sturdy four-hit pitching of righthanded Bob Bergman, upset the local juniors, 8 to 5, to win the sub-district title at the American Legion tourney played at Argyle on Saturday and Sunday. By virtue of the triumph over the locals on Sunday, the Alvarado juniors gained a berth in the district tournament that will be played at Ada.

The locals swamped the Warroad juniors, 22 to 2, in a first round game in the sub-district tourney on Saturday afternoon, with Bob Helgeland and Sid Vraa poling over-the-fence home runs.

The Roseau juniors, scheduled to play Alvarado in the second game of Saturday's first round series, forfeited the game when, due to injuries and the absence of several players, the Roseau management was not able to field a team.

On Sunday afternoon, in the tourney finals, Coach Ralph Skjod's club gained a 2 to 0 lead in the bottom half of the 1st inning when Joey Poole drove a home run over the right field barrier. The Alvarado juniors, who tagged righthander Sid Vraa for ten hits, moved ahead of the locals in the 4th inning when they bunched three hits, with an error, to score three runs.

Alvarado "insured" game in the 6th inning when, with a couple of opportune base hits and aided by some sluggish play by the locals, Coach Hill's team racked up four runs.

Sister of Local Man Writes Novel, 'High Threshold'

Nicoline Kildahl Allen of Seattle, Wash., sister of George Kildahl, manager of the Woolworth store in Thief River Falls, is the author of a novel, "High Threshold," recently published by Vantage Press.

Mrs. Allen, a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a social worker for twenty years, tells the story of a girl who grew up on a Minnesota farm, where she had been left by her unmarried mother.

The novel tells feelingly of the problems that confronted the girl due to her illegitimacy and how she coped with them. The book has received numerous favorable reviews.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Protest

About the only satisfaction that the Thieves received out of their game at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night, in which they were beaten by the Crookston Pirates by a 12 to 5 score, was the fact that the game was played under protest and that Phil LeGault's southpaw arm has apparently regained its stuff. And, too, the fact that a $300 crowd was on hand was gratifying to the club's treasurer.

The Thieves' management has forwarded a protest to the Red River Valley league officials, requesting a hearing on the eligibility of the Larry Anderson who appeared in the Crookston Pirates lineup, contending that the player who played as Anderson was in reality Larry Doughdy.

The local club's Swede Lund immediately recognized "Anderson," having played against him in an early-season game at Grand Forks, at which time he was known as Doughdy. And it was as Larry Doughdy that the righthander hurled a couple of Northern league games for the Grand Forks Chiefs.

If the protest should be upheld, and if it should be determined that the Crookston Pirates had a player in their lineup who was playing under an assumed name, it's probable that the league standings will be given a scrambling. It is reported that Doughdy has played several games with the Pirates, and has been using the name Anderson. The Pirates do have an Anderson on their roster, but that player, a pitcher, is no longer with the Crookston club.

Local baseball fans should make a memo of the fact that the game at Red Lake Falls on Sunday, against the Lakers, will be a night game.

Sublime to the Ridiculous

Phil LeGault, playing in a foursome with Vic Jung, Stan Larson, and Earl Hackert, entered the local golf club's "Hall of Fame" on Tuesday evening when he scored a hole-in-one on the 211-yard eighth hole.

Phil, who shoots from a southpaw stance, used a driver off the tee, and sent the "Soo Line" ball on a rifle-like shot to the green and the pin. The ball was immediately taken out of play, and Earl Hackert has properly inscribed the ball with the facts pertaining to the hole-in-one. The ball, according to present plans, will be placed in the local club's trophy case.

After shooting that eagle ace on the 8th hole, Phil, appearing flustered by all the attention he was receiving from his companions, shot a big nine on the 9th hole, playing the hole via the driving range and the club house.

Chicken Dinners

The local nimrods will have an opportunity to obtain a chicken or two for the family dinner on Sunday when the first of a series of "chicken shoots" will be held at the trap shooting grounds north of town, adjacent to the golf club.

The chicken shoot on Sunday will begin at 9:30 a. m. and all shooters are welcome. The local layout, with two traps, is in perfect condition.

Jung Reached the Legion Finals

Vic Jung, the local club's top-ranking golfer, participated in the state American Legion golf tourney played at Willmar on Saturday and Sunday, and lost in the finals to Appleton's Babe Veum 1-up.

Vic, who qualified for the sixteen-man championship flight by shooting a 79 on Saturday, eliminated the tournament favorite, Sauk Center's Pat Dubois, in a second round match.

A Disappointment

Coach Ralph Skjod and local junior baseball enthusiasts were disappointed when the juniors lost their sub-district finals game to Alvarado, 8 to 5, at Argyle on Sunday. The fact that Alvarado possessed a first-rate battery in pitcher Bob Bergman and catcher Ronnie Olson had much to do with the locals' loss. But Coach Skjod's squad had scored a pair of lop-sided wins over the Alvarado club during the regular schedule, and with Bergman and Olson in the Alvarado lineup, so the defeat on Sunday was unexpected and can be rated as a minor upset.

The Red Lake Falls junior baseball fans were disappointed too, for Coach Darrold King's team were beaten in tournament play by Winger, losing an 8 to 4 decision.

Goodridge Man Fined Saturday

Arrested on Highway 1 in the Town of North Friday by the highway patrol, Oscar Bye of Goodridge was brought Saturday into municipal court here on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence on intoxicating liquor. He was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and $5 costs.

The week's play in the Red River Valley loop will be highlighted by the All Star game at Red Lake Falls on Thursday night. Ken Dupuis of the Crookston Pirates and Phil LeGault of the Thieves will manage a squad of Red River Valley league All Stars in an exhibition game against an All Star team selected from the Northern Minny baseball league. Last year's All Star game between the two leagues, which was played as a Gust Isackson benefit, attracted a large crowd, and it is expected that Thursday night's exhibition will be well-attended.

In regular league play during the week, the Crookston Pirates, scoring a disputed 12 to 5 decision over the Thief River Falls Thieves are in second place, one Sunday night, moved into the league lead, boasting an eight wins and three loss record. The Thieves ar in second place, one-half game behind the Pirates and one-half game ahead of the Alvarado Farmers.

The league, except for the playing off of several postponed games, will conclude its regular schedule on Sunday.

The Thief River Falls Thieves vs. Red Lake Falls Lakers game, which will be played at Red Lake Falls, will be a night game.

State Legionnaires to Convene August 1

Minnesota American Legion members and guests—expected by convention officials to number 3,000—will hear four candidates for national commander bid for their votes during their annual five-day convention in Minneapolis.

The convention will open Saturday and continue thru next Wednesday. Appointed as delegates from Ecklund-Homlstrom post are Steve Austin and John Jaranson, while auxiliary delegates are, Mrs. George Baken and Mrs. John Lang.

Candidates bidding for Minnesota support are Seaborn P. Collins, Las Cruces, N. M.; Lawrence J. Fenlon, Chicago; Arthur Connell, Hartford, Conn., and Charles L. Larson, Madison, Wis. The national convention will be held in St. Louis, Mo., in September.

The Minnesota Legionnaires will elect their own new state commander at Wednesday's closing session. Two World War I veterans are candidates to succeed Milton G. Boock, Lake City. They are Paul Geer, St. Paul, and Nate Kellar, Virginia.

Legionnaires will hold business sessions in Minneapolis armory, while the Legion auxiliary will hold sessions at the Radisson hotel.

Convention action will be taken on about 60 resolutions already passed at district conventions.

Another serious note in the convention agenda is the annual joint meeting Sunday and the annual memorial service to honor war dead.

Dr. Elmer S. Hjortland, pastor of Central Lutheran church, will preach the memorial address at 7:30 p. m. services Sunday in the armory.

Before the services, Legionnaires will participate in the memorial procession. Gold Star mothers will ride and uniformed Legionnaires will escort the auto caravan on foot while bands and drum corps beat out the music of the funeral march.

The convention will feature two other parades. The first will be the annual 40 and 8 fun event Saturday night, a torchlight procession at 9 p. m.

Highlight of the festival portions of the convention program will be the annual department parade Tuesday.

State Will Ballot on Four Justices in 1954 Election

Term of Oscar Knutson of Warren Among Those Due to Expire Next Year

Four justices of the Minnesota supreme court will face the voters at the same time in the 1954 election.

That development comes as a result of the personnel shifting which followed the retirement of Chief Justice Charles Loring.

Had there been no change in the lineup, only two members of the high tribunal would have come up for re-election to six-year terms. But state law requires that the two new appointees of Governor Anderson must file for retention of their posts.

The judges who are expected to file for election next year are:

Chief Justice Roger Dell, 55, Fergus Falls, who was elevated from associate justice last week to replace Loring, who retired at the age of 79.

Associate Justice Thomas Gallagher, 55, Minneapolis, the senior jurist in point of years of service, having been first elected 21 years ago.

Associate Justice Oscar R. Knutson, 54, Warren, appointed by Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl in 1948 and elected at the statewide election later that year.

Associate Justice Martin A. Nelson, 64, Austin, named by Governor Anderson and sworn in last Thursday to succeed Justice Dell.

State's Standard of Living Helped by Use of Credit

Minnesota's 873,800 families—with an average annual buying income of $4,300—own 993,400 automobiles and trucks, more than 730,100 refrigerators; all own radios, 271,000 television sets and over 731,800 vacuum cleaners, according to a special study just completed.

Minnesota's high standard of living, like that of every other state, has been made possible to a large extent by the sound use of consumer instalment credit, the study indicated. Taking automobiles as an example, the study shows that 98 out of 100 Minnesotans are excellent credit risks, making their payments on time and completing obligations on their contracts promptly.

The study was conducted by C.I.T. Financial Corporation, independent financing institution.

'U' of M. to Offer Navy ROTC Setup

Eligible Students to Be Given Draft Deferment

The U. S. Navy, in cooperation with the University of Minnesota, will offer to young men, who plan to enroll as freshmen in the University this fall, an opportunity to participate in the Navy college training program. This plan will enable male students, upon completion of their academic course, to qualify for a University degree and a commissioned officer rank in the U. S. Navy, Naval Reserve, Marine Corps, and Marine Corps Reserve.

Naval science courses are normally carried throughout a four-year University program—one naval science course per quarter. The University of Minnesota gives full credit for these courses as electives to be applied toward the requirements for a bachelor's degree.

Selection of young men for the naval ROTC program will begin officially at the University of Minnesota on the 3rd of August in conjunction with the University orientation and registration period for new students. Candidates must apply in person to the Naval ROTC Unit, 203 Armory Building, Main University Campus. Those young men selected for the program will be given immediate draft deferment which will remain in effect as long as the student accomplishes satisfactory progress in his academic and naval ROTC work.

Christmas Seal Workers to Meet in St. Paul Aug. 6

Sixty-five Christmas Seal workers from 41 Minnesota counties are definitely signed up to attend their annual institute, set for August 6 and 7 at Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association headquarters in St. Paul. It is expected that about twice that number will be present.

Herman A. Kjos is a Pennington county representative

Each Minnesota county is invited to send one or more delegates to the volunteer workers' session—a time set to talk over every county's tuberculosis problems and program plans, according to a release from the state TB association. Those attending include local Christmas Seal committees and county TB association officers.

Miss Gail Thieling Tells of Fine Time at Aquatennial

Miss Gail Thieling, who represented the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Queen of the Lakes contest at the Minneapolis Aquatennial last week, returned home Monday full of praise for the hospitality shown her by her Minneapolis hosts.

"They treated us like queens," she said, "and it was an experience I never will forget. I want to thank the Jaycees for having given me the opportunity to share in the Aquatennial."

Crowned Queen of the Lakes Friday evening was Miss Betty Tronea, 19, well-poised girl from Richfield, Minneapolis suburb, while Miss Mary E. Forster of Mankato and Miss Gloria Shopek of Minneapolis were selected as princess attendants to the queen.

Miss Thieling said that both the afternoon and evening parades, which were highlights of the event, were staged under perfect weather conditions. In the evening parade, in which she rode in a convertible, she carried a beautiful bouquet of roses sent her by Mayor and Mrs. Harry E. Simons.

Another enjoyable feature of the week, she said, was an afternoon spent at Lake Minnetonka by the 40 queen candidates in company with 00 naval cadets, with several couples serving as chaperones.

The girls also were entertained at several country clubs and at the principal Minneapolis cafes. They received a collection of gifts from various business places in the city.

Miss Thieling and the other candidates made their headquarters at the Nicollet Hotel. The only effect of the strike of hotel workers was to make it necessary for the guests to supply their own maid service in their rooms and to serve breakfast to themselves.

BUT PEACE IS NOT YET RESTORED

After two years of negotiation a truce calling for a cease fire in Korea was finally signed Sunday. On Monday morning, after 37 months of slaughter and destruction, the fighting came to at least a temporary halt. The war is not yet ended in the sense that peace has been restored. Only an armistice has been agreed upon.

Under the terms of this truce a peace conference will get under way within 90 days. Based on our experience in negotiating a truce we may expect, as one writer puts it, that this "armistice period will be as full of confusion and frustration as the war itself has been."

But we will be glad to put up with confusion and frustration as long as it is confined to diplomatic skirmishes. It will be comparatively easy to be patient in the knowledge that our men, those who survived, have been released from enemy prisons and that, while the diplomats are debating, the men in uniform are not shooting it out in the hills a few miles away.

Looking back over the three years of fighting, with the line of combat shifting south and north and south and north again, it cannot be said that the fighting in Korea has ended with a military victory for either side. In looking back it is easy for all of us, the pie counter strategists, to point to mistakes in the conduct of the war. We can all agree that things might have been different if this or that had been or had not been done.

On the cheerful side is the indisputable fact that those who started the war have not won it; that the conquest of South Korea was an act of aggression that failed. That failure may prove to have been of far reaching consequences in the weakening of Red morale and the breakdown of Red solidarity.

In terms of the overall problem of trying to maintain law and order in this crazy world of ours we can get considerable satisfaction out of knowing that the Korean adventure turned out to be an expensive failure for the aggressors. To the extent that it was a failure for the aggressors it must be looked upon as a success for the nations that have banded themselves together in a joint effort to police the world.

We know, as a matter of fact, that in this instance our own country did most of the job of policing. The job was done however in the name of the United Nations and to whatever extent the evil purposes of the aggressors were thwarted, the Korean war was a victory for collective security.

The decision as to which side won the battle for Korea of course will depend on who writes the final record. If the Reds ultimately take over then Korea will be recorded in history as a Red victory. But if the United Nations, as an organization of free nations, is able to survive and ultimately restore peace and safeguard freedom, then Korea will go down as one of the important battles in defense of a free world.

There was no inclination for celebration on the occasion of the signing of a truce. That truce may or may not lead to the peace we all hope for. In the crucial days that are ahead of us we will need to be vigilant. As we speak softly we will still have to carry a big stick. But for the progress that has been made and for the renewed hope that this truce brings we should be thankful.

AN EXPENSIVE FOLLY

Our once wealthy Uncle Sam is now poor. As a result of many years of reckless spending his notes are now worth only 50c on the dollar. Most of his friends agree that with good management he could become solvent again but he is a headstrong fellow.

Like so many others who have spent themselves into financial difficulties he still insists that spending is a great virtue. He continues to entertain lavishly and is noted for the many free services he bestows even upon his own creditors, who generally would prefer that he do a better job of managing his affairs and start paying his bills.

One of his expensive follies is his postal service. This is an essential service and his friends have come to rely upon it but they are embarrassed by his insistence that he carry the mail for them at far less than his actual out-of-the-pocket costs. Knowing that he cannot afford to continue this sort of thing and that they eventually will have to come to his assistance anyway, they prefer that he charge them a fair price for the service he provides.

Frankly they are getting a little discouraged over his continual borrowing from them in order to make a great show of his generosity, although they do like him a lot.

Along with the usual problems of growing and harvesting a crop, farmers this year face an unusual problem in marketing their grain. Too much of last year's crop is still in storage. Bulging elevators at both country and terminal points, unable to move accumulated surpluses, provide little reserve space for this year's harvest. Many farmers, anticipating difficulty, have already taken steps to provide additional on-the-farm storage.

Military man Eisenhower has indicated that he has more confidence in food than in bullets as a solution for some of the world's problems. There are many hungry people and when they become desperately hungry they do desperate things. In east Berlin they fought Red tanks with rocks. Eisenhower's proposal that we feed the hungry rather than fight them makes sense. In the accumulated surpluses of food that are glutting our domestic markets we have trading stock that should make it easier to find peaceful solutions to some of the problems of a world in which some nations face a critical food shortage.

Looking Backward

1923—THIRTY YEARS AGO

It now appears certain that a beet sugar factory will be built in Thief River Falls. John Bratrud and H. W. Protzeller reported after a conference with President Douglass of the Northern Sugar Corp.—George A. Russell assumed the post of manager of the local telephone exchange.—Rev. I. T. Aastad of Detroit will ordain Milton [illegible] of this city into the ministry at Trinity church July 29.—Ewing Bjornaraa and C. W. Vorachek left on a week's motor tour of the state.

1933—TWENTY YEARS AGO

The city council awarded to Bert Norby the general contract for the erection of a new city Auditorium on his bid of $48,261. The minimum wage scale set forth in the specification calls for 35 cents an hour for building laborers, 80 cents for carpenters and 75 cents for bricklayers.—Martin Bothun is erecting a new stone building on Main av. near Third st.—Morris Eye was named temporary president of the newly organized Red Lake River Development assn.—Rev. and Mrs. I. L. Lawson of Mavie will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary July 30.—S. E. Hunt was named president of the new Pennington Co. National Farm Loan assn.

1943—TEN YEARS AGO

Ralph A. Luhman was named to succeed Clifford Bjerkman as chief air raid warden in this city.—Archie Hensrud was appointed to the library board to succeed C. W. Pope, who has left the city.—Alex Campbell, for the past ten years deputy registrar of motor vehicles here, resigned his duties and was succeeded by A. F. Berge.—Ray Hartman, manager of the local Woolworth store, was transferred to New Ulm.—F. A. Brown of Grygla was elected president of the N. W. Assn. of Conservation Clubs.—The 1943 Pennington Co. fair has been cancelled because of war conditions. Instead, a 4-H fair will be held Sept. 24 and 25.—Miss Katherine Barsen of Chicago is visiting here at the home of her mother, Mrs. Anna Barsen.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Consider the Mother

Cows calving since late winter need special attention—also the cows which will calve from now until late fall. Ralph Wayne, extension dairyman at the University of Minnesota, suggests that you see that they are in good condition—some grain to dry cows is usually a good investment. Good pasture is excellent feed, but real good cows will also pay well for extra grain, hay or silage, according to Wayne.

Conservation Blueprint

A recent item in the Sauk Centre Herald, Stearns county, said in part, "This business of saving the soil is not just for a few years but for all time. A house is a temporary structure by comparison, yet every builder uses a blueprint so that everyone will know what is to be done from foundation to finished building. As with a building, a conservation blueprint for your farm will help you plan for better soil and higher yields in the present as well as in the future."

4-H Programs

Two national 4-H programs relating to conservation and home beautification in rural areas have been approved by the Minnesota state club office. Incentives for outstanding records of achievement include medals for county winners and 17-jewel watches to state winners in both programs. In soil and water conservation, sectional winners are given expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in November, and national winners receive $300 college scholarships. There are no sectional awards in the beautification of home grounds program, but national winners receive trips to the 4-H Club Congress.

There are about 500 companies each producing more than 100,000 tons of bituminous coal yearly, with thousands of companies producing less.

"Never Sick a Day in My Life"

▶ Mrs. Drury

Resting comfortably in her home, Mrs. Lulla Drury, of Excelsior would say "Amen" to the fact that a person just never knows when sickness will strike. Mrs. Drury had never been sick a day in her life until a stroke forced her to become hospitalized for 70 days.

After her prolonged hospital stay, she was extremely grateful she hadn't let her hospitalization protection drop. A subscriber to two non-profit Minnesota health plans, Mrs. Drury says, "Would you believe that after 70 days in the hospital, all I had to pay of my hospital bill of $1,339.96 was the $25 deductible and $21 for a special service."

The non-profit health plans which provided Mrs. Drury with the vital hospital, medical and surgical care protection she needed were Blue Cross and Blue Shield. "I'm certainly thankful to have Blue Cross and Blue Shield," Mrs. Drury says, "and to know that I can keep this protection just as long as I wish."

Complete free details on the Blue Cross $25 Deductible hospital care plan, which protected Mrs. Drury so well, and the Blue Shield medical-surgical care plan may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-7, 2610 University Ave., St. Paul 14, Minn. A postcard will do.

BIG SCOOP for taconite

8½ CUBIC YARDS OF ROCK are an easy mouthful for this huge shovel bucket. Here, oiler James Dowling greases the ears of this monster, which currently is being used to strip waste material from a taconite deposit at Mountain Iron, Minn. With reserves of good ore decreasing, Minnesota's iron mining industry is spending the development of low-grade ore and taconite processing—operations which can employ more miners than ever before. Iron mining employees today are at or near the top of all the major industrial groups in Minnesota in average weekly earnings. Tomorrow, with more workers needed, the prosperity of the iron ranges can become even greater—with more benefits for the entire state. A fair deal for Minnesota's iron mining industry means a good deal for you.

Basic Research Has Much Value, Farmers Told at N. W. School

Farmers were urged at Crookston July 21 not to overlook the importance of the "undramatic" fundamental research which precedes the practical work on which recommendations of University of Minnesota agricultural scientists are based.

The speaker was H. J. Sloan, director of the Minnesota agricultural experiment station, and the occasion was Crops and Soils Day at the University's Northwest Experiment Station.

Persons viewing results of applied research at agricultural experiment stations sometimes overlook the great amount of hard work, time, and funds required to bring these studies to practical results that can be used by farm people, said Dr. Sloan.

"To find varieties of wheat adapted to the area, years of tedious and undramatic research must be done to make the crosses and the selections that must precede the eventual selection of an individual variety. In determining the characteristics of the soil that will influence the selection of suitable crops, a great amount of soil testing, chemical laboratory research and many fertilizer trials are required to demonstrate the most effective use of the particular soil types," he continued.

The principal aim of a University agricultural experiment sub-station such as that at Crookston is to determine what farm practices, crops and types of live stock are best suited to the area. The problems of Northwestern Minnesota, where the Crookston station is located, are different from those in other parts of the state, and general recommendations must be modified to suit the area, according to Dr. Sloan.

He cited as examples studies of feeds for livestock that can be effectively produced in the area, varieties of crops especially adapted to the area and farm management practices that are determined largely by climate and types of soil.

Others appearing on the program were D. W. Sunderman, University and USDA wheat breeder; J. J. Christensen, head of the University plant pathology department. Representatives of the University departments of plant pathology, agronomy, soils, entomology and horticulture took part in an open forum discussion following a field tour. Moderator of the discussion was T. H. Fenske, assistant dean of the University's Institute of Agriculture.

First Year Alfalfa Produces Abundantly

A first year stand of alfalfa has yielded two cuttings for Art Bartleson on his farm east of Thief River Falls. He took the first crop June 14 and on Thursday of last week, July 23, it was ready for the second cutting. In the picture above with Bartleson are Ole Ekeren and Ray Mitteness, county agent.

Belief in Signs Would Save Lives

A wholesale reduction in traffic deaths and accidents could be achieved, says the Minnesota highway department, if motorists would believe road signs. According to figures of the National Safety Council, about 60 per cent of the fatal traffic accidents each year involve the violation of one or more traffic laws. Failure to heed warning signs and pavement markings is one way of asking for trouble and, as the records show, usually ends up that way. Obey the signs, says the highway department, and you'll stand a much better chance of avoiding accidents and staying alive.

Of the more than 2,000 coal mines in Pennsylvania, about 1,700 produce bituminous.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

How strong will Senator Hubert H. Humphrey be in his bid for re-election next year? This question appears to be arousing some thoughtful speculation among both his admirers and opponents as the time approaches for the Republicans to enter their opposing candidate.

A Republican spokesman last week asserted that the Democrat-Farmer-Laborites believe Humphrey to win must obtain extraordinary majorities in the metropolitan counties of Hennepin, Ramsey, and St. Louis. He cited the large vote margins received last year in Minnesota by President Eisenhower and Senator Thye as evidence that the state would go Republican in '54, unless the large city vote offset Republican out-state gains.

The situation is, of course, a good deal more complex than this. In assessing Humphrey's prospects for next year a number of factors must be considered, among them his initial strength in 1948 and whether he lost ground in the last six years and the general prospects for Republicans making further gains in 1954.

Had Majority of 243,693

In 1948, Humphrey piled up a majority of 243,693 votes over his Republican opponent, incumbent Joseph H. Ball, carrying 67 of the state's 87 counties. He polled 729,494 votes to Ball's 485,801, which was almost 37,000 more votes than President Truman got in that year.

Humphrey carried Hennepin county with a majority of 54,880; Ramsey county, 49,368, and St. Louis county, 43,669, for an over-all majority in the three big-city counties of 147,917, which still left a majority of 95,776 in the out-state areas.

To win in 1954 the Republicans must count on an even greater shift back into their column than occurred last year when Eisenhower carried the state. His majority was 154,753 and was well distributed over the state, including a majority of 25,000 in Hennepin county.

Has Support Weakened?

The big and imponderable question in the picture is whether Humphrey's main blocs of support have materially weakened since 1948. DFL spokesmen will, of course, insist that he has gained rather than slipped, just as GOP leaders will insist the opposite is true.

But, looking at the three main economic groups, one would have to concede Humphrey's strength among labor, which is largely responsible for his big majorities in the larger cities, so the Republicans can hardly hope for a major gain here. The farm vote is a puzzler; Humphrey dug deep into this traditional Republican stronghold in '48, as did Truman, and in '52 the farmers seemingly were back in the GOP column. There is, however, continuing agitation over the Eisenhower's farm policies and the price drop presumably has done them no service.

The business bloc is presumably Humphrey's weakest area of support, this being the most persistent Republican group. Yet, even here there is no striking evidence to indicate that Humphrey has not, in fact, gained—by virtue of his attention to the needs of Minnesota businessmen since entering the Senate—rather than slipped.

Campaigner a Factor, Too

Another factor in Humphrey's favor that cannot be minimized is his effectiveness as a campaigner. There are few who are better speakers on the hustings than Humphrey, and he loses few opportunities to get his point of view across.

Humphrey as a campaigner is capable of actually making votes, even in areas that ordinarily can be written off as certain lost territory for Democratic candidates. For every vote of this type that Humphrey picks up the Republicans must get two to offset it.

Also, it is becoming more and more clear that Humphrey has given President Eisenhower much-needed support on crucial foreign and domestic issues at a time when many in his own Republican Party were opposing him. This, also, cuts into the support that the GOP needs to overcome Humphrey's initial strength as shown in '48.

An Opponent's Buildup

Perhaps the factor that is most difficult for the Republicans to contend with is building up an opponent who can become well enough known and well enough respected in the time remaining before next year's election.

Political campaigners eventually discover—after years of painful experience—that penetrating all parts of the state with effective vote appeals requires more than a few months buildup before the general election. It takes many months, even years, for a candidate to develop an effective statewide following, unless there are spectacular and over-riding issues that create a strong desire to defeat the incumbent. Humphrey had this advantage in 1948, just as Harold Stassen had it in 1938, but as of now the high-tide of protest such as existed in those years does not seem to have been reached.

It is little wonder that the Republicans are giving extensive thought to the problem of building up a potential opponent to Humphrey. There is the added danger, too, from the GOP point of view, that a victory for Humphrey by a wide margin could carry with it other victories for state offices by the DFL, because the Senatorial contest will most certainly dominate the proceedings in the state next year.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's Fine To Be Fooled —Sometimes

Handy Peters entertained for the ladies of the Auxiliary the other night—"had" the ladies believing for a while that he's the best marksman ever.

Handy put on a great act. He set up a whole bunch of balloons on a muslin backdrop and then took out his peashooter. He shot blindfolded, standing on his head, every which way—and broke a balloon every time!

No wonder Handy impressed the ladies. What they didn't know—till the show's end—was that Buck Mulligan was hiding behind the backdrop improving on Handy's aim with a hatpin.

From where I sit, we all get things "put over" on us now and again. When it's good-natured—fine! But, some folks would like to fool the rest of us into believing it's wrong to enjoy an occasional glass of beer—just because they prefer something else. For real American tolerance and neighborliness those people are simply "off target."

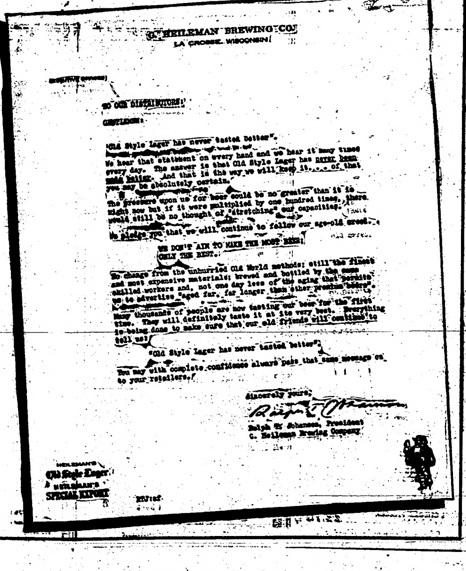
A PLEDGE

We believe you will be interested in this letter which we have sent to all our Distributors



G. HEILEMAN BREWING CO.
LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN

TO OUR DISTRIBUTORS:

GENTLEMEN:

"Old Style Lager has never tasted better".

We hear that statement on every hand and we hear it many times every day. The answer is that Old Style Lager has never been made better. And that is the way we will keep it. . . of that you may be absolutely certain.

The pressure upon us for beer could be no greater than it is right now but if it were multiplied by one hundred times, there would still be no thought of "stretching" our capacities.

We pledge you that we will continue to follow our age-old creed.

WE DON'T AIM TO MAKE THE MOST BEER;
ONLY THE BEST.

No change from the unhurried Old World methods: still the finest and most expensive materials; brewed and bottled by the same skilled workers and, not one day less of the aging that permits us to advertise "aged far, far longer than other premium beers".

Many thousands of people are now tasting our beer for the first time. They will definitely taste it at its very best. Everything is being done to make sure that our old friends will continue to tell us:

"Old Style Lager has never tasted better".

You may with complete confidence always pass that same message on to your retailers.

Sincerely yours,

Ralph T. Johansen, President

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Childhood years are important to a smooth adolescent period. The child who, before adolescence, has found home to be a secure world, who has felt loved, wanted, and respected as a person rather than as a possession, draws confidence in living from these experiences. Parents who create an atmosphere of mutual affection and esteem provide the child with very significant models for his own behavior.

When parents realize how essential it is that a child succeed in achieving independence, their view of the conflicts which may appear during the process changes. The wise parents looks ahead and sees very clearly that in order to attain maturity, the adolescent not only should, but must, break away from dependence on his parents.

Of course, the child may not follow exactly the order that his parents have in mind as he moves toward greater self-reliance, but in the long run, the important thing is that he does reach out for greater self-determination. Independence may bring real differences of opinion, and sometimes conflict, but this is easier for the parent to accept when he keeps in mind the important major goal of maturity.

Independence can be fostered in many ways by the parents themselves. A room of one's own is one way of showing respect for the adolescent's need for privacy. Just as physical privacy gives the adolescent a chance to get acquainted with himself, so also does the privilege of "mental privacy."

The wise parent will gradually "let go" of wanting to know every detail of the day or evening. Interest in listening to what the adolescent chooses to tell brings better results than trying to insist on a complete, minute-by-minute account. Generally, adolescents do want to talk with their parents—provided they are not forced to do so.

It helps the independence to give adolescents more voice in the family decisions, more freedom in planning his own spending, selecting his own clothing. Respect for the adolescent, as a person in his own right, is the basis for much of these sorts of parent behavior.

Iris Transplanting

Iris, popularly called the "poor man's orchid," is grown by just about everyone who has a flower border. Many gardeners who have been growing the old-fashioned types are amazed when they see some of the newer varieties for the first time. Probably no flower has been improved as much during recent years as the iris.

• • • • • •

By selecting different varieties, gardeners can have bloom from late April until early June or even later. There are even a few varieties which are repeat bloomers that may bloom almost anytime during summer or fall. Iris also varies in size from the dwarf types, a few inches high to the giant bearded types three or more feet tall. Most of the colors in the spectrum can be found in iris blooms.

• • • • •

The best time to plant or transplant iris is the latter part of July or in August. When iris is allowed to grow in the same location for several years, plants become very crowded and the size and number of blooms decline. It also becomes increasingly difficult to keep grass and weeds out.

• • • • •

Bacterial leaf spot and the iris [illegible] in old plantings. [illegible] with disease and insects.

• • • • •

Iris can be lifted with an ordinary digging fork. Usually it is easy to break the large clumps into smaller ones by pulling them apart with the [illegible] cutting them into pieces with a sharp knife. In replanting divisions of the old clump or a new plant from the nursery, place them so the rhizome or [illegible] portion of the stem is just barely covered. The fine feeding roots should be planted straight down. When several divisions are planted in a clump, place them so the fans point out in all directions.

• • • • •

Iris do well on almost any soil type providing it is properly enriched. Top-dress the area with a layer of well rotted manure or compost and scatter [illegible] superphosphate over the [illegible] the rate of [illegible] square feet. Spade into the soil to mix the compost and fertilizer with the soil.

The usual railroad hopper car holds 60 tons of coal, but [illegible] cars now on the rails hold upwards of 100 tons.

Polish coal production is [illegible] 100 million tons yearly, less than one-fourth of total U. S. production.

Do your duty, and leave the rest to heaven.

New Plan Guards Against Sale of Liquor to Minors

State Beer Wholesalers to Issue "Statement of Age" Blanks to Dealers

Minnesota beer and liquor sellers this month will be offered a new plan to keep intoxicating beverages from minors.

The plan involves "statement of age" blanks, to be distributed free by Minnesota Beer Wholesalers association, Inc., to license holders throught the state.

When prospective liquor buyers appear too young, the seller may require them to sign the blanks on which they swear that they are 21, the legal age. It also is stipulated that signing is the same as swearing that identification offered as proof of legal age is genuine.

The plan already has been tried on an experimental basis in several state counties and at Winona, Minn. Good results were reported as well as by Arizona, Idaho, Michigan, Oregon, Montana, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin, where the plan received legislative approval.

Dudley C. Ericson, state liquor control commissioner, has indicated his approval of the plan.

State President Farmers Union at Thief Lake Aug. 2

Edwin Christianson Will Speak at East Marshall Farmers Union Picnic

Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, will be the guest speaker at the annual picnic of the East Marshall county Farmers Union, to be held Sunday, August 2, at Thief Lake.

All farmers of the area are invited to attend the picnic and hear an analysis of the current farm price situation, according to Delmar Hagen of Gatzke, president of the East Marshall group.

"We hear talk today about trying to help the beef or dairy farmer by lowering the price of grains," Christianson will say. "Of course, it is unfair that, under the present law, we have only wheat and corn protected by firm, high-level mandatory price supports. The remedy to this flaw in the farm program is not to scale down the supports on wheat and corn but to provide price supports on all production to bring other items into line with grain prices, preferably at the full parity level."

He will warn that if the equalization is attempted by dropping the present 90% supports on basic crops, the result will be to start a downward price cycle which can only end in hurting all farmers and the communities in which they live.

New Law Governs GI Term Insurance

Policies in Force to Be Automatically Renewed

Four million veterans with GI term insurance in force will no longer have to apply to Veterans Administration for renewal of their policies for another 5-year term before their old policies expire.

VA said it will do this for them automatically if their old policies are not lapsed at the expiration of the term period. This means the policy must be in force at the end of the term period with the final premium having been timely paid.

The new procedure went into effect July 23, when the President signed Public Law 148. It will save at least $600,000 a year in administration costs. The new law covers only those term policies that expire on or after July 23, 1953. VA said it cannot be applied retroactively to term policies which expired before that date.

Approximately 270,000 World War I and World War II term policies are expected to be renewed automatically under the new law during fiscal year 1954. Although the law also provides automatic renewal for the more recent post-Korea term policies, none of these is scheduled to expire during fiscal 1954 because they have not been in force long enough.

Lutheran Tent Mission

It was my great privilege to speak one week at the Lutheran Tent Mission in Newfolden, Minn., the mission being sponsored by the Lutheran Churches of that area. We witnessed a remarkable response from the people who attended from a wide area. Christians volunteered to bring their testimony in song and word while a sweet spirit of fellowship prevailed throughout. The Reverend Gordon Berntson, who had just come to his parish in Newfolden, gave the tent mission his full cooperation. It was a joy to fellowship with him and his fine family for a whole week in the parsonage. It was remarkable to hear the many testimonies from young people who had the joy of salvation. On Sunday the tent was well filled three times, and we were honored of the Lord as we prayed with some seeking souls that day.

This week we are speaking in Climax, Minn., in a tent. It is the first time the tent has come to Climax, and by the time of this writing the attendance and interest looks very promising. The tent mission draws a number of people who would not go to church, and the continuous preaching of the Word during the summer weeks has proven to be of great blessing to our communities.

I was therefore much amazed when I read in a church bulletin from one of the Lutheran churches in Thief River Falls, an article entitled "To Clarify a Misrepresentation." The summary of the article is about as follows: Three Lutheran churches at Thief River Falls, Minn. beg not to be involved in a Lutheran Tent mission, inasmuch as the ten mission had failed previously to win the unchurched. Participation in such meetings "would imply approval of methods and teachings which were outside of the Lutheran tradition and doctrine. The pastors of these three congregations feel that they have no right to compromise the truths for which our beloved Lutheran Church has stood, nor dare they sell out the hard-won doctrines upon which the church is pledged to stand in the years to come."

Of course, I'm not familiar with methods and teachings employed at all times in these tents, but from the above quotations I wish also "to clarify a misrepresentation." The thought is quite widespread that any methods used to win some unchurched for the church is to be recommended, but methods used to win the already churched for Jesus Christ must immediately be abandoned. You therefore should not bother about saving the churched, they need only be admonished to do better work within the church and be more loyal. When therefore you emphasize that part of the gospel which should bring church-members to an experienced knowledge of Jesus Christ as their personal Savior, you employ methods unsound to the "hardwon doctrines" of the church. This is a misrepresentation of the truth as we have it in the Lutheran church.

Neither the Bible nor any of the precious doctrines of our beloved church, teach that the membership of our present-day Lutheran congregation, is a saved membership. Thousands upon thousands of so-called Lutherans are thousands of miles apart from salvation. It is not Lutheran to take these people for granted. Nor is it un-Lutheran to lead these lost church-members to the Lord. Just to win the unchurched for the church is a weak substitute for the thrill of winning both churched and unchurched for Christ. We need to take heed unto ourselves, and unto the doctrine! But let us give heed to the whole doctrine and not only a fraction.

It appears to me it is the desire of pastors and lay-people who work for the tent mission to keep it on a high spiritual level in order to benefit the local congregations whenever possible. To besmear these with unsound practices is unfair and a misrepresentation of the truth.

Hospital Construction to Start This Week

Construction of the addition to Northwestern Hospital, part of a million dollar community hospital expansion program, is getting under way this week. Frank Rinkel, chairman of the building committee of the board of trustees, received word Monday from the architects notifying the board that the project had received final approval from the Chicago office of the Public Health Service and authorizing the acceptance of all of the low bids.

Contractors were notified at once and G. W. Dahlquist of Dahlquist, Inc., Mora Minnesota, successful bidder for the general contract, told the Times last night that work will start immediately. Some preliminary arrangements have already been made and Einar Johnson, superintendent of construction, will be on the job here today he said. The work will be rushed along as speedily as possible in the hope that, with favorable weather, the building can be enclosed sufficiently to permit some inside work during the winter months.

Plans call for the completion of the new addition before any changes are made in the present building. All hospital activities will be transferred to the new addition when it is completed, permitting the remodeling of the present structure without any interruption in service. When this is completed the walls separating the old and the new will be removed and they will serve as one unit.

Contracts approved by the hospital trustees and by the Public Health service total $[illegible]. Equipment not included in this letting, architects' fees and items of incidental expense are expected to bring the total cost to approximately a million dollars.

The big problem in providing the much needed additional hospital facilities has been the financing of the project. Definite assurance of federal participation in the project came only a few months ago, making possible what is considered a complete expansion program. This in turn called for greater contributions at the local level to match the federal funds.

Approximately [illegible] of the total cost will be paid by the federal government. Thief River Falls citizens voted a grant of $[illegible] by the city, this money having been made available by a bond issue. [illegible] ity as collateral.

Considerable cash is also available in the building fund, representing the donations made in several solicitations over a period of years, much of it originating in the building campaign of the old Mercy Hospital organization.

While this building fund will go far in closing the gap on financing needs, hospital officials are concerned over the fact that contributions and pledges still are not sufficient to go through with the complete program now made possible by unexpected increases in federal funds available for matching.

Paul Lundgren, chairman of the solicitation committee, ex-

The contract, which calls for completion of the work by November 15, is subject to approval by the state department of aeronautics, which was represented at the letting by C. C. Hanson, construction engineer.

Of the total cost of the project, $1,000 will be paid by the city of Thief River Falls, while the remainder will be supplied by the state.

Newlywed Couple Injured in Auto Mishap in Idaho

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shumway have returned to this city after a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Calif., which was curtailed by an accident at Shoshone, Idaho July 20.

In the accident their car was demolished, and Mrs. Shumway was thrown out of the car, suffering a broken back. She was taken to a hospital in Jerome, Idaho, and she will be in a cast for three months. Her husband also was slightly injured.

The accident occurred when the car edged over to the right side of the road, and the driver, in bringing it back suddenly onto the highway, lost control of the car and it left the highway on the right side.

Ideal Weather, Large Crowds at County Fair

Attendance Aggregates about 18,000, with Total Receipts of $13,700

Four rainless days with nearly ideal weather conditions greeted the 1953 Pennington county fair, which closed Saturday evening after a successful four-day run.

Secretary J. M. Roche of the fair board estimated that attendance during the four days aggregated nearly 18,000, and that receipts from gate and grandstand amounted to $13,700, slightly less than a year ago.

Premiums paid to exhibitors totaled about $2,400, and Roche forecast that, with costs of entertainment features down slightly, a small balance will remain after expenses have been paid.

While a relatively small crowd turned out for the thrill show last Wednesday night, the grandstand was filled to capacity for the revue Thursday and Friday evenings, with a smaller audience Saturday night. Good-sized crowds witnessed the afternoon thrill show Thursday, the horse races Friday and the stock car races Saturday.

Exhibits at the fair were up to the standard of former years, altho cattle were fewer in number. The women's building was well filled with products of the home and flower garden, and the agriculture department included fine specimens of grains, corn and vegetables. Commercial exhibits were unusually complete, as was the showing of farm implements, while the 4-H building was a center of attraction as usual.

Many favorable comments were heard concerning the quality of the revue and acts presented in front of the grandstand. While the background was less elaborate than on some occasions in the past, members of the cast of the revue were handsomely costumed and the dancing girls were well drilled.

The diversified program of vaudeville and circus acts included the Dickens Sisters, who flew to this city Friday from Chicago; a clever ventriloquist, balancing, trick bicycle riding, rope-twirling, whip-handling and Swiss bellringer acts, in addition to an accomplished master of ceremonies.

The Bridgeman Half-pints staged an exhibition in front of the grandstand Thursday night preceding the revue, while the Legion municipal band supplied a concert Friday night and the Middle River band Saturday.

Marge Olson, county 4-H club agent, presented Dianne Lendobeja, 4-H style queen, and her 4 attendants to the grandstand crowd Saturday evening, her attendants including Nancy Gunderson, Cherry Johnson, Shirley Ann Wik and Muriel Copp.

"Go Ahead" Signal Given on Hospital Addition

Approval of the construction contracts recently awarded tentatively by the hospital board was given last week-end by the federal public health service agency in Chicago, and preliminary work on construction is expected to start very shortly.

The new addition will more than double the capacity of the institution, increasing it from 54 beds and 14 bassinets at present to 110 beds and 20 bassinets, as well as providing greatly enlarged operating facilities.

First Grain from '53 Crop Reaches Local Elevators

Grain from the 1953 crop last week began to arrive in small volume at Thief River Falls elevators, and harvest operations are becoming general this week.

One elevator told of having received a consignment of barley of fair quality that yielded at the rate of 25 bushels to the acre, and oats yielding from 47 to 50 bushels to the acre.

More and more talk is being heard to the effect that rust is prevalent and will reduce what otherwise would have been bumper yields.

The fire department was summoned Saturday evening at 6:15 to Sjoberg Appliance store on Main av., where a bird's nest built on a neon sign caught fire, causing some damage to the wiring.

Scouts to Apply Reflector Tape Again on Friday

Members of Boy Scout Troop 59 last Friday evening applied reflector tape to bumpers on a considerable number of automobiles at their station north of the Auditorium, and it was announced today that they will again be on duty Friday evening, August 7, starting at 6:30. A fee of $1 per bumper is charged for the service.

New Salvation Army Citadel Is Dedicated

Sunday marked a significant milestone in the long history of the Salvation Army in Thief River Falls. At impressive exercises in the new Army citadel on Horace av., the keys to the former Evangelical Free church edifice were turned over to Lieut. Vivien Carey, officer in charge of the local unit, by Wallace Christensen, chairman of the church board.

Lieut. Col. O. A. Sandgren of Minneapolis, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, delivered the dedicatory address. He said his organization appreciates what Thief River Falls citizens have done for the Army in the past, and what they are about to do in the drive for funds, starting August 10, to pay off the indebtedness on the agency's new home.

Mr. Sandgren stated that much good had been accomplished by the Army in its former inadequate quarters, and he added that its opportunities for service will be greatly increased by the better facilities of its new home.

Waldie Christensen, chairman of the Salvation Army advisory board, presided over the program, which opened with selections by a group of members of the Army band from Minneapolis. Dale Larson, interne at Trinity church, offered the invocation, while Rev. J. O. Jacobsen gave the Scripture reading.

Greetings and congratulations were offered by Mayor Harry E. Simons in behalf of the city; H. O. Chommie, service clubs; A. G. Gabrielson, fraternal organizations; Walter Kavanaugh, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Ward Nichols, past president of the Civic and Commerce association; and Rev. E. C. Mead, president of the local ministerial association.

Hundreds from Across Border Are Weekend Visitors

Local Accommodations Are Taxed to Capacity to Care for Canadians

Hundreds of visitors from Winnipeg and other Canadian cities took advantage of their three-day holiday to spend the week-end in Thief River Falls.

The visitors far exceeded the capacity of local hotels and motels, and some found accommodations in private homes. Streets were lined with cars bearing yellow Manitoba license plates.

Entertainment features arranged for the visitors were well patronized, hundreds availing themselves of the facilities of the Tindolph park bathing beach, while a fleet of 12 boats with outboard motors, under the direction of Roy J. Oen, carried passengers on trips up the rivers all during the afternoon.

Many out-of-town visitors also attended the stock car races at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon and the band concert in Tindolph park in the evening.

Members of the BPO Does served dinner Sunday afternoon in the Elks club rooms to about 50 Canadians. While the attendance was not as large as anticipated, those who came to enjoy the excellent meal expressed appreciation for the service.

State Purchases Site at Brainerd for New Hospital

Plans to Be Prepared for 540-bed Institution for Mentally Deficient

The state of Minnesota prepared last week to purchase an 80-acre tract east of Brainerd for a new hospital for mentally-deficient children.

Negotiations to buy the site are in their final stages, Earl L. Berg, commissioner of administration said. The price is about $6,000, he added.

Brainerd was selected as the site by the state executive council Nov. 6, 1952, after the 1947, 1949 and 1951 legislatures had failed to agree on where the proposed hospital should be built.

The 1951 legislature appropriated $100,000 for purchase of the site and preparation of plans and specifications. The 1953 legislature added $25,000 and Berg now will have about $119,000 for preparing plans and specifications.

The commissioner said plans call for a 540-bed hospital with the necessary service and administration buildings. Estimated total cost of the hospital is $6,800,000. No money has been appropriated for the structure.

Architects also are drafting plans for a 400-bed addition to the state hospital for mentally-deficient children for epileptics at Cambridge for which the legislature appropriated $2,100,000.

TWO SILVER DOLLARS

By F. L. Rowley

"MA, there's a fat lady on the porch!"

This startling information first uttered in a stage voice by my brother Benjamin was relayed by my sister Kate, my brother Peter and myself. Being anchor man I sustained a hefty clout on the side of the head.

The fat lady turned out to be Mrs. Fulcrum, wife of the mayor.

"Well, how nice," said my mother when she saw who it was at the door. "Just a minute Mrs. Fulcrum and I'll chase the dog upstairs."

Benjamin looked at me, I looked at Kate, Kate grasped Peter by the hand and we all scurried from the parlor barking like dogs. We'd heard that whopper before.

My sister and two brothers seemed entirely unconcerned in the face of this cruel banishment. But it hurt me. I was ten years old at the time and obsessed with the notion that my mission in life was to make things interesting for other people.

King of all the amazing creatures that had taken up temporary abode in rows of jars and boxes was my alligator. This was not in truth a genuine alligator but a lethargic snub-tailed chameleon.

Now for some reason known only to small minds, I assumed that Mrs. Fulcrum would be speechless with glee at the sight of my alligator. I decided to dispense with the penny handling fee usually exacted from my 'sub-teen' peers.

When my mother spied me bearing down on the parlor with a half dozen miniature animal cages under each arm she let out a scream that caused Mrs. Fulcrum to drop her pince-nez.

"Get out of here, you idiot!" my mother shrieked.

For a moment I stood in the doorway, gawking. Mrs. Fulcrum had regained her glasses and was giving me the 'once over'. Apparently she found nothing obnoxious in my appearance.

"Oh let the dear boy stay, Patience," said Mrs. Fulcrum.

The 'dear boy' stayed. My mother moved to a position near the door. Mrs. Fulcrum bent forward to get a good look at my "toys". My first offering was an idolent old toad. This evoked no comment. I believe she thought it was a ceramic paperweight.

I had better luck with some of the other specimens. These elicited an occasional "Ugh!" or "Oh my!" from Mrs. Fulcrum. Funny thing but this was the first time I had noticed what big eyes she had; and her face was all white, as if she had used too much powder.

"Now I'll go get my alligator," I said proudly, "And I'll let you hold him!"

"Al - al - alligator?" whispered Mrs. Fulcrum hoarsely. "Oh my goodness! Patience dear, I don't feel at all well. I must be going."

And with that she made a beeline for the door.

My mother began to cry. She didn't mind my frightening Mrs. Fulcrum off, but it seemed my father was about to sign a contract with Mayor Fulcrum.

Supper that night was a solemn affair.

Suddenly a loud knock on the front door brought me back to reality. Father went to answer the door.

"It's Mayor Fulcrum!" said my sister Kate.

"Mayor Fulcrum would like to speak to you in the parlor," he said looking straight at me.

Mayor Fulcrum was a short rotund gentleman.

"My boy," he said in a loud voice, "I have come here this evening to make a deal with you. You have in your possession a talisman—a charm of which I am sorely in need. It protects its owner against prattling tongues. I would like to buy your alligator."

That's how it was. My father got his contract; Mayor Fulcrum got his alligator; I got two silver dollars—and my mother, well, she didn't get anything, but I noticed that she laughed a lot more after that—especially when she dusted the piano.

Introduction to Swimming

Three year old Mary came to the beach with her parents for their first swim of the summer. Mary played happily by the shore, just barely getting her feet wet — but she was having a wonderful time. Then her proud father, having decided that this wasn't enough progress, picked her up and carried her out into deeper water. When she screamed and yelled, he laughingly reassured her with comments of "It's all right, Mary; don't be scared." But she was scared. Her dad thinks this is a good way to teach her not to be afraid of water; her mother thinks three is too young for this sort of treatment. Who is right?

Perhaps there is no such thing as "100% right," but certainly Mary's father is on the wrong side of the fence here. If Mary's fear of the newness of being "dunked" in the lake outweighed her confidence in her dad, then it is hard to see how being frightened could help her enjoy this kind of experience.

Better luck would have been fostered by a more gradual approach. Mary is having fun by the shore — fine; let her play there in the shallow water. She is watching others have fun in their way; older children jumping off the raft, her mother and dad diving from the board; some other preschoolers playing with water balls nearby.

Little by little she can see for herself that there are different ways to have fun in the lake. When she feels more secure, she will venture a bit further out, too. Her parents can spend some of their swimming time playing with her near shore. When she feels really exploratory, she will let you know if she wants to ride out on someone's back for a bigger experience. But scaring her won't help — in fact, it will set back her learning to enjoy water safely.

Most children who grow up near lakes where "everyone" goes swimming as a matter of course will show interest in swimming and learn to swim without much notice being taken of it. When swimming is not a daily thing, the learning may not be so natural — but it will not be helped by fear. Parents who feel that their children are too timid might stop to think that this is an area where good cautiousness on the part of the child is desirable, for his own safety.

Don't Cut Alfalfa Too Late

Cutting alfalfa late in the fall makes it susceptible to winter injury, warns L. J. Elling, research associate in agronomy at the University of Minnesota. Winter-hardy varieties often winter kill because plants are weakened by late cutting.

After alfalfa plants are cut, they draw on the food reserves in the roots to initiate growth of the next crop. The plants must grow several weeks before they restore the food reserves in the roots. When cut late in the fall, alfalfa plants do not have time to replenish these food reserves and the plants enter the winter in a weakened condition.

Although weakened plants may survive a mild winter, they will yield less than healthy plants the following year. In order to maintain good stands and high production, give alfalfa an opportunity to recover fully before winter, suggests Elling.

Tile Must Be Right

ACP payments will not be made this year for tile laying unless the tile meets the required specifications. A limited number of tests will be made free by the Department of Agricultural Engineering, University Farm, St. Paul, if five tile are submitted. The University recommends that tests be made of any tile to be laid.

Hay Silage Good Feed

Hay crop silage is a good livestock feed, and E. F. Ferrin, head of the University of Minnesota animal husbandry department, passes along the reminder that late summer is usually a good time to put in new seedings of legumes.

"Canning" the first cutting of alfalfa and clovers is a good way to beat the rainy weather in June, he points out. The high value of these crops for livestock feed is appreciated by most stockmen, but acreages have been held down because the first crop of hay is often spoiled. Modern machinery and the use of temporary silo shave reduced the cost of silage from hay crops. The ration for cattle, sheep and even brood sows during the winter can be improved by feeding this kind of silage, says Ferrin.

Report to the People

Flying Minnesotans

This week I have been attending the annual Governor's Conference in Seattle, Washington. The thoughts in this column were written before I left for this yearly get-together of the nation's Governors. I hope to have a report on some of the interesting things in the conference for next week.

In flying to a conference like this by plane, I am always impressed with how routine the use of air flights on business missions has become. It wasn't many years ago that airplane rides were a novel experience, made possible when barnstormers set up their one-day operations in a field near our rural Minnesota cities. For something like two dollars, passengers could go up in the small planes for a brief journey over the home territory. Only a small minority in any given community had been plane passengers. Today things are vastly different. Now it is not surprising to see great numbers of our citizens, from babies to grandmothers, flying around the country.

Les Schroeder, our state commissioner of aeronautics, handed me some figures a few days ago on the rapid expansion of commercial plane travel within the boundaries of Minnesota. The records of an airline company which operates in the medium-sized cities of the state show that during June 1,438 passengers boarded its planes at non-metropolitan centers. Including those centers the passenger figure went up to 5,556 for the month. An increase of 50% in these totals is anticipated for this month. Our Minnesotans are really taking to the air.

Liquor Sales to Minors

It would be well for parents to do some checking on their youngsters' drivers' licenses. It has been revealed in many cases that the birth dates have been altered to make it appear that the young people are old enough to purchase beer and liquor. Our state highway department is developing a new safeguard, however, which should prevent alterations of the drivers license and indirectly end the use of the licenses to obtain beer or liquor for minors. Arrangements are being made under which all drivers' permits granted to young people under 21 years of age at the time of issuance will have the date of birth perforated in the permits, much as checks are protected by the perforated stamp of a check protector.

• • •

The beer wholesalers of the state have concerned themselves with another effort to curb illicit sales. Their association is now providing retailers with pads of blanks which dealers may ask young people to fill in when there is doubt about their age. The blank when filled in contains a sworn statement on the part of the buyer that he is 21 years of age or older.

• • •

All involved in carrying out the laws regulating sales of beer and liquor have both a moral and legal obligation to do everything possible to prevent sales to minors.

Lions Club Plans to Conduct Broom Sale During Fall

Members of the Lions club, at their luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon in the Rex Cafe, made preliminary arrangements to conduct this fall a sale of brooms made by blind workers in a workshop in Minneapolis.

The Christian's War (Temperance)
Lesson for August 9: Ephesians 6:10-20; Romans 14:19-21
Golden Text: Romans 14:21

This lesson is a fine example of the fact that evil can and should be overcome with good, and that the good can supplant the bad. Men are to put on the whole armor of God in battling the foes that contend for the mastery over them.

Paul shows that he is familiar with the arms and accoutrement of the Roman soldier. From that soldier he draws a picture of the Christian warrior. His girdle must be the truth, his breastplate righteousness, his sandals the preparation of the gospel of peace, his shield faith, his helmet salvation, and his sword that of the Spirit.

Along with these, there must be constant dependence upon the Higher Power. Verse 18 is ample proof of this.

And Christians are admonished to follow after those things that make for peace. Beverage alcohol is surely not one of those things. In Paul's time, there was a question that proved quite troublesome among converts—the question of eating meat that had been offered to idols. In respect to this, Paul urges that men abstain from the use of such meat if in eating it they might make others to stumble. He also (verse 21) enlarges his admonitions to include wine. What would he write, if he were living now, of distilled beverages?

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

The most important factor in the current political picture which is likely to influence the outcome of the 1954 elections is the continuing popularity with the voters of President Eisenhower.

Recent polls indicate clearly that, since assuming office six months ago, the President has not only maintained his popular support but has actually increased it. The Minnesota Poll, for example, showed some 10 per cent of those who voted Democratic in Minnesota in 1952 would now vote Republican if the election were now, as compared with only a 2 per cent shift from Republican to Democratic.

One observer, noting the difficulty that the President has been having with many Republican members of Congress and the coolness with which many individual newspapermen have treated him, remarked that nobody seemed to be very strong for Eisenhower except the voters.

Ike's Effect in '54?

The President has played an extremely cautious game in dealing with Congress, refusing to use the power of his office to jam through legislation he wants urgently. This cautious game appears to be paying off, because so far it has kept him out of any open break with the more conservative and "isolationist" wing of the GOP.

The death of Senator Robert A. Taft may have a profound affect upon the future of this relationship. Taft was credited with keeping the extreme elements in the Party working together in some semblance of harmony. Without his leadership, the Republicans could fall into a squabbling mood, forcing the President to intervene more directly to maintain Party harmony and discipline.

What effect will Ike have on the 1954 elections? Certainly those up for reelection will take note of the President's popularity and will eagerly seek to be regarded as among his loyal supporters. This should mean that Ike will have an easier time of it in the second session of the 83rd Congress, which convenes next January.

No 'Purge' Likely

One thing can be set down for sure. President Eisenhower is not likely to intervene in any contests in '54, no matter how much trouble members of his Party may be giving him. He is dead-set against engaging in what he calls "personalities," and his advisers will recall vividly the difficulty that Franklin Roosevelt encountered in 1938 when, at the height of his popularity, he undertook to defeat Democrats who opposed his program. The undertaking ended disastrously for the President.

Big Rallies Planned

Political activity is due for an upsurge soon. Minnesota Democratic - Farmer - Laborites are planning a gala reception for Eugenie Anderson, the former ambassador to Denmark, on Saturday, September 12. The Party is planning to honor Mrs. Anderson at a statewide affair in the Minneapolis Calhoun Beach hotel.

Young Republicans are at work on "Ike Day Dinners" planned for the President's birthday on Wednesday, October 14. Young Democrats are, meanwhile, launching their plans for their national convention in St. Paul in November.

Leading state DFL'ers are planning to attend the rally for Adlai Stevenson the '52 Presidential nominee, in Chicago on September 14 and 15.

Interim Groups Busy

The work of the 1953 legislative session didn't end with its adjournment. Eleven special interim commissions are busily at work probing various problems of state government, upon which they will report to the 1955 session.

The commissions are studying the state's tax system, the highway system, flood control, a toll-free bridge between Duluth and Superior, a program for helping Minnesota Indians, facilities for treatment of tuberculosis in the state, the iron ore tax problem, new supports for the state's forestry industry, new improvements in civil service, and a program for aiding the dairy and livestock industry.

In addition, the legislature directed the legislative research committee to investigate the county coroner system in the state, public utilities regulation, problems related to automobile insurance rates, the condition of urban municipalities, needed changes in the mental health program, and certain aspects of the administration of the department of conservation.

State Park Tax Taken

There has been some grumbling over the adoption of the $1 sticker sale for use of state parks, but, on the whole, the program is winning public support, according to employees of the park system. The legislature voted the tax at the last session as a means of finding revenue for the maintenance of the state's 63 parks.

Every car entering a state park is supposed to purchase the $1 sticker. By last week some 45,000 stickers had been sold, and the number is expected to mount each year, making it possible to undertake much-needed improvements.

Nebraska Has Same Problem

Minnesota will understand the nature of the controversy that is raging in Nebraska over whether the legislature should be put back on a partisan basis. Minnesota and Nebraska are the only states where the legislators are named on a non-partisan basis. In Nebraska both major parties have lined up in favor of restoring party designation, while most legislators are in favor of retaining the present system.

All parishioners and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Grand Forks May Get TV Station

Announcement that it has filed an application for a television license for Grand Forks on channel 10 was made Saturday by the Grand Forks Broadcasting Co.

E. R. Ruben of Minneapolis is president of the company.

If there are no other Grand Forks applications, the announcement says, they expect to be on the air with television by next January. It is understood, however, that other applications have been completed for the same channel in Grand Forks—the only channel available for commercial television here.

Northern Minnesota Loop All-stars Whip RRV Thursday 4 to 3

An alert and spirited Northern Minnesota League All-Star aggregation committing but four errors and taking advantage of numerous misplays by the opposition, defeated the Red River Valley League All Stars in an exhibition game played at Red Lake Falls on Thursday night, winning by a 4 to 3 score. Last year's game between the All-Stars of the two leagues resulted in a 1-all tie after nine innings of play.

The Red River Valley loop gained an early lead on Thursday night, scoring in the bottom of the 1st inning when Bob Iverson, the leadoff batter, was credited with a triple when his fly to centerfield was misjudged. Fordy Olson banged a double up against the left field fence to plate Iverson with the game's first tally.

The Red River Valley league moved into a 2 to 0 lead in the 3rd inning when Iverson, after opening with a double, stole third and scored on Williams's fly ball to left field.

Two errors, a passed ball, and Harlan Grubb's ground single to left field, which scored Bob Erickson from third base, marked up the Northern Minny's first run. The Red River Valley squad tallied their final run in the bottom of the 4th inning when Bill Beck gained a "life" on Bagne's error. Chuck Stewart's sacrifice moved Beck to second base, and Gene Leslie's blast the bounced over the centerfield fence for a ground rule double, scored Beck with a run.

With two men out in the 6th inning, the Northern Minny squad erupted for three runs. Dennis Berger was safe on third baseman Hubert Torkelson's high throw to first base; Bib Erickson was safe when his ground ball skipped through first baseman Chuck Barr, with Berger moving around to third base. Harlan Grubb singled into left field, scoring Berger, and when the ball slithered past left fielder Gerry Stevens, Erickson scored and Grubb advanced to third base. Morris Nornes' double to left field scored Grubb with what proved to be the winning run.

Edsel Wennberg, a lanky righthander who took over the hurling duties for the Northern Minny loop in the 4th inning, pitched splendid ball for Klem Gigstad's and Muggs Whaley's team (Gigstad and Whaley were the co-managers of the Northern Minnesota squad.) After giving up a run and a hit in the 4th inning, Wennberg hurled no-hit and no-run ball during the remainder of the game. And Wennberg was a standout on defense, having one putout and five assists from his position on the mound.

Thieves Take Lakers 8 to 7 at RLF Sunday

Locals Will Conclude Regular Schedule vs. Warren-Argyle Friday

Larry Perkins' line drive, which bounced over the barrier in left-center for a double with one out in the last half of the 9th inning, scored Swede Lund from third base and Gene Leslie from second base to give the Thieves an 8 to 7 win over the Lakers in a hectic Red River Valley league game played at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night.

The local club will conclude its pre-playoff campaign on Friday night when, under the lights at Red Lake Falls' Riverside diamond, they play the Warren-Argyle Twins in a league game. The game is a postponement from May 17th, and it will wind up the Thieves league schedule.

Playing without the services of Phil LeGault, who is on a vacation, the Thieves were ably handled by Swede Lund.

The Lakers gained an early lead in Sunday night's tussle when, in the 2nd inning, Larry Turgeon connected with 3 and 0 pitch for a homerun off Jack Hoppe's glove in left field, the ball being deflected past the score-board and out of the park. The Thieves, in their half of the 2nd inning, came back with two runs when Cal Vraa rapped a line single to centerfield to plate the singling Lund and the walking Hoppe.

The locals maintained their 2 to 1 lead until the 5th when Ken Bonlardier opened with a ground single to left, was sacrificed to second by Bob Poirier, and scored on Lynn Kiefenheim's single to right field. Kiefenheim, minutes later, was sent across the plate on Dick Williams' double to left field.

The Thieves overcame that Laker lead in the bottom of the 5th when Sid Vrea beat out an infield hit, moved around to third base on Joey Poole's double to right field. Lund's fly ball to center scored Sid Vrea after the catch, with Poole advancing to third base. Gene Leslie then plastered a Dick Williams pitch over the left-centerfield fence, giving the Thieves a 5 to 3 lead.

A single by Kiefenheim, a walk to Williams, a hit batsman, a single by Howie Johnston, and a pair of errors, shoved four Laker runs across the plate in the 7th inning, moving manager Turgeon's club into a 7 to 5 lead.

The Lakers held that 7 to 5 advantage until the 9th inning. Poole was safe at first when Sele booted a ground ball; Lund singled to center, with Poole stopping at second; Leslie gained a "life" on Turgeon's bad throw, filling the bases. Hoppe, scored Poole on a fly ball to centerfield, with Lund going to third on the throw-in. Leslie sprinted down to second base on the second pitch to Perkins, Perkins then broke up the game with his rap to left-center.

Except for the playing off of several postponed games, and the postponements are expected to be cleared by Sunday night, the Red River Valley league has completed its 1953 schedule. At a league meeting that will be held this week, the arrangements for the four-team playoff will be made. Teams that are definitely assured of playoff positions are the Crookston Pirates, the Thief River Falls Thieves, and the Alvarado Farmers. Nielsville holds fourth place in the league standings having a one-game advantage over Viking and the Warren-Argyle Twins.

In an exhibition game played at Red Lake Falls on Thursday night, the league All Stars, under the direction of Ken Dupuis of Crookston and Phil LeGault of the Thieves, lost a 4 to 3 decision to the Northern Minnesota league All Stars.

Golfers to Vie in Shortstop Sunday

Local Club Tournament Also Getting under Way

Tournament chairman "Bob" Bredeson announced that the local golf club will conduct its annual mid-summer shortstop tourney on Sunday, August 9th.

Champion flight entries should enter their qualifying scores by 9:00 p. m. on Saturday, and these scores may be called in to the club house or to Mr. Bredeson. The local contingent of golfers will be bolstered by the presence of Elwood Karwand, who is home on an emergency furlough. Karwand, together with Vic Jung and Stan Larson, should provide the local club with able representation in the championship flight.

Bob Bredeson also states that the pairings for the local club tournament has been made, and that the members should make arrangements to play off their matches. The championship flight pairings, as well as the pairings in the other flights, have been posted in the club house.

Bye Makes Progress

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers football team, a member of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union, have begun scrimmage sessions in preparation for their season-opening game, an exhibition, against the Ottawa Rough Riders at Winnipeg on August 15th.

According to the reports that are trickling down here, Billy Bye, the city's gift to the Blue Bombers, made quite an impression during the first scrimmage. Here's what Bob Moir, the Winnipeg Free Press columnist had to say: "As the players switched positions the outstanding ones kept pushing their talent forward. First Ray Dillon made a fine run and then Billy Bye came up with the first of several brilliant chores. Bye was running so hard on his first play that he had the sweater almost torn off his back by a lineman grasping hopefully and unsuccessfully.

"Bye provided plenty of good football. He reacts quicker than any player on the field. Running into a hole he'll run right up to the tackler, say 'boo' and change stride so quick that the tackler is left to grasp nothing but air. Last night Tommy Thompson and Bye charging up inside tackle and then let him run outside tackle and each way the play was always good for plenty of yardage.

"On defense Bye proved a valuable safety man, knocking down a couple of passes and making a few thorough tackles."

One practice scrimmage doesn't make a season, and Bill's performance in the first scrimmage won't cinch a place on the Blue Bombers for the personable former Prowler and Gopher athlete, but he did please the fans by the talents that he revealed.

Mid-Summer Shortstop Tourney

The local golf club will conduct a mid-summer shortstop golf tournament on Sunday, with the tee-off time for the championship flight being slated for 9:00 a. m.

It is expected that Grand Forks' Ken Adams, who has a perfect record on the local course this year, having won the two previous tournaments, will be an entry. And it is probable that Cliff Yagla, who won the Grand Forks city golf title on Sunday by defeating Bill Larson, will be on hand, too.

It is hoped that Crookston's Emmette Hiller, who missed the earlier tournaments here, will play Sunday's tourney. Hiller, who has been plagued by a back injury, is a local favorite, and he's always a championship contender.

Incidently, the city golf tournament is also scheduled to begin this week, and the championship flight pairings will have Hap Casney playing Stan Larson, Kenny Nelson meeting Lloyd Bennes, Rudy Mehlhoff playing defending champion Vic Jung, and Dr. Jim Disse meeting Phil LeGault.

Jimmy Nordine, a one-time high school faculty member here and city golf champion, continues to make golf news up around Duluth, where he now resides and is a member of a Duluth law firm. Jim, this past weekend, won the highly rated Arrowhead golf tournament.

Worth the Time & Effort

The All Star game between picked squad from the Northern Minnesota and the Red River Valley leagues, which has been an annual affair the past two years, is a worthwhile project and should, from the viewpoint of the Red River Valley league, be given considerable time and effort.

Last Thursday night's game, which was witnessed by a large crowd, was a deserved victory for the Northern Minny league with their All Stars defeating the Red River Valley team, 4 to 3. It was evident that the Northern Minny league had made preparations for the game, and their squad, which had been selected for the purpose of winning the game, was ably handled by managers Klem Gigstad and Muggs Whaley.

The Red River Valley league, in contrast to the Northern Minny, were poorly organized. In fact, the managers of the team, Ken Dupuis of Crookston and Phil LeGault of the Thieves, received their first notice of the game on the Sunday preceding. Thursday night as the Red River Valley squad was being listed, Ken and Phil had their first knowledge of the make-up of their team. The squad, as the roll was called, revealed that three first basemen, three third basemen and four outfielders had been selected. Without a first string catcher on the roster, it was necessary for managers Ken and Phil to send Crookston's Bunny Holz behind the plate. Holz isn't a rookie with the catcher's mitt, but he hasn't been doing much receiving this year.

With three first basemen on hand, and all of them entitled to get into the game, the Red River Valley league managers were forced to pull Glen Gumlia, the league's most dangerous hitter, out of the lineup at the end of the 4th inning. His removal from the game eased the pitching duties for the Northern Minny hurlers.

A noteworthy feature of Thursday night's encounter was the fact that not one base on balls was allowed, nor was there a hit batsman. Woody Almquist of St. Hilaire pitched the first three innings for the Northern Minny squad, with Clearbrook's Edsel Wennberg hurling the balance of the game. Orv Bergman of Alvarado, Gene Leslie of the Thieves, and Erling Huglin of Viking, all righthanders, hurled three-inning stints each for the Red River Valley loop.

Senators Edward J. Thye and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota have accepted invitations to attend the first annual state assembly of the Minnesota Conservation Federation and its sixty affiliated member clubs when it convenes at St. Cloud, Saturday and Sunday, August 22 and 23, at the St. Cloud Hotel.

In making the announcement, F. W. (Nick) Kahler, president of the federation, said that delegates from all over the state will participate in the business of ratifying the constitution and by-laws, drafting important conservation resolutions and electing its first slate of permanent officers.

Panel discussions covering water, soil, forests and wildlife conservation will be presided over by leading authorities and will be open to the general public. The assembly has been planned to take the form of a conservation parley and any interested individuals or groups may attend although only registered members and delegates will have a vote in the proceedings.

The federation, less than a year old in its present reactivated form, is a state-wide organization whose purpose is chiefly to coordinate the conservation thinking of all groups and prepare being presented to the legislature.

Officers of the federation urge all organized conservation groups not already affiliated to do so immediately and become eligible to send delegates to represent their organizations actively at the assembly. Complete details, assembly procedure and membership applications may be secured from the federation office, Room 209, 1645 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis 3, Minn.

Many Pheasants Being Released by State Agency

Minnesota's annual pheasant distribution program, which got under way June 23, is now more than half completed, it was announced today by supervisor of game Taylor W. Huston.

This year, between 125,000 and 150,000 day-old and release age (6 weeks) pheasants will be distributed to sponsoring organizations which include sportsmen's clubs, the American Legion, chambers of commerce, Boy Scouts and similar groups.

A total of 37 counties have now been covered, with 38 remaining to be completed before the October 7 deadline, Huston said.

The birds are delivered to the clubs, for release after the local game wardens has approved the locations.

About 48 organizations are cooperating in the raising of day-olds received from Madelia and Carlos Avery game farms. Probably 35,000 birds will be reared in this program. Each cooperator provides the brooder equipment feed and necessary care, according to the specifications and directions of the bureau of game. The birds are then released when they attain their sixth week, again under the supervision of the local warden.

Senator Robert Taft Dies Friday at Age 63

Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, who guided the Republican party for years but never won its command, died quietly Friday, in a New York hospital, victim of cancer. He was 63.

The hospital said he wasn't even aware of any illness until three months ago when his legs began to bother him. Death was due to "widespread, highly malignant, rapidly growing tumors."

His four sons were by his side when death came. The Republican senator from Ohio had been in a coma and dying for about 13 hours. The hospital said death was quiet and painless.

Old friends from Taft's four vain campaigns for the Republican presidential nominations also kept final vigil at the hospital.

Mrs. Martha Taft, the senator's wife, remained in Washington. Confined to a wheelchair since a stroke, she was flown to New York Tuesday when Taft first took a turn for the worse. She returned to the capitol the next day.

Taft was the son of the 27th President of the United States, William Howard Taft, and his own consuming ambition was to return to the White House as president in his own right.

Four times over a period of 16 years, he sought the Republican presidential nomination. He finally gave up a year ago after President Eisenhower defeated him on the first convention ballot.

Taft was three times senator from his native Ohio, and he was one of the sponsors of the controversial Taft-Hartley labor law.

His greatest area of influence was in the Senate, where six months ago he became majority leader under the first Republican President in 20 years. His illness forced him to turn over the duties several weeks ago to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) who now is acting majority leader.

Taft had been counted on to guide President Eisenhower's program through a Senate where the margin of GOP control was never more than one vote.

Taft's body lay in state Sunday and Monday in the capitol rotunda in Washington, and was taken to Cincinnati Tuesday for interment.

Minnesota Health Department Has Advice on Polio

Always at this time of year, parents are concerned about the danger of polio. The Minnesota Department of Health advocates these precautions:

1. Keep children as much as possible in their usual environment. Avoid crowds and contacts with new people.

2. Keep your youngsters away from other children or adults who show any signs of illness.

3. Be sure children swim only at approved beaches and that they don't become overtired or chilled.

4. Be especially careful about cleanliness at all times. Always wash hands before eating.

5. Call your doctor at once if you notice any suspicious signs of illness — headache, fever, upset stomach, sore throat, pain or stiffness.

Remember, good medical care and the treatment now available for polio can often prevent the most serious effects of the disease. Your family physician is the best one to advise you on what care is necessary.

Don't "Combine" Accidents with Harvest Season

Farm Safety Specialist at Minnesota "U" Offers Suggestions to Farmers

"Don't 'combine' an accident with your harvest!"

That motto is one of the methods by which Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota, is appealing to Minnesota farmers to work safely during the small grain harvest now getting under way in the state.

While farmers must be concerned with doing a thorough, rapid job of harvesting in order to realize every possible dollar of income, they should keep in mind that an accident will cut deeply into profits, in addition to the misery it may bring the victim and his family.

One serious accident can easily wipe out the entire profit on a crop for a year, through medical costs, lost time and life-long handicaps which may result from loss of limb or other injury, said the University safety expert.

Prickett quoted a warning from Oscar Carlson, Crow Wing county farm operator, severely injured in a combine accident, that most accidents occur when the worker is in a hurry.

Prickett makes these suggestions for a safe harvest:

1. Slow down to work safely.

2. Keep children off and away from tractors, trucks, trailers, wagons and elevators.

3. Keep shields in place on machines, especially over power shafts from tractors to portable grain elevators.

4. Place lights and reflectors on tractors and trailers when using them on the highway at dusk and after dark.

5. Shut off power when adjusting, servicing and unclogging machines.

"The best safety device is a careful operator — don't combine an accident with your harvest," said Prickett.

New Regulations Govern Fathers' Draft Deferment

Colonel L. E. Lilygren, state director of selective service, announced today that new regulations had been received relative to the draft deferment of fathers and prospective fathers.

If no order to report for induction has been issued to a registrant prior to August 25th, the local boards will still receive evidence as to the pregnancy of a registrant's wife or as to the existence of children already born and with whom the registrant maintains a bona fide family relationship in his home.

After that date, the local board need give no consideration to new evidence submitted them in these respects.

A TRULY GREAT PROJECT

Last week we motored to Fall with Soo Line division chief Ed Hamerlik to the western limits of the Thief River Falls trade territory to see first hand what progress is being made in building the Garrison dam. At Minot former Thief Riverite Henry Mossel provided 300 miles of transportation in one day's travel over the vast area that is being transformed by this project.

One day doesn't provide ample time to cover a development of such magnitude, but one day, under the direction of capable guides, was sufficient to convince us that this system of control works being constructed along the Missouri River will go down in the records as one of the great engineering feats of our time. Primarily a flood control project, the benefits from the great reservoirs being created will go mainly to the down-river areas that have suffered heavy losses year after year because of the uncontrolled run-off of Big Muddy.

But there will also be important incidental benefits. It will give to North Dakota much needed diversification through new industrial, recreational and agricultural facilities. Western North Dakota, with its new sources of power on the Missouri, along with its oil and lignite, is no longer an area "that should have been left for grazing." A great transformation is taking place in that semi-arid region. The desert is beginning to bloom.

The neighboring state of North Dakota is one of Minnesota's best customers. What is good for our neighbor is good for us. We will be benefited both directly and indirectly by the Garrison dam project, very directly by sharing in the cheaper power that the dam will make available, and indirectly by the trade advantages that will come to us in dealing with the people of a state whose basic economy has been substantially broadened.

SELLING MORE BUTTER

Influential groups in the dairy industry are urging a two price system as a means of disposing of the nation's butter surplus, providing a high price to the producer maintained by government subsidy, and a lower market price to encourage consumer use. As a means of disposing of the government's present inventory a cut-price clearance probably could be justified. There is little hope however that such an arrangement could be adopted as a permanent solution for the surplus problem.

We will go along with the John Brandt position that the industry must find a way to manage itself into a strong position, independent of government subsidies. [illegible] only in this way could the industry [illegible] long range security.

Butter is losing ground in its battle with substitutes but higher price is not the main reason for this loss. Its decline in popularity is due more to poor quality. Up here in dairyland we get good butter but too much of the product that goes on the market the country over is not fit for human consumption. Too many people do not know what good butter tastes like, and we'll go along with those who won't eat low quality butter at any price.

Our guess is that only through the enforcement of higher quality standards can the butter market be saved. The dairy industry has done and is doing a good job in the production and marketing of milk. Strict sanitary regulations and high quality standards have built consumer confidence. The industry itself has given leadership to the efforts to maintain high standards and to prohibit the sale of sub-standard products. And what the industry has done for milk it can also do for butter.

Here where dairying provides our basic payroll we have need to be concerned about the future of the industry. And it is encouraging to know that hereabouts there is a realization among dairymen that their problem is not going to be solved by any easy, short-cut, magic methods. The industry, with sound leadership, will do a better job of maintaining a good market for its products than can be hoped for from the politicians.

RUST BRINGS RUIN

The most severe rust infestation in nearly 20 years is taking a big bite out of the income of wheat growers of the Northwest. Based on early reports of actual yields, the cost to farmers in the hard-hit sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas is now estimated at more than 200 million dollars. With unfavorable weather conditions from here on the loss to all crops could be much greater.

While there have been widespread reports of rust infestation this year, the damage to plants was not considered serious until in recent weeks. Once the weather turned favorable for the fungus growth the disease struck hard and fast. Now, for many, a bright prospect is blighted.

Good progress has been made in the development of plant varieties that prove to be rust resistant for a limited time. Over a period of years there has been much research in this field. As a result of this research much has been learned about the disease and the conditions under which it prospers. Little real progress has been made however in curbing the disease itself. This is a war that we must keep on fighting.

INCREASING THE DEBT LIMIT

Congress is not going along with President Eisenhower in his request for an increase in the national debt limit from 275 to 290 billion dollars. Whether the law makers do or don't is not a matter of great consequence mainly because, as has been demonstrated time and again, the statutory limit is a meaningless thing. The same Congress that authorizes the spending also establishes the limit. The real limit is in the actual curb on spending or in the increase of taxation.

But the President probably has accomplished his purpose by reminding the nation that our federal finances are out of balance. In this way he serves notice on the pressure groups, some of them demanding tax reduction and others asking for increased spending, that we are confronted with a top-priority problem of balancing the budget. That, properly, is the first and most important problem facing the country today.

And there is the possibility that spending can be curtailed sufficiently to keep the national debt within the present limit. That will depend largely on what happens internationally. If there is continued progress toward peace defense spending undoubtedly will be curtailed.

A LEADER LOST

In the death of Senator Taft the country loses the services of a great leader. Generally considered one of the best informed men in Congress, he was respected too for his ability and his integrity.

His greatest personal ambition was an understandable desire to follow in the footsteps of his father as president. His failure to gain the necessary vote of confidence of his party at the convention a year ago no doubt was a bitter disappointment to him. By his fairness and loyalty to the administration of the man who had come between him and this objective of a lifetime of public service he proved his real greatness. His death is a serious loss to that administration and to the nation.

August is the big traffic accident month of the year. There were 28% more traffic deaths in August last year than in any other one month, and this high figure, the experts logically point out, is due to the heavy holiday travel that comes with this season. During the weeks of this extra high hazard is a good time to be extra careful.

Governor Walter Kohler of Wisconsin vetoed an appropriation to pay bounties on wolves, foxes and wild cats because he couldn't "approve use of state tax money for a purpose I am convinced is wasteful." On this issue he would have the support of most observers of the bounty system. A recent survey shows that the national trend is away from bounties, the reason being that bounty payments do not actually reduce predator populations. Here is a good subject for a hot argument during the cold months of the winter that is ahead of us.

A FISHING GOES THE HUMAN RACE

A 14-pound Minnesota Northern Pike, in Shedd aquarium, Chicago, made one of the top national magazines in picture and copy. Conservation Volunteer records that Cleopatra rebuked Antony's fish yarns by having a salted specimen attached to his line in the Nile. Minnesota History notes that the first written report of Minnesota fishing appeared in 1844, that a state board of fish commissioners was set up in 1874, and that in 1891 game wardens were first appointed to enforce fishing laws. Oldest catch of the current year was a 12-foot somewhat dehydrated turtle blasted from a quarry near Ortonville, where he probably disported 60 or 70 million years ago.

Take Your Own Doctor's Advice, Medical Director Says

"When it comes to looking to your future health and well-being, it makes good sense to take the advice of your own doctor," says Dr. Edwin J. Simons, Medical Director, Minnesota Medical Service, Incorporated.

"Your doctor has devoted his lifetime to safeguarding your health and that of your family. In important decisions, like choosing a medical-surgical plan to prepay the cost of medical-surgical costs," Dr. Simons says, "remember, your doctor has seen all of these plans in action."

"Over 2,800 Minnesota Doctors of Medicine," Dr. Simons says, "recommend a low-cost medical-surgical care plan that is incorporated under the non-profit laws of Minnesota — Minnesota Blue Shield. These 2,800 Doctors of Medicine," he says, "actively participate in Blue Shield."

Blue Shield, and its companion plan for hospital care, Minnesota Blue Cross, are non-profit organizations. They were founded only to provide the finest medical-hospital care protection to all at the lowest possible cost.

Complete free details on these plans may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-2, 2610 University Avenue, St. Paul 14, Minnesota. "There is no obligation," Dr. Simons says, "and no salesman will call."

J. Brandt Memorial Foundation Is Set up

A memorial foundation "to provide grants for research in production, improvement, marketing and utilization of milk products" has been established in the memory of John Brandt, late president of Land O'Lakes.

Funds from the foundation will be used to support the work of research scientists in the dairy industry and will make available dairy research scholarships to promising young people in the dairy field.

"An increased research program," Irving J. Clinton, Litchfield, secretary of the foundation, pointed out, "was held up a challenge to dairy leaders by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson when he addressed the dairy industry last spring." The establishment of the John Brandt Memorial Foundation is one of several moves made recently by the dairy industry to answer this challenge.

It is well agreed that no better activity could be carried out to honor John Brandt, who rose to become one of the nation's outstanding spokesmen and authorities of the dairy industry. Few men have left so lasting a contribution for the betterment of his fellow man than he.

New discoveries resulting from the research which the foundation makes possible will be lasting recognition of the high place John Brandt will always hold in agricultural industry and in the hearts of those who knew him.

It is a group of his friends and close associates from Litchfield, Minnesota, who are the founders of the trust fund. John Brandt always maintained his legal residence there.

It was near Litchfield where John Brandt grew up and began his career in cooperative work, the foundation will carry on this work in the same spirit and toward an end which he, himself, always strove toward — the production for the consuming public of new and better dairy products for better health.

Already pledges to the foundation by the Litchfield group is $17,000. Additional funds are being received by Irving J. Clinton, foundation secretary, Litchfield, Minnesota.

Both houses of the Minnesota legislature adopted resolutions commemorating John Brandt and endorsed the establishment of this foundation.

State Ranks 3d in Visits to Mexico, Says Motor Unit

A four-month check of American motorists visiting Mexico, made by the American Automobile Association's Laredo, Texas office, shows that 270 cars from Minnesota crossed the border at this favorite point, Hugh M. Craig, executive secretary of the Minnesota State Automobile association, said today.

Of the 3,347 cars crossing the border at Laredo, Minnesota had 8.1 per cent, and ranked third among the 48 States and ten Canadian and American territories and provinces represented.

In many instances, motorists had long trips planned, with Mexico City, Acapulco, or both on their route. A round trip from the Twin Cities to Mexico City with a few off-the-route sightseeing excursions would roll the traveler's speedometer up about 4500 miles.

State 4-H Talent Show to Be Held

Angus Youth, District Winner, Will Compete

Twenty 4-H members who were winners in five district contests in the annual 4-H Search for Talent contests will vie for state honors Wednesday evening, September 2, in Erickson Hall in the 4-H building on the state fair grounds.

The state competition, held as part of the state fair program for club members, will climax the 1953 Search for Talent contest in which 4-H'ers participated from 86 counties. The talent contest is being sponsored by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis grain firm, for the fourth year.

The 20 district winners will present 15 different acts at the state event, ranging from vocal and instrumental solos to trio numbers and duets. These musical numbers include the three top-ranking acts selected at each of the five district contests held recently in Albert Lea, Bemidji, Brainerd, Marshall and Wheaton.

District winners who will compete at the State Fair include Mylo Carlson, Angus.

Awards, all provided by Cargill, include an expense-paid trip to the State Fair for district winners and leather billfolds for all county winners. First, second and third place winners in the state contest will receive prizes of $100, $75 and 50 for their 4-H clubs.

USO Shows to Be Expanded in Korea

Increase Necessary to Maintain Morale

Josiah F. Brill, state chairman of the USO-UDF said today that an increased number of USO camp shows to maintain high level morale for the servicemen who must remain in Korea has been requested by Gen. Mark W. Clark, UN commander in Korea. This was announced by Gen. James H. Doolittle, national campaign chairman of the United Defense Fund which finances USO.

There are now six USO camp shows a month giving performances in various areas of Korea. Gen. Clark is asking that this number be doubled. To meet Gen. Clark's request, Gen. Doolittle is asking Community Chests and community campaigns throughout the country for an extra $50,000 a month for the next ten months. This sum would be in addition to the $20,225,000, set in April, that UDF seeks to raise this fall for programs of USO, American Relief for Korea, and for other defense related agencies.

President Eisenhower, honorary chairman of the United Defense Fund, recently cautioned UDF leaders against a let-down in their efforts if an armistice should be signed.

This demonstration showed me the way to a better deal!

I'd been planning to buy a higher-priced car until I found out all Chevrolet offered— and how much I could save!

You're "sitting pretty" behind the wheel
Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the quality of the interior. Rich-looking appointments. Roomy seats with foam rubber cushions. Turn the key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You can see all around
You look out and down through a wide, curved, one-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops
An easy nudge on the pedal brings smooth, positive response —right now! Chevrolet's improved brakes are the largest in the low-price field.

It's heavier for better roadability
You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady, big-car ride of this new Chevrolet. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than the other low-priced cars.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide*
A lot finer performance on a lot less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide automatic transmission. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

You get more power on less gas
That's because Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide* models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field — the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame." Gearshift models offer the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine.

And it's the lowest-priced line
A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.
*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

Let us demonstrate all the advantages of buying a Chevrolet now!

Fall Vegetables

To avoid having parts of your garden plot lie idle after removing early spring-planted vegetables, why not consider a fall garden?

Among the cool-season vegetables that can be planted during late July and early August are radish, lettuce, spinach, turnips, kohlrabi and Chinese cabbage. Even peas may make a good crop if weather is favorable.

● ● ● ●

Prepare a good seedbed as you would in the spring. Fertilize the soil, using a complete fertilizer such as 5-10-5 at the rate of one pound per 25 feet of row or 3 pounds per 100 square feet. To insure good germination, sow seed following a rain. A light mulch of finely chopped straw, old pea vines, grass clippings or ground corncobs will prevent the soil from baking and keep it moist. Apply the mulch after watering or after a light rain.

● ● ● ●

Worth more and why

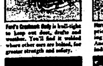
There are two generally accepted meanings of the word "worth." One comes down to cold, hard dollars and cents value. The other is personal: what something is worth to you in usefulness, in pride of possession, in reliability, and in other ways.

Either way you look at "worth" we feel that you'll find the new '53 Ford worth more. And here's why:

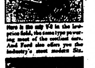
If you could check the used car prices of last year's cars you'd find that Ford keeps the greatest part of its original cost in resale . . . a greater portion than any other car at any price.

Now, as everyone knows, the amount of value a car loses between the time you buy it and the time you sell it is the actual cost of the car to you. With Ford's low original cost and high trade-in worth, a Ford costs you less to own.

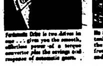
And apparently, a lot of folks have a lot of personal reasons why Ford's worth more to them. For that's why people are willing to pay more for a used Ford. Some of the reasons are shown here.



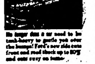
Ford's Crestmark Body is hull-tight to keep out dust, drafts and weather. You'll find it welded where other cars are bolted, for greater strength and safety.



Here is the only V-8 in the low-price field, the same type powering most of the costliest cars. And Ford also offers you the industry's most modern Six.



Fordomatic Drive is two drives in one . . . gives you the smooth, effortless power of a torque converter plus the savings and response of automatic gears.



No longer does a car need to be tank-heavy to gentle you over the bumps! Ford's new ride cuts front end road shock up to 80% and cuts sway on turns.

ORE TRAIN TAKES A BATH

A COLD-WATER SHOWER cools hot sintered iron ore in this railroad car while Robert Tersteeg gets an ore sample. Sintering, a means of furnace fusing iron ore to make a clinker, is used extensively at this plant near Crosby, Minnesota. Currently, the process is used to agglomerate fine ores, which would not otherwise be usable in the blast furnaces. Constant experimentation with fine ores, low-grades and taconite is developing a supply of Minnesota ore which can keep mining employees working for generations to come, provided the cost of these ores can be kept down to meet the competition of ores from other areas. A fair deal for Minnesota's iron mining industry means a good deal for you.

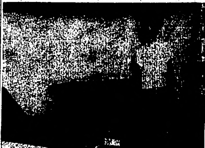
Workbench Wins Prize at Fair



This workbench, built by Lyle Haagenson as a 4-H project in farm mechanics, won first place in its division in competition at the Pennington county fair last week. Lyle is a member of the Steiner 4-H club and the son of Lloyd Haagenson.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

THE VETERAN ASKS:
(This service is based on questions asked at Veterans Administration offices in the State. Answers are supplied by VA.)

Q: I have a National Service Life Insurance term policy, and I've decided to leave my dividend money with the VA to pay premiums that I happen to miss. What will VA do if my term insurance expires and I don't take action to renew and pay the premium myself?

A: At the end of the term period, VA will pay the premium required for renewing your term policy out of your dividend credit—unless you write to VA and request otherwise before the present term expires.

Q: I plan to take my medical intern training under the Korean GI Bill. Will I be paid GI allowance as an on-the-job trainee, or will I get the higher rates paid to full-time class-room students?

A: You will receive the rates paid to those taking full-time class-room training. However, your medical internship course must be accredited and approved by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Asociation. Its length also must be approved by the Council. No allowance at all may be paid to veterans in non-approved internships.

Q: A few years ago I received an automobile under VA's program of providing up to $1,600 towards the cost of a car for certain disabled veterans. My car is beginning to show signs of wear, and I wonder if I could get another VA grant to buy a new car.

A: Under the law, you are not entitled to another grant to buy a new car.

George Webster, Retired Soo Line President Dies

George W. Webster, 83, former president of the Soo Line railroad, died Thursday after a long illness, in Minneapolis.

He was elected president of the railroad in 1937 and in 1938 was appointed co-trustee of the company. He continued in that position until the railroad was reorganized in 1944.

After the reorganization Mr. Webster was a member of the board of directors until poor health forced his retirement last September.

Key Award to Be Given to 4-'ers

First Awards Will Be Presented This Fall

Long-time 4-H club members in Minnesota counties will receive recognition through the new Key Award program just adopted for this state, Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, has announced.

Boys and girls who have been club members for five years or longer will have an opportunity to win the 4-H key award. The awards will be gold keys which girls may wear on neck chains and boys on tie clasps.

In addition to at least five years of membership, a 4-H'er, to be eligible, must have completed three years of active junior leadership and must have passed his 16th birthday by January 1 of the year in which the award is made.

Contributions members have made to their own development and to the improvement of their local 4-H program will also be considered in selecting winners of the awards. Offices held, projects completed, club activities and achievements are other bases of the awards.

Cities Service Oil company, Bartlesville, Oklahoma, is sponsor of the new Key Award program.

Dim Car Lights for Car Ahead

Dimming of cars' headlights when approaching another vehicle from the rear is required of all vehicles when driving at night in Minnesota, according to a reminder issued today by the Minnesota highway department. The recent legislature put into law what had previously been accepted as an act of courtesy by requiring dimming of lights when within 200 feet of the car ahead. Compliance with this regulation will remove one more irritation from the highways and should make for safer night-time driving.

Boy Orphaned at Alvarado by Auto Crash Killing Ten

Four from Minneapolis and Six from Manitoba Killed Near Little Falls

"If anything ever happens to me," Mrs. Clenora Starmach of Minneapolis used to tell her youngest sister, Helen, "you take Derry."

Mrs. Starmach's death wish will be fulfilled.

Her 13-year-old son, Derry — orphaned when his mother and father were killed in a head-on collision that claimed 10 lives near Little Falls Saturday—will go "home" to Alvarado for the time being with his aunt and uncle.

The decision was made Sunday when relatives gathered in Minneapolis to make funeral arrangements for Mr. and Mrs. Starmach.

Morris Hill and his wife, Helen, said Derry will live with them in Alvarado for the time being. They have not considered formal adoption yet, but Derry will become a member of the Hill family, which already includes three youngsters.

It is what Mrs. Starmach wanted, though she probably did not know that the "anything" she feared would happen would be the tragic accident at Little Falls. Mrs. Starmach had not been well, Hill said, and she and her younger sister were very close.

Derry learned of the accident that took his parents' lives on Saturday morning. A call came through the Hills' home, where Derry was spending the summer because his folks thought the fresh air of the country would be good for him.

Besides the Starmachs and Mrs. Starmach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Olson of Minneapolis, the death toll includes six residents of Manitoba, Canada, en route to Minneapolis.

Minnesota Losing Place as Leading Wheat Producer

Both Acreage and Total Production Have Dropped Sharply in Past 25 Years

Minnesota is gradually losing its place as a leading wheat producing state, a survey by University of Minnesota agricultural economist Harold Pederson has revealed.

Both acreage and total production have fallen sharply in the past 25 years, Pederson points out. Today 60 per cent of Minnesota wheat is produced in the Red River Valley counties of Polk, Marshall, Clay, Kittson, Wilkin, and Norman.

In the shift away from wheat, soybeans have been increasingly important. Even with this change wheat remains one of the principal cash crops for Minnesota and is grown in all but two counties.

Wheat acreage has fallen to about half its 1920 figures. During the past four years Minnesota farmers have planted from 925,000 to 1,150,000 acres of wheat compared to nearly 2,000,000 acres 25 to 30 years ago.

Per acre yields have increased markedly. Even with this increased yield total production has fallen from 25,000,000 bushels per year in the twenties to 15-20,000,000 bushels during the past four years.

Minnesota's state wheat acreage allotment, announced by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson last week, will be 936,000 acres in 1954, a cut of 11 per cent from 1,038,000 acres this year.

Ten of the 50 U. S. coal mines with annual production in excess of one million tons each are in Pennsylvania.

62 ADMISSIONS ON ONE DOLLAR STICKER

A $1 sticker on automobile windshield is now the price of admission to any one or all of Minnesota's 62 park areas, covering some 82,000 acres of hills, woods, lakes, and rivers. Oldest listed in Conservation Volunteer is Camp Release "wayside park," Lac qui Parle county, established in 1889; youngest is Ray Berglund "wayside" in Cook county, dating from 1950. Four were established before the turn of the century, but the big park year was 1937 when no less than 37 were established; 1945 and '47 each account for six state parks. Most complete in the ten recognized "characteristics" from botany to wildlife, is Jay Cooke park in Carlton county, lacking only a lake. The most complete in 18 listed "activities and facilities," from amphitheater to shelter building, is Itasca, which has all of them. Eight are listed as "undeveloped."

Wheat Quotas to Be Voted on Friday, Aug. 14

PMA Chairman Houske Says Four Voting Places to Be Set up in County

The wheat marketing quota referendum to be held August 14 will be conducted at four voting places in Pennington county, advises chairman Oscar J. Houske of the county Production and Marketing Administration committee. Polling places will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., and each will be in a local referendum committee of wheat growers appointed by the county PMA committee.

Chairman Houske urges every eligible wheat grower to vote, since the outcome of the referendum will materially affect the price farmers recieve for their 1954 wheat. He points out that if two-thirds or more of those voting favor marketing quotas, wheat loans at 90 percent of parity will be available to those who plant within their wheat acreage allotment.

If marketing quotas are rejected by the growers quotas will not be in effect, and the support rate on 1954 wheat crop will drop to 50 percent of parity for cooperators.

Acreage allotments will be in effect for the 1954 wheat crop regardless of the outcome of the referendum, he explains. If marketing quotas are in effect, those who exceed their allotments must store or dispose of their wheat as directed by the secretary of agriculture, or pay the marketing penalty on the excess wheat. The marketing penalty is 45 percent of wheat parity as of May 1, 1954.

The officially designated polling places for the August 14 referendum in Pennington county are: (1) City View School in Norden twp. for Bray Sanders, Norden and Numedal townships; (2) St. Hillare for Rocksbury, River Falls, Black River, and Polk Centre townships; (3) Highlanding Hall for Cloverleaf, Goodridge, Highlanding, Reiner, Star, Kratka, Deer Park, Hickory, and Mayfield townships; and (4) PMA office in Thief River Falls for North, Silverton, Smiley and Wyandotte townships.

Acreage allotments are the backbone of the marketing quotas to be voted on by eligible Pennington county wheat growers in the August 14 referendum, chairman Houske said.

In general, Mr. Houske explains, all Pennington county farms on which wheat was grown in 1951, 1952, or 1953 will be assigned an acreage allotment. In making these allotments, consideration is given to the number of tillable acres on the farm, the crop rotation practices followed (including acreage planted to wheat), type of soil and slope and lay of the land.

The allotment for Pennington county farmers is worked out from the basis of the national allotment. The national acreage allotment, plus carry-over, will provide more than enough wheat in 1954, together with the estimated imports, to meet domestic and export needs plus the 30 per cent required by law. The national acreage allotment is 62 million acres. This is apportioned among states and counties according to acreage seeded to wheat during the latest 10-year average, adjusted for trends and other factors.

Chairman Houske advised that any farmer who believes his wheat acreage allotment is not accurate may appeal to the county committee. If he is not satisfied with the county committee's action, he may appeal to a review committee of three farmers appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture which will consider the evidence and make a decision. If not satisfied with this decision the farmer may, within 15 days, initiate proceedings for a review of the case by a court.

Livestock exhibitors from all counties will show their animals during the last four days of the fair.

Among 4-H'ers who have won trips to the State Fair are Donna Wik of St. Hilaire who will compete in the state health contest; Muriel Copp of Steiner and Betty Rude of Smiley who will vie for the title of state bread baking champion; and Dianne Lendobeja of Smiley, who will take part in the dress revue, modeling the suit she has made.

Evangelyn Iverson Becomes Bride in Church Ceremony

Baskets of orchids and white candelabra provided a beautiful altar setting for the wedding of Miss Evangelyn Joyce Iverson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Iverson of Thief River Falls, and John Richard Boice, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Boice of Minneapolis, at two thirty Saturday afternoon, August 8. Approximately 150 wedding guests witnessed the double ring ceremony which was solemnized in the Zion Lutheran church, with Rev. Walter M. Pederson officiating.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Russell Lockrem at the organ. She also accompanied Mrs. Walter Pedersen as she sang "I'll Never Walk Alone" and Griegs "I Love Thee" before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love" during the exchange of rings, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar. The Bridal chorus from Lohengrin was used as the processional and the recessional was from Mendelssohn.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale blue suit with navy blue accessories. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and white glamelias centered with red roses.

The traditional "something old, new borrowed, and blue" was carried out in the bride's attire.

Miss Charlotte Wurst, a college roomate was bridesmaid. She wore a brown suit trimmed in white, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white gladioli. Craig L. Parker of Minneapolis, friend of the groom, was best man. Elling Iverson, brother of the bride, and George Boice of Minneapolis, the groom's uncle, served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Iverson wore a dusty rose dress with navy accessories, and the groom's mother wore a beige suit with matching accessories. Each had identical corsages of white feathered carnations and yellow tea roses.

Baskets of garden flowers decorated the church parlors for the reception following the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, centered the serving table. Church circle 7, of which Mrs. Iverson is a member, served at the reception. Miss Pat Lane cut the wedding cake and Mrs. Glenn Peterson and Mrs. Harley Wagner assisted with the serving. Mrs. John [illegible], aunt of the bride, poured.

Miss Merlynne Berge had charge of the guest book and the gift table was attended by Mrs. Robert Apostal of Duluth, Mrs. Julian W. Lendobeja, Jr., and Mrs. Derwood Lund.

A bridal dinner was given by the parents of the groom in the Terrace room of the Rex Cafe on Friday evening.

As the couple left on a four weeks trip to California, the bride was wearing the corsage from her bouquet with her wedding suit. They will be at home after September 1 at 725 University Ave. SE Minneapolis, where the groom is an instructor in the Minneapolis schools. Mrs. Boice is personnel director for Murphy Motor Freight Lines, Inc. of St. Paul. Both Mr. and Mrs. Boice are graduates of the University of Minnesota. Lois Mortrud and Sgt. G. Tonneslan Married Saturday

Marriage vows were exchanged Saturday evening, August 8, at eight o'clock in the First Lutheran church, when Lois Mortrud, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mortrud of Thief River Falls, became the bride of Sgt. Glenn Tonneslan, son of Mr. Carl Tonneseland of Fargo, N. Dak. The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Carl F. Johnson before a candlelighted altar graced with baskets of blue and white gladiolus and ferns.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, S/Sgt. Lloyd C. Mortrud of Rapid City, S. Dak., the bride was beautifully attired in a chapel length gown of white Schiffli embroidered nylon tulle over net and satin fashioned with a full bouffant skirt and strapless bodice, over which she wore a matching Spencer jacket with Peter Pan collar and long pointed sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil, of silk imported illusion and appliqued with lace, was caught in place by a tiara of orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of white gladioli centered with a white orchid; and wore a pair of pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

The bride chose as her attendants her friends, Miss Betty Hanson of Portland, Oregon, maid of honor; and Miss Marjorie Berg of Moorhead, bridesmaid. Their gowns of nylon net over net and taffeta were in cotillion blue and coronation blue, respectively, and fashioned with full bouffant skirts and full ruching trim on the off-the-shoulder effect bodices. They carried fan shaped bouquets of white daises and wore clusters of daises in their hair.

Little Michael Allen Mortrud, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. His father, S/Sgt. Lloyd Mortrud, who gave the bride in marriage, wore the uniform of the United States Air Force. The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Lemoine Webber of Roseau, and Collins Olmstead of Minneapolis. Both wore blue suits with white carnation boutonnieres. Ushers were Lloyd and Billy Beck, cousins of the bride.

The mother of the bride and aunt of the groom wore navy blue dresses with white accessories and corsages of white and pink carnations.

Mrs. Walter Ekeren at the organ played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloists. Mr. Vernon Mortrud, brother of the bride, sang "God Gave Me You" preceding the ceremony, "O Promise Me" during the ceremony, and "Through The years" at the reception. Mrs. Burton Emanuel sang "Because" before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar, and "I Love You Truly" at the reception.

A reception was held in the church parlors for 150 guests. Mrs. Lloyd Mortrud poured and Mrs. Vernon Mortrud cut the three-tiered wedding cake. Miss Monica Arnholt of Moorhead was in charge of the guest book. The Misses Olive Thorson of Thief River Falls, Jane Nelson and Dorothy Camrud of Moorhead served the bridal table. Mrs. Lemoine Webber of Roseau and Mrs. Collins Olmstead of Minneapolis, arranged the gift table.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and for the past two and a half years has been employed as secretary to Dr. Glaydon Robbins, director of the laboratory school at MSTC, Moorhead. Sgt. Tonneslan, a graduate of Newfolden high school, returned recently from French Morrocco, where he has served for eighteen months with the U. S. Air Force. After their wedding trip, the couple will make their home at Sumpter, South Carolina where Sgt. Tonneslan will be stationed. The bride's travel costume was a gray suit with a white ruffled nylon blouse, navy blue accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Besides a host of friends from Newfolden, Holt, and Middle River, the out of town wedding guests included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Collins Olmstead, Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Lemoine Webber, Roseau; Betty Hanson, Mrs. Anga Hanson, and Mrs. Hugh Grove, Portland, Oregon; S/Sgt. and Mrs. Lloyd Mortrud and family, Rapid City, S. The championship of the Red River Valley league was decided on Sunday night at Red Lake Falls when, in the replay of a protested game, the Thief River Falls Thieves defeated the Crookston Pirates, 6 to 5.

The results of the week's games clarified the league standings and clinched playoff positions for Thief River Falls, Crookston, Alvarado, and Nielsville.

According to present plans, the league playoffs will be determined by a double-elimination process. It is expected that a league meeting will be held this week to set the playoff dates and the sites for the games.

The week's play was marred by the injury of Viking's Paul Erickson. Erickson, playing at first base for Chuck Barr's team against Crookston at Crookston, suffered internal injuries when, in a close play at first base, he and the baserunner collided. Latest reports are that Erickson is on the mend, but that he will be hospitalized for a week or more.

Alaska Mission Worker to Speak

Alaska Missionary L. E. Ost, for many years in the Mission Covenant field there, will speak in next Sunday night's meeting at 7:45 in the Mission Covenant church, said Rev. L. W. Lindholm, who also stated that Missionary Ost will bring special greetings from Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Brodin.

Northern State Adds New, Faster Check Recorder

The Northern State bank recently added to its equipment a Bell and Howell 16-millimeter recorder which photographs both sides of checks on microfilm at the rate of up to 400 per minute. All checks passing thru the bank are photographed in this manner, thus assuring a complete and permanent record. The new equipment replaces a recorder that took photographs of the checks at the rate of only 30 per minute.

Archers Receive "Boner" Awards

When the prizes were distributed at the close of the archery contest south of the city Sunday afternoon Gunder Legvold included recognition of an unexpected kind when the "Boner Awards" of the year were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Canfield of Thief River Falls.

Floyd won the distinction by failing to remove the protective cover from an arrowhead in shooting at a deer last fall. It was a good hit but the rebound was as long as the shot. Mrs. Canfield was awarded the high honor for shooting at a partridge through the window of her car. Standing behind the open door she took careful aim and — wham — registered a direct hit on the window which she had forgotten to lower.

'53 Duck Season to Be Same Length as in '52

Upper Midwest duck and goose hunters will have the same length seasons and same daily and possession limits this fall as last, secretary of the interior McKay announced Monday in Washington.

Minnesota and Wisconsin gunners will have 55 consecutive days, starting after Oct. 1. Daily and possession duck limits are four and eight, geese five and five. The exact dates will be set by the states later.

Hunters throughout the United States will have one hour longer to hunt each day—from half an hour before sunrise to sunset, instead of one hour before sunset as in the past.

However, hunting won't start on opening day until noon.

Secretary McKay sees less ducks than last year due to decreased hatch in the western Canadian Provinces.

"With the breeding populations about the same and production slightly decreased," said McKay, "the forecast is for a reduced fall flight compared to 1952, but still well above the five year average."

Rotarians Told of Scout Jamboree

Morris Owen, local scoutmaster who accompanied 32 Boy Scouts from the Lake Agassiz council district to the recent scout jamboree held near Santa Ana, California, discussed highlights of the trip at the Rotary club meeting Monday noon in the Elks club rooms. Gene Bratsch, one of the three Thief River Falls scouts who made the trip also spoke briefly.

Gospel Mission Ended on Sunday

Final Service Held in Municipal Auditorium

Union Gospel Tent Mission services, which began July 19, closed with record attendance Sunday night in the municipal Auditorium where three of the four Sunday night meetings of this season were held because the tent at 4th and LaBree could not have accomodated the audiences.

Everett F. Swanson, Chicago, Baptist General Conference, who has travelled extensively, was the evangelist. Jesse K. Leise, Bremerton, Wash., was singer and song leader.

The tent which was pitched for the sixth summer on 4th and LaBree was taken down Tuesday and brought to Karlstad where it will serve as the meeting place for services under auspices of Christian Fellowship Union with Evangelist A. B. Ost, McAllen, Texas, mission director, in charge.

Tent committee tentatively is scheduled to meet Monday night, Aug. 24, at Mission Covenant church, said L. W. Lindholm, committee chairman.

Earl Saul and Jack Rosen from Crookston were here Sunday, flying a Navion.

Bonnie, the airport dog, may not be as young as she used to be, but she still has a good nose. When Father O'Toole was here Saturday morning, she started running excitedly round and round his plane, sniffing and whining. To the casual observer that could mean anything, but to those who knew Bonnie, it could mean just one thing — MOUSE. Sure enough, while every one stood quietly watching, a mouse scurried from the airplane and into a hangar, where Bonnie quickly cornered it and carried it triumphantly to Chris.

Construction at Low Ebb in City in Month of July

With 2,018 persons employed in Thief River Falls in July, little change was recorded from the total of 2,032 in June, R. S. Eldevik, manager of the state employment service office here revealed in his monthly report.

Eldevik added, however, that employment in the construction industry last month was the lowest of any midsummer month at least as far back as 1948, when the bulletin was first published.

The situation, he added, will improve now that workers are being recruited for the new hospital addition project.

Locals Take Pirates, Win RRV League Title

Swede Lund's on-the-bag throw to third baseman Gene Leslie, with Gene making the tag on the pilfering Glen Gumila for the game-ending out in the top of the 9th inning, gave lefty LeRoy Aasland a 6 to 5 win over the Crookston Pirates in the playoff of a protested game at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night.

By their victory, the Thieves won the Red River Valley league championship, marking up a record of eleven wins and one loss. The local club will now make preparations for entering the league's playoff to determine the loop's entrant in the Class B regional tourney. According to present plans, the league playoffs will be conducted on a double-elimination basis, with the circuit's top four teams participating.

For six innings Sunday night, the Crookston Pirates appeared to have the winning combination on the field, building up a 5 to 0 lead. But in the last half of the 7th inning, with the walking Joey Poole on first base, Gene Leslie blasted a Toddy Johnson pitch over the scoreboard in left field. That tremendous clout proved to be the spark that lit the fuse on a Thieves' rally, for the locals marked up four more runs to take a 6 to 5 lead, a margin to which they clung during the 8th and 9th innings.

Lefty Aasland, a graduate from this year's Prowler high school team, turned in a courageous pitching performance for the Thieves, giving up but six hits to the heavy-hitting Pirates. In the 9th inning, after Glen Gumila had been given a walk and advanced to second base on a bad throw, Aasland whiffed the dangerous Johnny Merell. Joe Rerick drew a walk; Aasland struck out pinch-hitter Loren Hegland, and then Lund made the throw to third base to erase Gumila.

In addition to Leslie's homerun, the game was highlighted by several fielding gems. In the Crookston half of the 8th inning, with Pirates on first and third and one out, Bud Schroeder, a left-handed swinger, looped a fly ball into right field that was taken for an important out by Jerry Stevens on a diving catch. The Pirates were retired scoreless in the inning when Sid Vraa gathered in Bun Holtz bid for a hit and made a fine throw to first base for the third out.

Crookston's starting hurler, southpaw Ken Dupuis, pitched three innings of no-hit and no-run ball, but left the game in the 4th inning, having a sore shoulder. Toddy Johnson, a righthander, replaced Dupuis, and Johnson pitched one-hit ball, giving up a single to Swede Lund in the 5th inning, until Gene Leslie's score-board clearing homerun in the 7th. Johnson never did complete the 7th frame or get a man out in the inning. Johnson gave a walk to Lund; Hoppe singled to centerfield; Stevens bounced a single past second base; Cal Vraa walked; and Aasland punched a ground single to right field. Aasland's blow drove Johnson off the mound, bringing southpaw Gumila in from first base to take up the Pirate pitching duties.

Thieves Defeat Warren-Argyle Twins 4-1 Friday

Locals Pile up Three Runs in 8th Inning of Game at Red Lake Falls

Playing off a postponed game with the Warren-Argyle Twins at Red Lake Falls on Friday night, the Thieves, trailing by a score of 1 to 0 after six innings of play, took advantage of four Twins errors in the 7th inning to deadlock the game at 1-all, and then rack up three runs in the 8th frame to record a 4 to 1 victory.

Righthander Gene Leslie, on the mound for the Thieves, held the Twins to three hits in scoring his second win of the year over the Warren-Argyle club. Bill Beck, also a righthander, allowed the locals but three hits in the seven innings that he toiled, with the Thieves getting their fourth hit off veteran Scott Matthews who replaced Beck in the 8th inning.

The game was a scoreless righthanded duel for five innings, with Joey Poole getting a single in the 1st inning for the only hit off Beck and Beck beating out a bunt in the 2nd inning for the Twins only safety.

Gordy Olson's single to leadoff the 6th inning, a stolen base, a sacrifice and Chuck Stewart's single off Shorty Perkins' glove, gave the Twins a 1 to 0 lead. Some erratic defensive play by the Twins infield, combined with alert base-running by the Thieves, gave the locals a run in the 7th inning, tying the score at 1-all.

In the game-winning 8th inning, Lund was safe on an error; Leslie, on a sacrifice, was safe when Beck made a high throw to first base, with Lund moving around to third base. Matthews came in to pitch for the Twins, and on a wild pitch Lund scored the tie-breaking run. Hoppe struck out; Perkins drew a walk; Stevens grounded out, pitch to first, with Leslie holding third and Perkins on second. Cal Vraa lined a single into right field, plating Leslie and Perkins.

Gene Leslie retired the side in order in the 9th inning to gain a well-earned 4 to 1 triumph.

Lions Club Views Pageant Movies

Members of the Lions club, at their luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon in the Rex Cafe, witnessed the showing by Ted Kusmak of colored movies of a pageant presented several years ago at Lake Bronson state park, depicting the early history of the area. The club also accepted an invitation extended by Bill LaFave to hold an outdoor meeting on the lawn at his home at an early date.

League Champions

The Thieves produced the season's most noteworthy athletic feat when, in the replay of a protested game, they defeated the Crookston Pirates, 6 to 5, at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night. By that triumph, the locals won the Red River Valley league championship, surprising even their most ardent supporters.

The Thieves' management protested the game that they lost to the Pirates on July 26th, claiming that Crookston had an ineligible player in their lineup. At a meeting held at Crookston on Tuesday evening of last week, the Pirate manager admitted that the player whose eligibility had been questioned and who had played against the Thieves as Larry Anderson, was in reality a Larry Doughty, and had not been on the roster of the Pirates by deadline time.

The Crookston management proposed that if the Thieves would withdraw the protest, they, the Pirates would replay the game. And further, that Anderson, or Doughty, would not be permitted to play against the Thieves in that game or in the playoffs. On that basis, Swede Lund, the Thieves' acting manager in the absence of the vacationing Phil LeGault, accepted the offer.

The result was that the Thieves, exhibiting a fine spirit and giving their young southpaw hurler LeRoy Aasland fine support, defeated the confident Pirates 6 to 5, in the replay and thus won the league championship.

Not a Healthful Solution

As far as the local club was concerned, the outcome of the protest was a success and very fortunate; but from the viewpoint of the league, it wasn't a healthful solution. It is strange that the officials of two clubs can, in an informal meeting, decide to "throw out" a game that was scheduled and played as an official league contest. Our belief is that the other six teams had a "stake" in that game, as they have in every league game, and that they should have been consulted on the protest.

Perhaps it is for the best to leave the protest as it was solved, with the Thieves winning the league championship.

The only unsatisfactory condition with regard to the Thieves' baseball is the fact that the boys, because of an inadequate playing field, have been forced to play their "home" games at Red Lake Falls. The boys, and it is doubtful it the Thieves' lineup would average at twenty years, feel that they are playing under a handicap when they use the pebbly Fair Grounds diamond. And they have a grievance, for there is the possibility that a young infielder may become "gun shy" after experiencing the weird hops that a ball will take on that diamond. It is embarrassing, too, to ask the other league teams to play on that diamond.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

"Perhaps I don't dare to come over anymore." That was the statement expressed by Grand Forks' Ken Adams as he received the championship flight award from Bob Bredeson at the conclusion of the midsummer tournament played here on Sunday. The local club has held three tournaments this season, and Adams, with a 1.000 percent average, has won all three. If last year's "Snowball Special" is included, Adams has a string of four consecutive tournament titles on the local course.

While Adams' victory was the tournament highlight, a feature of the short-stop was the first flight triumph of veteran Hans Chommie. We knew that Hans wasn't up to anything "good" when, as he has been doing the past couple of weeks, took a sack of golf balls and began practicing his "short" game on the old number one green. The result was that Sunday's first flight championship was won by Chommie.

There is an object lesson in Hans' play, too, for on Monday evening he was out on old number one again practicing his "short" game. Hans, although he won his flight championship wasn't satisfied with his approach play, being particularly critical of his "line."

The Thieves and the Saints

An age-old rivalry will be resumed at Red Lake Falls on Friday night when, at 8:30 p. m., the St. Hilaire Saints of the Northern Minny league and the Thieves of the Red River Valley league meet in an exhibition tilt.

With St. Hilaire slated to enter the Northern Minny League playoff finals on Sunday, against the winner of the Fosston vs. Erskine series, it is probable that the Saints will use Plummer's Jesse DuChamp on the mound against the Thieves, saving their regular hurler, Woody Almquist, for the important playoff opener.

The Thieves' manager, Swede Lund, will have a choice of pitchers, with righthander Gene Leslie and southpaw LeRoy Aasland both ready and willing to take the assignment. Lund, too, will take a respite from the catching duties, with Bud Olson being slated to do the backstopping for the Thieves.

Remember, game time is 8:30 p. m.

400 'U' Students to Get Degrees

Exercises Scheduled Aug. 20 in Minneapolis

The University of Minnesota will award degrees to approximately 400 students at its second summer session commencement Thursday, August 20. Exercises will be held in front of Northrop Memorial auditorium at the head of the mall on the Minneapolis campus.

Ralph W. Keller, manager of the Minnesota Editorial association, will deliver the commencement address. Title of his talk is "Limit: Twenty Minutes."

Commencement ceremonies will begin at 8 p. m. with an invocation by the Rev. Edwin C. Johnson, minister of the Congregational-Presbyterian fellowship on the St. Paul campus.

Preceding the main address, University President J. L. Morrill will speak to the candidates for degrees. He will later confer all degrees and also commissions to cadets graduating from the navy ROTC program.

Creamery Man at Lakeville Scores 100 with Butter

The scores for the 1953 June educational butter contest, conducted by the state of Minnesota were recently released by Myron W. Clark, St. Paul, commissioner of agriculture, dairy & food. They reveal that for the fourth time in the history of modern butter making in Minnesota, a perfect score of 100 has been won in a statewide contest. The man achieving this phenomenal score was J. Kenneth Conner, manager of the Lakeville Creamery Company, Lakeville, Minnesota.

In addition to winning first place in the recent June contest; Lakeville men won second and third placings, Raymond Smolak had a score of 99.84, and Richard Mahowald had a score of 99.69.

Fourth place went to Clifford Skime of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association, Roseau, whose score was 99.68, and fifth place went to Ernest H. Lindahl of the Stockholm Cooperative Creamery Association, Cokato, whose score was 99.67. There were 211 buttermakers from the state entered in the contest.

Inability to See Biggest Handicap to State Children

Failure to see properly is the most significant handicapping characteristic among children who are slow in learning to read, according to Dr. Harold L. Carlson, preident of the Minnesota Optometric Association. The statement was made as children all over the state were enjoying their last few weeks of summer vacation before the fall school terms began.

Dr. Carlson, who is from Mankato, based his statement on the results of a study conducted by the St. Louis public school reading clinic, where 924 reading failures were diagnosed to discover the major sources of their difficulties. Of these, it was found that no less than 94 per cent or 864 cases, exhibited a "common helplessness in using word perception techniques."

"Vision's prominent role' in learning to read is sharply brought out by this study, where 47 per cent or close to half of the children tested suffered from visual handicaps," said Dr. Carlson.

2,280,000 Cords Pulpwood Cut in State Last Year

1952 Harvest Reported as Second Largest on Record in Minnesota

Minnesota's forests continue to lead in the production of pulpwood in the three lake states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Forty-one pecent of the total cut of 2,280,500 cords of pulpwood is produced from state owned and private forest lands of Minnesota in 1952.

The Lake States Forest Experiment Station reports that the 1952 harvest is the second largest on record, exceeded only by the all-time high cut of 1951.

About 936,700 cords were cut in Minnesota; 554,400 cords processed in the paper mills and 382,000 cords shipped to other states. In addition about 159,000 cords were imported, mostly from Canadian forests.

The Minnesota cut was largely aspen, spruce and pine although other kinds of trees were used in the pulpwood industry. The pulpwood exported was spruce, balsam fir and pine.

About 196,000 cords of wood were cut from state-owned lands, sold on the stump by auction or small sales and cut by logging concerns or individuals by contract.

The bulk of the pulpwood is processed into paper of various grades as fine bookpaper, wallpaper, newsprint, wrapping papers and products such as paper towels. However, paper products such as picnic dishes, florist's vases, insulation and wallboard are made from some kinds of woods and wastes.

According to the Forest Industries Information Committee report for 1952, the value of products processed or used in Minnesota for the year amounted to $112,160,888, which is by far the largest item in the total value of all wood products, amounting to $162,674,718.00.

President Vetoes Bill Designed to Repeal Movie Tax

President Eisenhower Thursday vetoed a bill which would have repealed the 20 percent tax on movie tickets.

It was the first piece of legislation Eisenhower has refused to approve.

In a "memorandum of disapproval," he said he was taking this step because the government cannot afford the loss of revenue and "it is unfair to single out one industry for relief at this time."

The action amounted to a "pocket veto"—that is letting a bill go unsigned while Congress was not in session. This has the effect of killing the legislation.

The bill passed both the Senate and House overwhelmingly, despite objections by the Treasury Department.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that taxes should not be cut until a balanced budget is in sight. Treasury spokesman argued the movie theater tax brought in a needed 100 million dollars annually and, if repealed, would invite demands for similar relief from other industries.

ACREAGE CONTROL MUST COME

Wheat growers will decide Friday whether the present government support price of approximately $2.21 a bushel will be maintained for another year. Unless two-thirds of them vote in favor of this program in Friday's national referendum the support price will drop from 90% of parity to 50%.

The only question involved is whether the wheat growers are willing to go along with an acreage control schedule that will reduce next year's wheat harvest to 62 million acres. That is the cost to them of the guaranteed higher price.

The need for unlimited food production to feed a hungry world during war years has come to an end. We now have food surpluses. Wheat is just one of several commodities of which we have too much for our immediate or foreseeable future requirements. If we continue to produce more of these products than the market will absorb then either the excess must be destroyed or the entire crop will lose value. The most effective way to get rid of the excess is not to produce it.

The problem of maintaining farm prices and farm income is serious from the standpoint of the national economy as well as for the farmer himself. During the past year gross farm income has dropped an estimated 18%, and with steadily rising costs the net income has dropped still more.

The effect of this reduced farm income is already being felt in the industries that serve agriculture directly. One manufacturer of farm machinery announced last week that 1,000 workers will be laid off by August 14, bringing to a total of 1,750 the number of workers discharged in this one plant alone since July 20. The plant manager stated that curtailed production is due to a drop in sales volume. To permit the prices of farm products to drop still lower would lead inevitably to disastrous consequences.

The referendum Friday applies only to wheat. It is likely however that a program of production control will soon have to be extended to some other crops. Until we find a better way of coping with this problem of surpluses the producers have little choice but to go along with the program.

INVOLUNTARY ADMISSION

If it is fair to assume that our government's offer to give food to the hungry people of Russian controlled Germany was prompted in part by a desire to embarrass the Red masters then to this extent the project evidently is quite successful. A London labor paper thinks the Soviets have bungled an opportunity to make friends, believing they could have strengthened their position with the workers in those areas if they had encouraged the distribution of this gift food among those so clearly in desperate need of it.

To do this would have been in effect an admission that there is a food scarcity behind the iron curtain and this would not be a pleasant admission to make. But perhaps, as the London paper suggests, the Red leaders have actually made the admission by their attempts to stop the mass movements of hungry people by force. By their conduct they have helped to advertise their own shortcomings.

WHEN WORDS ARE MEANINGLESS

We quick-tripped to Minneapolis last week to help welcome to Minnesota a group of newspapermen representing European countries forming the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was a pleasant gathering and we enjoyed meeting the fellows who try to explain to their readers on the other side of the ocean the many problems nobody understands.

Nothing could be more discouraging however than an attempt to carry on a jolly conversation with dinner guests whose language you do not understand. There is little satisfaction in asking questions with words that have no specific meaning and after a few futile attempts there is nothing to do but settle down to steady eating.

We did gather that some of the visitors were of the impression that they had then invaded a hinterland which is the home of the isolationist and that we who welcomed them were peculiarly provincial in our thinking on world affairs. Being unable to set them right by any system of signs and grunts we could improvise, we came away certain that we had made no contribution to international understanding and good will and could just as well have stayed at home.

As a result of this experience we appreciate more fully the difficulties under which our representatives operate in attempting to reach a meeting of the minds with representatives of other nations. Talking through an interpreter is a very unsatisfactory way of carrying on a conversation.

Under the terms of a measure passed by the recent Congress 214,000 war refugees will be admitted to this country during the next three years. This will ease to some extent the difficult refugee problem of western Europe. Many of these displaced persons are from behind-the-curtain countries, nations that have given us good material for our melting pot in the past. Here, in the north-central section of our country, where vast developments are in the making, we should be able to absorb a fair share of these citizens-to-be in a way that will be advantageous for us as well as for them.

Rain making is a well established business in large areas of the western states. It is estimated that up to 500 million acres of land are now covered by rain-making contracts. Several companies with impressive names provide the services, the land owners paying from three to five cents an acre when it rains. There are a lot of farmers in several southwestern states who would be glad to pay well for a convincing demonstration of the effectiveness of this new sky magic. And in the southern part of our own state there are many this year who would be glad to pay a good price to anyone who will give them a few weeks of dry weather. Rain control is not yet an exact science.

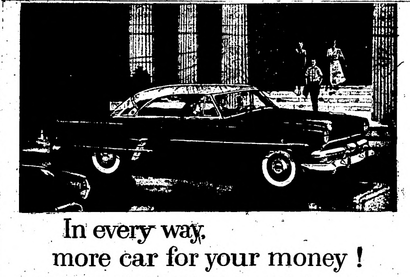
Schmidt CITY CLUB BEER

Jacob Schmidt Brewing Co., St. Paul, Minn.



In every way, more car for your money !

Ford gives you V-8 power like that of costly cars . . . fine car build . . . fine car ride and "at-home-everywhere" good looks - but the price tag never moves out of the low-price field

Everywhere you go people are making the swing to Ford. And can you blame them? Many cars costing over $1000 more offer no more of the things you need and want. Here are some of Ford's "Worth More" features . . . but to get the full story, you'll find it worth your while to Test Drive a new Ford today!

Less front-end road shock. The kind of shock you feel most is reduced up to 80% with Ford's remarkable new ride. You get a smoother, more balanced, more comfortable ride all around!

Suspended pedals work easier and make foot space of the entire floor area. Suspended pedals are also a "keep out" sign to dirt and drafts . . . make it easier to keep the floor clean!

Smooth V-8 power is exclusive to Ford in its field. And Ford's Mileage Maker is the most modern Six you can own! Both the V-8 and Six-cylinder power plants deliver their hill-leveling "go" on regular gas—and not much of that, thanks to Ford's Automatic Power Pilot!

An extra suitcase will fit into Ford's luggage compartment—the roomiest in the low-price field. In fact, Ford's combined luggage and passenger space is the greatest in the low-price field . . . compares with that of many cars of higher price.

Center-Fill Fueling permits filling your Ford from either side of the pump . . . saves you time when refueling . . . and puts an end to hose scratches on your fender!

Curved one-piece windshield (below) and large picture windows, give Ford the most "look out" area in the low-price field . . . another reason your Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . when you sell it, too!

See it...Value Check it... Test Drive it...

Standard Gasolines, desert tested to assure

TEST UNI
STANDARD SCIENTISTS BEAT VAPOR LOCK ON BLISTERING MOJAVE DESERT

In summer some gasolines actually "boil." Your engine chokes, sputters, goes dead. You're a victim of vapor lock. But not if you use Standard Gasolines. On the hot Mojave Desert, Standard scientists tested hundreds of blends of gasolines. They studied the cause—certain extra-light molecules. And they found the cure—remove them from summer gasoline and save them for fast-starting winter gas. From these tests come Standard's great no-vapor-lock summer gasolines.

Standard gasolines have been tested under torrid desert conditions to assure you trouble-free summer performance. Only Standard says, "NOW—no vapor lock!" No vapor lock . . . on top of octane ratings that match your car's requirements...on top of catalytically-cracked gasolines perfectly blended and balanced to give you the best possible combination of pick-up, power and mileage. And wherever you drive in the Midwest, you'll find the same improved and guarded quality. You'll find, too, the famous SERVICE that car owners describe as the finest treatment they get anywhere. Try Standard WHITE CROWN Premium or Standard RED CROWN Gasoline. Your first hot-day drive will prove that YOU CAN EXPECT MORE FROM STANDARD . . . AND GET IT!

ORE TRAIN TAKES A BATH

A COLD-WATER SHOWER cools hot sintered iron ore in this railroad car while Robert Tersteeg gets an ore sample. Sintering, a means of furnace fusing iron ore to make a clinker, is used extensively at this plant near Crosby, Minnesota. Currently, the process is used to agglomerate fine ores, which would not otherwise be usable in the blast furnaces. Constant experimentation with fine ores, low-grades and taconite is developing a supply of Minnesota ore which can keep mining employees working for generations to come, provided the cost of these ores can be kept down to meet the competition of ores from other areas. A fair deal for Minnesota's iron mining industry means a good deal for you.
